Addresses Legion in Earlier Speech.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover this afternoon uttered a message of hope and encouragement to the workers of the nation as represented in the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. The President told the convention that cooperation resulting from conferences which he initiated has materially minimized the adverse effects of the business depression, that wage levels have been generally maintained, that industrial strife has been reduced to a minimum and that some of the slack in employment has been taken up by the speeding up of public works construction.

President Hoover expressed his confident belief that the future of the American wage earner is secure. He said that there could be no lowering of wage or living standards, but, on the contrary, these should improve steadily.

He called for nation-wide teamwork to pull the country out of the slump and set it once more on the high road to prosperity.

Sees New Economic Idea.

The President, in discussing before the labor delegates the development of the American basis of wages, said that in the last few years both employers and workers had progressed toward a new economic concept which has had a profound effect on our economic progress. "It is the conception," he explained, "that industry must be constantly renovated by scientific research and invention; that labor welcomes these labor saving devices; that labor gives its full and unrestricted effort to reduce costs by the use of these machines and methods; that the savings from these reduced costs shall be shared between labor, employer, and the consumer."

Referring to the displacement of as many as 2,000,000 workers by labor saving devices and a breakdown of wages on account of destructive competition Mr. Hoover said that one key to a solution of the problem lies in a reduction of this competition possibly by a revision of regulatory laws. This was interpreted as a suggestion for amendment of anti-trust laws.

Addresses Veterans, Too.

The labor speech was Mr. Hoover's second here today. Earlier in the day he addressed the annual convention of the American Legion and assured the world war veterans that the government has dealt as generously with their disabled and needy as has been possible without overloading the burden of taxation.

Immediately after his labor speech Mr. Hoover left on his special train for a 21 hour run to King's Mountain, N. C., where tomorrow he is to speak at the sesqui-centennial of the revolutionary war battle.

Former President Calvin Coolidge almost "stole the show" from his successor at the American Legion convention. Mr. Coolidge, one of a long list of notables to be introduced to the audience following the President's speech, was forced after a demonstration lasting for more than two minutes, to say something.

Utters a Cryptic Sentence.

Mr. Coolidge, who as President vetoed the soldiers' bonus bill, advanced to the microphone at the speaker's platform, addressed the chairman, the President, and guests and suddenly raised his voice to a high pitch.

"We save the time of this convention. I will give you only one sentence," said Mr. Coolidge. "You have paid your debt to Lafayette but you still owe a debt to yourselves and to the United States of America."

The more than 7,000 persons in the hockey arena where the Legion meeting was held, again cheered the former President as they pondered on the significance of his cryptic remark.

In his speech to the Legionnaires President Hoover dealt with ideals and purposes of the Legion as stated in the preamble of its constitution, which he said "must be translated into cold realism of the today talks of citizenship."

The President's reference to his approval of a resolution of congress for creation of a commission to study the question of the universal draft in wartime was vigorously applauded.

Coolidges Join in Applause.

Both the former President and Mrs. Coolidge, occupying front seats on the platform, frequently applauded during the address of Mr. Hoover. Mr. Coolidge was the first to applaud when the President came closest to a direct reference to prohibition. This was

80,000 Rebels March on Rio de Janeiro

BRAZIL PLANES RAIN BOMBS ON INSURGENT CITY

More States Revolt as Army Advances.

Cuba's Troubles

Economic experts formulate plan to curb immediately world production of sugar in effort to head off impending revolt in Cuba. Survey by special correspondent sent to Cuba by The Tribune shows Cuban revolutionary rumblings due entirely to crash of sugar prices. Dispatch will be found on Page 2.

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 6.—The insurrection in Brazil rapidly spread from state to state today, despite the tremendous distances involved, and the rebel forces, increasing like a snowball as they advanced, had gathered an army of 80,000 tonight. The revolutionists are organized into columns and are advancing on Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro.

The avowed intent of the rebels is to overthrow the government of President Washington Luiz, revoke the election of President-elect Julio Prestes, who according to the Liberal leaders won by fraud, and hold new elections.

Planes Bomb City.

The federal government is not inactive, however, and from both rebel and government sources it is learned that federal planes today were bombing Bello Horizonte, state capital of Minas Geraes which was reported to have declared for the Rio Grande do Sul rebels when Olegario Maciel, president of the state, threw his lot in with theirs. Should the federal government lose the whole state of Minas Geraes it has a big task ahead of it, but it is reported that some of the federal troops there are remaining loyal.

Seize State's Railroads.

An official bulletin issued by Joao Francisco Pereyra de Souza, the aged chief of the revolutionaries, states that his troops have comandeered the railroads in the state Santa Catharina. His troops entered the state on Sunday to capture Florianopolis but it surrendered after very brief opposition to a local rebel, Gen. Miguel Costa.

At the same time the revolutionaries claim success in the state of Parana. This would give them a wide front on which to operate against the government strongholds of Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. They are reported to be conscripting all able bodied men between the ages of 21 and 35.

It is said here that de Souza is only the ostensible head of the revolt, the man behind the scenes being Osvaldo Aranha, a political leader, who is pulling the strings with former President Arthuro Bernades in the background.

Air Mail Tied Up.

Argentine maritime authorities here refuse to clear ships bound for Rio Grande do Sul ports, and it is considered unlikely that the east coast air mail can continue its service since Rio de Janeiro messages state that the government there has suspended the services out of the country on the Pan-American, French Postal, and Condor lines.

Private dispatches indicate that the state of Pernambuco is now dominated by the rebel forces led by Col. Suarez Tabora. The roster of states apparently completely under the rebel banner include Rio Grande do Sul, Pernambuco, Parahyba, Minas Geraes, and Santa Catharina. In addition they are receiving considerable support in Parana, Piahuy, Ceara, Rio Grande do Norte, and Matto Grosso.

The news regarding the revolution arriving here is necessarily conflicting, but there are plentiful indications that it is more widespread than the Brazilian government will admit, while at the same time it is doubtful if it is as uniformly successful as the revolutionists themselves claim.

Success Depends on Speed.

Brazilian circles here declare that the federal government is equipped to stifle the revolution quickly and the opinion prevails that the revolt is doomed unless it goes with a swing from the start—which is precisely the point in doubt at the present moment, due to the one sided nature of

SUES FOR TRIP IN PLANE THAT HIT GAS TANK

Elmer W. Arch, an attorney of 320 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park, yesterday filed suit for $50,000 against the Universal Air Lines. On Aug. 9, the attorney said, he chartered a plane from the Universal Lines for a trip to Louisville, Ky. The plane was the Magic Carpet, which on Aug. 11 plunged into a large gas tank on Elston avenue near Division street, killing the pilot, Orville Suchy, and two girl passengers.

Attorney Arch said that the declaration of his suit will charge that the plane was not airworthy, that the pilot had never before flown at night and that the Universal Air Lines had failed to carry out their contract. On the return trip from Louisville the Magic Carpet made a forced landing near Springfield, Ill., and Mr. Arch said he came on to Chicago in a bus.

Dedication of Harding Tomb Is Called Off

Marion, O., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Harding Memorial association, at its eighth annual meeting here today, adopted a resolution to drop for the present all plans for the dedication of the Harding tomb built in 1926.

At the same time the members went on record as opposed to any step that might give a political atmosphere to the ceremonies and voted disapproval of the action of the Ohio Republican convention in naming a committee to arrange for the dedication.

The resolution to postpone the dedication plans was offered by former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, one of the sixteen members present at the meeting. It was approved unanimously.

Text of Resolution.

Daugherty's resolution follows:

"A belated dedication is not necessarily a reflection upon the dead, but a dedication grudgingly given is a compliment neither to the dead nor to those who participate in the ceremonies.

"Now, the American people, as a people, have never been swayed by the lip of libel or the tongue of slander and their devotion to his memory and their judgment of his virtue and merit is the final answer and appropriate reward to his labors.

Half Million Contributors.

"More than half a million people made their contributions to this beautiful monument to his enduring memory.

"And when more than 75,000 persons each month stop at this monument to partake of the story of the lives of those who rest there, the foam of falsehood will soon cease to scare the timid or ambitious and all will be well in the future."

RIGHT TO SEIZE LIQUOR IN CLUB LOCKER TESTED

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Suit to test the constitutionality of taking whisky from a locker in the Pendennis club by federal agents during a raid Aug. 9 was filed in United States District court here today by Walker H. Bowman Jr. The suit is against Thomas J. Sparks, United States district attorney; Joseph Phillips, deputy prohibition administrator, and Paul Sullivan, agent, on whose information the search warrant was obtained.

The petition set out that Mr. Bowman, a member of the Pendennis club, rented locker 37 in the athletic department last April, taking exclusive possession and control.

The petition alleges that agents took from Emil O. Nutt, then manager of the club, a master key which fitted all lockers and obtained from the petitioner's locker, without his knowledge or authority, a pint bottle partly filled with whisky.

Nashville, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—James Meyer, 58, Democratic candidate for county treasurer, was killed tonight when the automobile he was driving collided with a car containing four Francisco, Ind., youths. Gus H. Cohlmeyer, 62, Democratic candidate for sheriff, was injured.

Bride Missing; Body Found as Tragedy Clew

The body of an unidentified woman, which was found near the Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation in northern Wisconsin Wednesday, was believed last night to be that of Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, 2907 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Hackett was last heard from in July while on a honeymoon in Wisconsin with George W. E. Perry, who married her last June after striking up a friendship through a want ad.

Ask to Be on Watch.

A teletype message addressed to all Chicago police stations was sent out late last night asking police to be on the lookout for a Studebaker Victorian sedan Illinois license number 1-299-705, owned by Mrs. Hackett and in which she and Perry took their honeymoon trip. It was this same car, according to Police Sergeants Joseph Starshak, Michael Phelan, and Edward Weber, which Perry later drove alone to Cleveland to meet his first wife, Mrs. Kathryn Gebhardt Perry.

Perry, according to Starshak, is wanted for questioning and may still be in the city. The Wisconsin authorities also wish to question Perry on his bride's disappearance.

Body Is Described.

The body is in such a condition that it offers few clews to identification and the Vilas county authorities sent it to Milwaukee for expert help.

Dr. Edward L. Miloslavitch, Milwaukee pathologist, said last night that even the woman's clothing, described as a riding habit, was partly disintegrated. He said the body was that of a woman about 5 feet 4 inches tall. Her clothing was purchased in Chicago. Her upper teeth were complete except for the last molar on each side. There was a gold crown on the second premolar on each side of the uppers, and a gold inlay at the side of each of the first incisors. The age was estimated anywhere from 25 to 45 years.

The Wisconsin authorities hope to find Mrs. Hackett's dentist in Chicago and complete the identification through him.

Widow of U. S. Operative.

Mrs. Hackett was 42 years old, and was 5 feet 6 inches tall. She was the widow of a federal secret service operative who served under President Roosevelt. Recently she had been selling life memberships for the Art institute. Her sudden marriage June 16 to Perry was known to only a few friends, among them Mrs. W. H. Rogers, 919 Buena avenue, and Edward J. Geiger, sports editor of the Chicago Evening American. It was through Mrs. Rogers and through Perry's legitimate wife in Cleveland that suspicion was aroused that the body found in the Wisconsin wilds was that of Mrs. Hackett.

On June 8 Mrs. Hackett answered a want ad advertising for a lady companion to drive to California with all expenses paid. She received a response advising her to call at the Y. M. C. A., 826 South Wabash avenue. She did so, expecting to meet a woman. Instead she met Perry.

Perry Tells of Wealth.

Perry told her his mother was wealthy, had homes in California and Newport News, and that he himself had a residence in England. However, he said, his mother considered him a spendthrift, and had urged him to marry.

"Now, if you can supply $500, we'll be married, and I'm sure mother will be satisfied," Perry confided to Mrs. Hackett, according to friends of Mrs. Hackett.

Mrs. Hackett waited several days, then told Mr. Geiger and later Mrs. Rogers of her plan to accept Perrys proposal. Perhaps it wasn't best, she

Chauffeur Slugged, Threatened.

Mrs. Mary Walker Thompson, wife of Mayor Thompson, was held up by three armed bandits in front of her home, the Barry apartments, at 3100 Sheridan road, at 11:30 o'clock last night and robbed of jewelry and money amounting to $18,000. Her chauffeur, Peter J. O'Malley, a policeman, was disarmed and his star taken from him.

The mayor's wife collapsed in a faint on the sidewalk following the sensational holdup and was carried to her apartment by neighbors, among them Max Balaban, theater magnate, and his wife. Mrs. Thompson became hysterical and was placed under the care of Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel, the mayor's personal physician, who arrived at the Thompson residence fifteen minutes after the crime.

Dr. Kegel described Mrs. Thompson as being "very ill." Mayor Thompson returned home two and a half hours after the robbery. He refused to make a statement.

Mayor Demands Action.

Mayor Thompson, it was reported later, turned to policemen in his apartment and uttered an edict for action.

"I want action, boys," he declared with a trace of action. "Remember what I say. I want action, and I want action immediately."

Jewelry taken from Mrs. Thompson consisted of a six carat diamond ring valued at $8,000, a bracelet containing 40 diamonds, valued at $4,000, and a brooch set with 140 small stones, valued at $6,000.

First flash of the brazen stickup was given the Sheffield avenue police by the police chauffeur, O'Malley, shortly before midnight, and within five minutes every squad car in the city was in search of the outlaws. Chief of Detectives John Norton and Lieut. Walter Storms were among the first to reach the scene. Detectives could not determine whether the crime was a chance job or one deliberately planned. Nor were they agreed whether the gunmen knew their prospective victim was the mayor's wife.

Returning from Theater.

Mrs. Thompson, out for the first time in two years at an evening entertainment, had attended the play at the Harris theater with Mrs. Florence Burkhart, her sister and widow of a former Thompson cabinet member. O'Malley called for them about 11 o'clock and drove them to the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West, where Mrs. Burkhart lives. She alighted from the car there.

A few minutes later Mrs. Thompson in the car arrived at the Barry avenue entrance of the 3100 Sheridan road apartment building. As O'Malley applied the brakes another motor car, a small Nash containing four men, edged alongside, passed in front, backed up, and halted. O'Malley turned his bright lights full on the car ahead, stepped from his machine, and started around the front to assist Mrs. Thompson out of the side door.

Close In on Policeman.

As he did so a young man emerged from the other car and jostled him. At the same instant two other closed in on him and Mrs. Thompson. All carried guns. The mayor's wife was ordered to step from the limousine and O'Malley to reenter it.

One of the men, whom Mrs. Thompson described later as handsome and about 19 years old, pressed a revolver against her temple. Another, also young, but dark, pressed a pistol against her side. The two escorted Mrs. Thompson to the vestibule entrance of the building, while the third sat alongside the chauffeur.

"Give us that ring," commanded one of the gunmen of Mrs. Thompson. She handed it over.

"Now the bracelet and the pin," he ordered. He refused to take her wrist watch and the mesh bag, containing $40.

Bandit a "Copper Hater."

The robbery of the mayor's wife took several minutes, and it was during this time that O'Malley barely escaped death from the third thief, who described himself as a "copper hater." He sat alongside O'Malley in the front seat, prodding him with his revolver, and began searching him. O'Malley's empty holster caught his eye.

"What's this?" he inquired.

"Only a holster," replied O'Malley.

"What are you doing with it?" persisted the gunman. He turned on the small board light of the Thompson car, but doused it quickly when the accomplice, who still was sitting at the wheel of the bandit car, cautioned

Buyers Need Wait No Longer for Perfection in Radios

Automobiles used to be cranked by hand. One-man tops used to require the efforts of three or four able-bodied men. Changing tires used to mean a delay of at least half an hour. The automobile pioneers couldn't think of everything. They made cars as well as they knew how, and they improved them as fast as experiment and research permitted.

The same thing has been true in the radio industry. Those who bought radios in the past got all there was in radio up to the time they purchased.

The millions of dollars spent on radio research and experiment these past few years have developed a standard of radio reception that will make the owner of an older set refuse to believe his ears. One authority states that "1930-'31 sets have reached such a point of standardized perfection that engineers will find it difficult to make radical changes in them."

Those who have been waiting for radios to be perfected before buying need wait no longer.

his pal against giving O'Malley a chance to see his face. O'Malley remained mum until the question was repeated; then remarked casually that he was merely "carrying it." The robber tore open O'Malley's coat, exposing his police star.

Takes O'Malley's Gun.

"A policeman!" he exclaimed. The chauffeur, sensing his precarious situation, attempted to explain he was substituting for the regular police driver, and was not a policeman.

"You're a cop," snarled the bandit, "and I ought to give it to you in the belly."

For a moment the gunman hesitated, and then began a search for O'Malley's revolver. He found it on the front seat, covered by a blanket, pocketed it and yanked O'Malley's star from his vest. His attention was diverted the next instant, as his pals, their robbery of Mrs. Thompson completed, emerged from the vestibule. A few steps behind was Mrs. Thompson, on the verge of hysteria.

"They got everything I had, jewelry, pocketbook, everything," she cried. She screamed and fell in a faint as the gunmen leaped aboard their machine and sped away. Her cries attracted the Balabans and two passersby, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Guggenheim, 524 Briar place.

Chases Fleeing Robbers.

O'Malley, weaponless, followed the trio at a mad pace, dodging in and out among intervening cars, and gradually closed in on them. The chase ended, however, at Wellington street and Southport avenue when a Yellow taxi cut in and blocked O'Malley. Realizing he could not catch the robbers, he raced to the Sheffield avenue station and notified Capt. Duffy and Lieut. Steve Barry, who hurried to the Thompson residence.

Mrs. Burkhart was notified of the robbery after midnight and called at her sister's residence. She had not noticed any one following them after they left the theater, she said. Policeman O'Malley said he believed the men might have waited for them near the apartment building. He left about 1:30 o'clock with Chief Norton and Lieut. Storms.

A large crowd, learning of the holdup, gathered at the Barry avenue entrance where the crime was committed. Most of them awaited the return of the mayor. He arrived at 2 o'clock, entering through the Sheridan road entrance.

RAPS HOOSIERS WHO BUY CHICAGO GANGSTERS' RUM

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick today took official cognizance of the operations of Al Capone and other Chicago gangsters during a liquor case hearing. The judge asked the defendant, Edward Powers, where he got the 76 gallons of alcohol found in a storage place.

"I got it from a man named Tony Pasquelli of Chicago, who called me up and told me to meet him," said Powers. When Powers' attorney asked clemency for his client, the judge said:

"Here's a man working for a Chicago gangster. If a South Bend citizen is sucker enough to work into the hands of a Chicago gangster, he should take his medicine. If we can't get the gangster, we must get the Hoosier sucker.

"If Al Capone got the idea that all he had to do was to get a representative in the community to handle alcohol, and then, when that man is caught, turn around and get some one else, how can we discourage the business?"

The judge imposed on Powers a suspended sentence of four years at Leavenworth penitentiary.

Shut Down All Banks.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

SANTOS, Brazil, Oct. 6.—All banks here, in Sao Paulo and in Rio de Janeiro, and probably in other centers, were officially ordered closed at noon today by the federal authorities. This measure has undoubtedly been taken to prevent a run on the national currency, as the order closing the banks stated that the next fifteen days have been declared as official holidays.

Warships Join Revolt.

MONTIVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 6.—A telegram received here late tonight from Gen. Flores da Cunha states the entire federal force in the states of Parana and Santa Catharina have gone over to the revolutionists, which, with their own state troops, gives them an army of 80,000 men in three southern states. This army embraces all three arms of the military service, infantry, cavalry, and artillery, and is well equipped for a long campaign.

Gen. da Cunha claims the warships Bahia and Rio Grande do Sul, which were sent against Rio Grande do Sul, have joined the revolutionists. It is also announced a large rebel contingent has begun to march against Sao Paulo under the command of Getulio Vargas, president of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, whom President-elect Prestes defeated in the March presidential elections.

Mobilize Freight Facilities.

Forty locomotives and 400 freight cars have been assembled at the important railroad center of Santa Maria in Rio Grande do Sul to move troops over the railroad which connects Santa Maria with Sao Paulo through the states of Santa Catharina and Parana.

Among the prisoners taken by the revolutionists is Gen. Azevedo, commander in chief of the federal forces of Minas Geraes, who was to have been minister of was in Dr. Prestes' munications and declared a state of siege throughout the republic until Dec. 31.

The federal government has stopped railroad communication with Minas Geraes, closed wireless stations, and is exercising severe censorship on all internal as well as international communications.

Banks and business houses in Santa Ana and other important cities in Rio Grande do Sul opened for business as usual this morning with the state activities completely in the hands of the revolutionists who appear to have restored order.

What's Wrong in Cuba? Sugar! But It Seems to Be Baseball

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 6. — With rumblings of a revolution in the air, Cuba is more interested in the world series than anything else, if crowds and their conversation are a true barometer. Nevertheless, behind the scenes economic experts are moving rapidly to win "the race against revolt" with a plan to curb sugar production in Cuba as well as in the rest of the world.

Sugar is the real reason behind the Cuban unrest. Riding in what was probably the first automobile ever manufactured, I jolted down the streets of Havana to see what is going on in this neighboring republic. I saw five minutes after I had left the boat.

Runs Into a "Riot."

A great crowd, patrolled by many policemen, shouting and waving their arms, stood in the middle of Parque Central in the heart of Havana. I told the chauffeur to hurry so I might see the rioting. On arriving, I heard cries of "Vive Earnshaw — Juga la pelota." Looking up, I saw a great blackboard bearing the sign "Filadelfia y San Luis," and knew that the mob was cheering the world series baseball game.

Elsewhere I found all quiet on the surface, but there is an undercurrent of uneasiness, with enough of different troubles to make three dozen revolutions. The grievances, however, are mostly economic, and Thomas L. Chadbourne, noted New York lawyer, representing a group of sugar owners, is down here working on a world plan for "limiting the production of sugar and providing for carrying overproduction."

Sugar Growers Back Plan.

Mr. Chadbourne's plan already has the backing of most of the sugar growers of the world, but it never has been put up to President Gerardo Machado officially. He has been working with the full knowledge of the United States state department, but without official recognition.

Cuba's trouble, every one here agrees, is the fact that sugar sold at 22 cents a pound in 1920 and is now selling at 1.12 cents per pound, or less than half the cost of production.

Like most other countries, Cuba holds the president responsible for hard times, and there is no doubt that Cuba is poverty stricken right now.

Reasons for Uneasiness.

There are more than three reasons why Cuba is ripe for revolution, but here are three leading causes given by those who know true conditions why a revolution is not likely.

First, money is a luxury here. Folks living in the tropics need few clothes and few other things that take money, but a revolution would cost lots of money. They are content with little money.

Second, there is no powerful rebel leader to capitalize the present unrest. The two leaders opposing President Machado most talked about are Col. Carlos Mendieta and Cosme de la Tirriente, and they are not yet powerful enough to take control.

Third, the personal strength of President Machado is tremendous. He has the situation well in hand, with power to assume almost a dictatorship if necessary. The senate and congress voted him those powers last week.

Plan to Cut Sugar Output.

"The economic situation in Cuba," said Mr. Chadbourne today, "is more than 99 per cent—it is 100 per cent of the political crisis. With the upturn of prices the political troubles will clear up."

The sugar crop is 55 per cent of Cuba's industry, and with the world production passing 26,000,000 tons, the markets are glutted. It is a world-wide problem, but it interests Cuba most because it is Cuba's main problem.

Mr. Chadbourne has a definite proposal for the coöperation of sugar producers in the United States, its colonies, Hawaii and the Philippines, and Cuba. The Cuba sugar interests agree to limit their exportations of sugar to the United States next year to 2,800,000 tons, provided the Americans agree to hold their sugar production at its present level. Under such an agreement Cuba would cut sugar exports to the United States by almost 400,000 tons the first year.

Increase in Two Years.

The tentative agreement further provides that Cuba may increase during the next two years its sugar exportation sufficiently to cover increased sugar consumption in the United States. After a two year period the increase in sugar consumption will be prorated among Cuba, the United States, and its possessions, each being allowed to increase production to meet the demand.

The time element is the biggest thing, however, and unless a better price can be obtained at once for sugar, political troubles are inevitable, according to observers here.

Meanwhile, the thing that hits the observer full in the eye is the fact that there has not been an economic revolution long ago. The conditions attending the price of sugar here are the same as if wheat fell to 15 cents a bushel in the United States, and other commodities dropped correspondingly. It is easy to see that such is a severe test and packed with dynamite for any kind of government, whether it be Cuban or American or in any other section of the world.

McGOORTY CALLS NEW GRAND JURY TO RACKET WAR

Stresses Peril of Gangs' Activities.

Members of the October grand jury were directed yesterday by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court to use their power "wisely and fearlessly" against racketeering and racketeers. In charging the new jury, of which Solomon T. Kiddoo, 9812 Longwood drive, vice president and treasurer of the Fairbanks-Morse company, is foreman, Judge McGoorty told the jurors that the community is depending upon them.

"Under the direction of this court, the September grand jury began an investigation of racketeering in Cook county," Judge McGoorty informed the jurors. "Investigation thus begun has revealed conditions of oppression and extortion which no free community should longer tolerate.

"Men with well known criminal records have brazenly and defiantly flaunted the law, preying upon and sometimes acquiring control of legitimate enterprises.

"Menace to Government."

"Our prosperity is menaced. The price of their depredations is passed on to the consumer. They have acquired political influence whose deadly blight tends to palsy the hand of the law. They are a menace to free government.

"The September grand jury, in their report, set forth that racketeering partakes practically of every form of criminality and strikes at the fundamentals of liberty of action. They find the people of Cook county facing a situation requiring extraordinary measures of inquiry and enforcement of the law.

"They further find that the growth of racketeering is the inevitable result of indifference on the part of citizens and authorities. If this is true, it is a severe and just indictment of both. Public apathy and public indifference are hard to overcome. The press of Chicago and action by various civic bodies tend to show that the public has awakened to the momentous crisis confronting them.

Cites Toll of Rackets.

"When the September grand jury reports that the operations of racketeers are costing Chicago $100,000,000 annually, accompanied by murder of business men and labor leaders, apathy and indifference, if it yet exists, should change to arouse determination of our citizens to apprehend and punish the guilty.

"Will business men and labor leaders accept the challenge of the September grand jury and unitedly give their aid and coöperation in the pending efforts for law enforcement in Cook county? Now is the time for every self-respecting citizen to dedicate himself to purging Chicago of lawlessness.

"Crime must be fought on every front. It must be fought at its source. The great task begun by the September grand jury must be vigorously pursued by you."

Quotes Labor Officials.

Judge McGoorty then discussed recent utterances by "officers and members of labor organizations of the highest integrity," and said he had no reason to question the good faith of the prosecution. It is as much the duty of the law to protect labor organizations against criminals as it is to protect other legitimate enterprises, the judge declared, and the jury was advised that it would have little difficulty in distinguishing between legitimate labor organizations and racketeering groups with criminal purposes.

The judge said he hoped the announced conferences of the Association of Commerce representatives with Federation of Labor representatives would promote industrial peace and good will, and added that both can do much to improve the morale of Chicago.

"You are possessed of great power," Judge McGoorty told the jurors in closing. "I charge you to use it so that the majesty of the law will be vindicated in Cook county."

SEXUAL MORALS BEST IN RUSSIA, CONCLUDES DIRECTOR OF SURVEY

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Robert Barrett, national president of the Florence Crittenden mission in America, returned from a survey of sex standards in Europe today with the statement that Russia is the most moral country in the world.

Dr. Barrett, who debarked from the liner Westernland, said he found Sweden, Norway, and Switzerland highly moral on sex matters. France liberal on the question of illegitimacy, and England a bit prudish still.

"In Russia there are no inhibitions," he said, "and where there are no inhibitions there is a minimum of temptations. There is no inducement to laxity in sex life when it is regarded as a natural thing.

"Marriage is a civil contract. A marriage ceremony may occur one day and a divorce follow the next if the couple find themselves incompatible. Of course, divorce where there are children is a more complicated matter."

100 BRITISH TARS MUTINY; 25 RUN WILD ON RIVIERA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Twenty-five British sailors bawling obscene songs and defying French gendarmes, who were instructed to arrest them, were reeling from bar to bar along the Riviera tonight after a mutiny, in which more than 100 participated aboard the cruiser Revenge, at anchor in the Golfe Juan, between Cannes and Nice.

Defying order 100 tars quit the boat without leave Saturday night. The mutineers were clustered on the terrace of water front cafés of the village of Golfe Juan and already roaring drunk when the commanding officer stepped out of a launch and demanded to know what they meant by leaving the ship without permission.

Threaten Commanding Officer.

The sailors answered with hisses and oaths, and threatening to throw the officer into the harbor. The demonstration became a riot and gendarmes were hastily called to break it up, while the officer retreated into the launch.

The mutiny has continued since, but until today not a word leaked out owing to the strict censorship regulated by British authorities.

When the rumors of the mutiny reached Paris and London tonight, THE TRIBUNE dispatched a correspondent from Nice to the British warship. The officers of the Revenge denied there was any mutiny, and the police of Golfe Juan and Cannes backed the official version. THE TRIBUNE correspondent, furnished with precise information from the mutinous sailors still on shore and admissions from the police of other towns on the Riviera, finally secured a complete statement from the Cannes authorities.

Forty Return to Ship.

The police statement disclosed that the wholesale mutiny was much more serious than even the most exaggerated rumors earlier in the evening. Only 25 sailors are still holding out. Forty returned sullenly to the ship Sunday morning and were immediately driven in irons. Another group surrendered Monday.

The 25, who are still at large, have sworn that they will fight to death rather than return to the ship. The police all along the Riviera have been instructed to apprehend them, but an organized hunt has not been made. The sailors are now penniless but are obtaining "drinks on the house" everywhere they enter. The police confess themselves helpless to deal with the situation.

Four of the mutineers have been proclaimed deserters, have been absent from the ship a week. The others will also be proclaimed deserters unless they surrender soon. According to the sailors, the mutiny has been smoldering for weeks and the officers actually fear for their lives. The steel and iron fisted discipline and extravagant punishments for trivial offenses is given as the cause of the revolt by the sailors.

Girl Rescues Brother from Lake

CATHERINE AND JOHN DELORT.

GRANTS OUSTER OF LAKE FOREST SCHOOL BOARD

Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, in Waukegan yesterday granted a motion of the Deerfield-Shields High school board of education for the ouster of the Lake Forest High school board of education, in quo warranto proceedings brought to test the validity of the statute under which the Independent Lake Forest board was created.

The decision is to be appealed to the Supreme court by stipulation and is expected to come up for hearing before that body within a week.

Opposition to the combined Deerfield-Shields-Lake Forest school system was led by Frederick Held of Lake Forest, who said that under this system Lake Forest residents pay 47 per cent of the taxes for support of the Deerfield school, while only 200 of the 1,200 students are from Lake Forest.

Judge Shurtleff believes the act of the legislature which authorizes communities of 3,000 residents to establish their own high schools, is unconstitutional because it apparently would prohibit a community of less than 3,000 in an isolated district from establishing a high school.

LAKE FOREST'S POLICE PRAISED BY COUNCILMEN

The municipal council of Lake Forest last night passed a resolution commending Police Chief Lester Tiffany and members of the police force for efficiency in combatting crime and especially the two patrolmen who arrested Antonio Rendon of Chicago within two hours after he had staged a holdup at the home of Mrs. Leverett Thompson early last Wednesday.

Rendon later was arraigned in Waukegan and committed to the Elgin Hospital for the Insane.

Mayor A. B. Dick Jr., who presented the resolution, said that "it is a source of great satisfaction to residents of Lake Forest to know that members of the police force are always on the job."

GIRL RISKS DEATH TO SAVE BROTHER FROM THE LAKE

Risking death, Catherine Delort, 12 years old, 2630 Best avenue, reached over the lake breakwater at the foot of Webster avenue late yesterday, and rescued her brother, John, 9 years old, who had fallen into the water.

John had slipped from the end of the jetty and had been washed away. Then a backwash carried him to the breakwater and the girl, lying prone on the jetty, reached out, seized her brother, and hauled him in.

Both were drenched when Lincoln park police reached them. They were taken to the police station, wrapped in blankets, and given hot milk, and later taken home.

George N. Malstrom Made Superintendent of Mails

George N. Malstrom, 54 years old, who has been connected with the postal service since 1913, yesterday became superintendent of mails, supplanting John F. Sikyta, who has served forty-one years with the post-office department. Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder announced that the shift was made on recommendation of postal inspectors who have been conducting a survey here with a view of increasing the efficiency of the department. Mr. Sikyta becomes assistant superintendent of mails, in charge of printing and supplies, the position formerly held by Mr. Malstrom.

REGISTER TODAY! IT'S LAST CHANCE BEFORE ELECTION

All Voters in County Must Be Recorded.

The eligible voters of Chicago and Cook county who have not yet registered for the general election of Nov. 4, as required by law, have a final opportunity today to qualify themselves at the last registration before the election.

Registration booths will be open from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m. today in every precinct in the county, and after the registration books are closed tonight no one who has failed to appear personally and qualify will be able to vote next month.

Every Voter Must Register.

This is the first year that the new registration law has been effective, making it necessary that every voter in the county be registered, instead of only those under the jurisdiction of the Chicago board of election commissioners. For this reason, political leaders have made a particular effort to inform the voters in the numerous country towns outside the jurisdiction of the election commissioners about their new duty of registration.

Of approximately 200,000 eligible voters in the country towns, less than 60,000 registered on Sept. 27, leaving more than 140,000 to register today or else be disqualified.

The Republican county organization has paid especial attention to the country towns registration, on the theory that these precincts are largely Republican and votes lost by failure to register will hurt the party just that much.

Mrs. McCormick Assailed.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent candidate for United States senator, assailed Ruth Hanna McCormick's expenditures for the Republican senatorial nomination in a speech yesterday at a forum meeting of the Chicago City club, and asserted that a "vote for the Republican nominee was a vote for the vicious city hall gang."

The independent candidate, preparing to launch her downstate campaign tour tomorrow, pictured a "veritable reign of terror if the city hall machine succeeds in gaining control of the state." "Illinois," she said, "is in the throes of a political upheaval. Honest citizens are rising to protest against dishonest politics."

Speaking on the "futility of voting for Mrs. McCormick, who unquestionably will be denied a seat in the senate," Mrs. O'Neill read the resolution adopted by the senate during the Newberry case in which the senator-elect from Michigan was denied a seat in the senate for expending $195,000 in his campaign. The resolution condemned the $195,000 as excessive expenditures and Mrs. O'Neill said this sum was only a little more than half of what Mrs. McCormick had spent.

WOMEN TO HOLD 3 MEETINGS IN CAUSE OF WETS

Three meetings to acquaint Chicago women with the aims and objects of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform have been scheduled for this week. One of them, at least, will present on the same platform two old friends now in active opposition to each other on different sides of the prohibition problem. They are Mrs. Harvey Tyler, executive secretary of the prohibition reform forces, and Mrs. Ella Oliver Stewart, a prominent member of the W. C. T. U.

The debate between Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Tyler will be held Thursday night at 635 South Ashland boulevard before the Women's Trade Union league. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. George Brennan of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will address a meeting of the German-American Women's club at the Steuben club on the policies of the organization. The third meeting will be held Friday night at the home of Miss Florence Dauphin, 1412 East 68th street. Women of the eighth ward are invited on that occasion.

CHICAGO GUNMAN IS INDICTED FOR GIRL'S MURDER

The Lake county grand jury at Waukegan yesterday returned a suppressed indictment charging Harry Higgins, Chicago and St. Paul gunman and ex-convict, with the murder of the unidentified young woman whose body was found in the charred ruins of a cottage at Deep lake last March 9.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered by Col. A. V. Smith, Lake county prosecutor, for the arrest of Higgins, who is at large. An operative for the Hargrave Detective agency testified that a bunch of keys found in the ruins had been traced to Higgins.

The jury also indicted William Butler Jr. for the murder of his father last August in Waukegan when the elder Butler refused to give his son $10. The indictments are to be returned before Judge Shurtleff next Saturday.

Lenhardt's Mother Seized in Cleveland.

Plans by which the state hopes to send the ringleaders in Saturday's jail break plot to prison for life were announced last night by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Malachi Coughlin.

The plot in... William [Blackie] Lenhardt, killer doomed to die in the electric chair, was to shoot his way to freedom was foiled when Frank H. Bell, another prisoner in the county jail, gave details of the plan to Sergt. Frank Donohue of the staff of Coroner Herman N. Bundesen.

Mother Seized in Cleveland.

Late yesterday Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who imposed the death sentence on Lenhardt, signed a bench warrant charging Mrs. Julia Glovka of Cleveland, mother of Lenhardt, with being a conspirator in the jail delivery plot. Mrs. Glovka, who is under arrest in Cleveland, will be extradicted to Chicago at once. It is charged she supplied the gun found in Lenhardt's cell.

Joseph Connier, 62 year old jail guard, has confessed smuggling the gun in to Lenhardt, and charges that Howard Soske, who was awaiting outside in a taxicab when the plot was discovered, gave him the weapon. Soske and Connier were questioned two hours late last night by Prosecutor Coughlin and Warden Moneypenny.

Lenhardt Mails 30 Letters.

It was brought out that Lenhardt had sent thirty letters to friends in various parts of the country asking financial aid to make his escape possible. The letters had been mailed for him by Connier.

After the mailing of the letters money was said to have been received for the purchase of the pistol and saws and for funds to pay Connier. Soske said he paid Connier $110 in three weeks for his aid. It was learned that Lenhardt had been sawing on the steel bars of his cell for two months.

Prosecutor Coughlin stated that the penalty provided for the crime of aiding a prisoner to escape, or supplying him with implements of escape, is imprisonment equal to that imposed on the criminal aided, with a maximum fixed at life imprisonment.

Bell, who has also confessed that he drove the automobile used in the killing of Alfred Lingle, was arraigned before Judge Joseph Sabath with Richard Sullivan on a charge of the murder of Christ Patras last June 16. Bell whose confession is being investigated, has declared that the Patras killing occurred when he and Sullivan went to obtain from Patras the money, $10,000, which had been promised them as a reward for Lingle's murder.

Calls Story "Fabrication."

Judge Sabath continued the case until Oct. 13. Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler stated that Bell's confession of the Lingle case was a "complete fabrication."

Frank Foster, gangster indicted for the murder of Lingle, made his fourth demand for trial yesterday before Judge George Fred Rush. The law provides that a prisoner in jail may make four successive demands for trial, and if the trial is not held within a month after the last demand, he is automatically discharged. Foster's trial is set now for Oct. 20.

As part of the campaign to drive hoodlums from Chicago city authorities turned the spotlight on the police department yesterday. As a result Deputy Chief of Detectives John Ryan was demoted and ordered to appear before the council police committee next Friday and explain how a list of gangsters scheduled for arrest disappeared from his office and was found by federal agents in the hands of a Capone bondsman.

The disappearance of the list was also noted by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty in his charge to the October grand jury. Judge McGoorty ordered the jurors to investigate the "well established alliance" between police and criminals which the September jury declared was existent.

To "Miscellaneous Division."

Capt. Ryan was sent to the "miscellaneous division," which is housed in a rameshackle building at 2138 North Halsted street, which was once an orphanage. He will join former Chief of Detectives John Stege and three other captains who are ordered to report daily but have no work to do.

Ryan was succeeded by Acting Lieut. Lawrence Rafferty, office secretary of Acting Commissioner John Alcock.

The sudden interest in the case of the missing records was aroused by Ald. Arthur F. Albert, who insisted upon an immediate investigation by the city council. When Acting Commissioner Alcock was summoned before the police committee, he announced the demotion of Capt. Ryan.

Albert Demands Action.

"It's about time something was done in this case of the missing records," declared Ald. Albert. "It happened more than a week ago, but so far nothing has been done. We hear that various organizations are going to do something, but there is much talk and no action.

"The actions of the police department are our responsibility. If policemen found to be inefficient or neglectful cannot be prosecuted criminally, we can take them before the trial board and demand their discharge. The grand jury is composed of inexperienced men, but we are experienced and know how these things come about. There has been laxity to the extent that it is criminal negligence. Gangsters could not operate as they do without the cooperation of the police."

The alderman asserted that he believed members of the grand jury have been "fooled and jockeyed into making foolish reports and that they have not been given the proper evidence."

As an example of how the city council could purge the police department, Ald. Albert pointed out that all the policemen indicted in the slot machine cases could have been taken before the police trial board, even though the cases were not prossed in the criminal courts.

"It wouldn't be necessary to show passage of money to convict a man before the trial board," he declared. "They could be charged with inefficiency for permitting the machines to operate."

Alcock Announces Demotion.

Then Commissioner Alcock made his announcement concerning the demotion of Ryan, adding that so far no evidence had been found for a trial board case against the deputy chief of detectives. He did not transfer or demote Sergt. William Balswick, from whose desk the records were stolen.

"It's not a crime to have your desk broken into," he said. "And Balswick in typing the second list, from which the names of eight gangsters were omitted, was acting under orders of Capt. Ryan.

"I will say that neither Capt. Ryan nor Balswick showed the proper kind of precaution. I have been unable to determine why the captain could not make the same kind of a list in typing the duplicate copy. But I couldn't present sufficient evidence to remove these men from the department."

Albert Puts a Question.

"If they rob police stations, what chance has the ordinary citizen got?" asked Albert.

"I'll file charges against the men if this committee so directs," replied Alcock.

The decision then was made to permit Ryan to tell his story before the committee next Friday.

"The disappearance of a document from the archives of the police department indicates that there are policemen betraying the public interest," Judge McGoorty told the grand jury. "You are directed to inquire fully into this incident."

James "Fur" Sammons, "public enemy" and gunman, demanded a change of venue from Judge Philip J. Finnegan when arraigned on charges of assault to kill, driving while intoxicated, and carrying concealed weapons. Judge Finnegan declared the petition obviously was filed "for dilatory purposes" but sent the case to Chief Justice McGoorty for reassignment.

George "Red" Barker, "public enemy," free on a $10,000 bond pending a hearing on a charge of vagrancy, was freed when arraigned before Judge Harry F. Hamlin in the Des Plaines street court on a charge of disorderly conduct. Barker was arrested as he left a union meeting on Sunday. The arresting policemen were unable to show evidence of disorderly conduct.

Asks Report on "Enemies."

In an order issued late yesterday Chief of Detectives John Norton asked all captains in charge of district stations to make a complete report on the police records of the 26 "public enemies." The order also was signed by First Deputy Commissioner of Police James Scanlon. Commissioner of Police John H. Alcock hopes by this step to learn what his subordinates have done in the drive to rid the city of these gangsters.

WISCONSIN READY TO COUNTER ANY STANTON MOVES

District Attorney Herman Salen of Waukesha county, Wis., is ready for whatever defense or dilatory tactics are employed in behalf of Danny Stanton, he declared yesterday. His present purpose is to have Stanton, a public enemy, beer hustler and Capone gangster, extradited to stand trial for the murder of Jack Zuta, slain public enemy who was of the Bugs Moran gang.

A hearing is to be held by Gov. Emmerson on Friday to pass upon the request of the state of Wisconsin that it be given the custody of Stanton. Mr. Salen would not reveal what evidence he would introduce other than the ballistic proof that a bullet taken from Zuta's head had been fired from a revolver later found in Stanton's possession.

Mention of the defense contention that the burden of proof was upon Wisconsin to show that Stanton was present at the time of the murder—that he is in fact a fugitive from justive in Wisconsin—and that Stanton need not prove that he wasn't there brought a confident laugh from Mr. Salen.

"I'm not telling what our evidence is," he declared.

WIFE SAYS ATTORNEY FOR DRY UNIT KEEPS LIQUOR IN THEIR HOME

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—S. Dee Hanson, an attorney for the prohibition bureau, was accused by his wife today of maintaining a liquor supply in their apartment. Mrs. Dorothy C. Hanson made the charges in a suit for divorce filed in the District of Columbia Supreme court.

Hanson brought a supply of liquor with him upon his return from a vacation in New Jersey, Mrs. Hanson said, and a scene ensued when she objected to having it stored in their apartment.

A few hours after filing the suit Mrs. Hanson withdrew it and said that she and her husband were reconciled.

"A writ of habeas corpus ...as issued despite the Sabbath by ...dge Craig A. ..."What business has any judge to ...old court on Sunday?" said Prose... ...or Rathbun, referring to the Chi... ...go Heights affair.

Says Judges Blocked Plan.

..."We wanted to get those prisoners ...rough the bureau of identification, ...ut were stopped by the acts of the ...hicago Heights judges."

...udge Hood, in issuing the writs ...or the release of the eight men, said ...hey had been unlawfully arrested ...ithout a warrant and were held in ...ail without charge, the law in such ...ircumstances requiring that immedi... ...earings be given the petitioners, ...whether it is Sunday or any other ...day.

The eight men were liberated by the writs, they were rearrested by Chicago Heights police at the request of the state's attorney and charged with disorderly conduct to forestall freeing the men without bond. Police Magistrate Zeller was called in to approve the bonds.

In regard to his appearance before Judge Fisher on the Condi bond, Prosecutor Rathbun said:

"I thought it my duty to at least appear before Judge Fisher and let him know what we thought about such procedure."

Condi was arrested some weeks ago as a suspect in the slaying of Alfred Lingle. With him at the time was Israel Alderman. The men were the first to be charged with vagrancy in a campaign to jail hoodlums. Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court jailed them at a speedy hearing, but a habeas corpus writ set aside the sentence. The grand jury then indicted and held the men under $20,000 bail each.

Alderman furnished bail when Judge Fisher a few weeks ago agreed to accept $10,000 cash after Chief Justice McGoorty and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller had refused the offer. Condi, however, remained in jail until yesterday.

Attorneys Ben Feldman and W. W. Smith appeared Saturday with another $10,000 in cash and asked for the release of Condi. This was refused by the prosecutors and a formal motion was made for a bail hearing before Judge Fisher. This hearing was held yesterday. As the attorneys started to state their motion yesterday Judge Fisher said:

"I told you if you produced $10,000 cash I would accept it. Have you got your bond ready?"

Gives Vagrancy Act Views.

"The purpose of the vagrancy act is to apprehend and keep in custody persons other than the unfortunate man who happens to be out of work and has no place to sleep or stay and is found loitering on the streets," said Prosecutor Rathbun. "The real purpose of the vagrancy act is clearly, as can be seen from reading it, intended to cover all persons who live by unlawful means. That heading certainly is intended to cover habitual criminals with records of convictions and arrests.

"At this time the public good demands that this type of vagrant as is now before the court should be prosecuted."

"Let us not be hypocrites," interrupted Judge Fisher. "The traditions of the law have been built up through scores of years. I am not going to be part of the howling mob that is disregarding such traditions."

"I do not know what you mean by howling mob, but if you mean by that persons who are now engaged in trying to secure strict enforcement of the law in this community against hoodlums I intend to remain in that howling mob until I see a better reason than I do now for getting out of it," replied Prosecutor Rathbun.

Recites Condi's Record.

The prosecutor then went on to recite Condi's record showing that he was convicted in 1919 in New York for burglary and was given a five year sentence. He was given a second sentence of three years for a similar crime.

"You don't even know this man's criminal record and that is very material in fixing bail in a vagrancy case, and that is the thing that gives you the distinction between a mere loitering vagrant and a criminal vagrant," said the prosecutor.

"I don't know about the record and we are not trying this case now; when the trial comes on that is something else," said the judge.

The prosecutor said that such a method is the trouble with the present system of handling criminals. He said a criminal should be given attention before he goes out on the street and commits a crime instead of allowing him to be on the street and then giving him attention after he commits the crime.

Another point made by Attorney Rathbun was that no inquiry was made to determine the source of the $10,000 cash bond. He said an investigation might establish that desperate criminals had made a jack pot to furnish the money.

State Ready to Try Gun Toters.

Judge David was opposed by Assistant State's Attorneys Abe Marovitz and Albert Woll. They tried to convince him that gun toting by gangsters is serious enough to be tried in the Criminal courts. They were ready, they said, to proceed to trial at once.

Judge David declared that his dignity was not to be lowered to the class of a police court judge to try such a trivial offense.

"I am here to try serious felony cases," said the judge to the prosecutors. "I will not act as a police court judge. Take this case out of my court. I am going to enter a dismissal order at once, immediately, do you hear?"

"Please judge give me time to check up on the records to see if a police court complaint is pending against these men," said Prosecutor Marovitz. "Give me one hour, or until noon anyhow."

The request was finally granted, but before the day was over the prosecutors entered an order of nolle prosse rather than have the case dismissed.

Adjourns Court at 3:20 P. M.

Judge David at 3:20 o'clock in the afternoon commanded the clerk to enter in his docket the following order:

"At twenty past three this court having run out of business asks the chief justice if there is any more work to do and is informed that there is not.

"Court is therefore adjourned."

The usual court closing hour is 4:30 o'clock.

Brancato and Bello are suspected of a plot to murder Pat Roche, chief investigator, or Prosecutor Rathbun. They were forced to the curb when their automobile was found near the special downtown offices of the prosecutors at 77 West Washington street.

Judge David said that he will act differently in the case of James [Fur] Sammons, notorious ex-convict, who was sent to him on reassignment yesterday. He will try Sammons on gun toting charges, he said, because it comes from the country towns where a justice has not the power to dispose of it. The Municipal court, he said, should dispose of all such cases in the city.

The anti-gun toting campaign was the work of Chief Justice McGoorty, who pledged speedy trials to gun toters.

U. S. DOCTORS FIND DRUGGAN IS SICK; TRIAL POSTPONED

The contention of his lawyers that Terry Druggan, former beer baron, is a sick man and cannot stand trial now on charges of evading income taxes, was substantiated yesterday by government physicians reporting to Federal Judge Wilkerson.

Judge Wilkerson postponed the trial until Nov. 10 after Dr. E. I. Sloan and Dr. H. M. Fogo reported that their examination of Druggan showed him to be suffering from appendicitis, chronic productive bronchitis, active infective prostitis, duodenitis and other maladies. The physicians expressed the opinion that Druggan should remain in the hospital for further treatment.

Capt. William F. Waugh, attorney for Druggan, said his client would have to undergo an operation.

Druggan and his former partner, Frankie Lake, are charged with trying to defraud the government of $500,000 in income taxes.

State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien's income tax trial is set for Nov. 17. Jack Guzik, "public enemy" and Capone gangster, and his brother Sam, are to be arraigned on Friday on indictements charging income tax violations.

Charges Wife's Attacks Drove Him from Home

George F. Slater, an official of the Slater Fireproof Storage company, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Mrs. Alice Slater. The bill charges that Mrs. Slater on numerous occasions struck, kicked, bit, scratched, and choked him, until finally he was forced to leave. Since their separation last March 23 Mr. Slater says he has been living at the Seneca hotel. Last Saturday, the bill says, Mrs. Slater installed herself in his apartment. He asks for an injunction to restrain his wife from annoying him.

when he asserted that he is "sworn by the whole people to maintain the constitution and to enforce the laws, and that no man should dare call himself a faithful American and suggest otherwise."

Hoover Compliments Coolidge.

President Hoover, a little earlier, had interpolated a compliment to Mr. Coolidge which was not in the advance copies of his manuscript. Speaking of the Kellogg-Briand pact, he said it had been "developed by my eminent predecessor and carried through to great success by his administration."

President Hoover touched on preparedness in his address to the Legionnaires. He said that all international good will was founded on mutual respect among the nations, and added:

"The maintenance of respect requires that we sustain a preparedness for defense that is impregnable, yet that contains no threat of aggression."

The President also reminded the Legion that it was consecrated by its constitution to the high purpose of upholding the laws of the country, and added:

"The enforcement of the laws must not rest on government officials alone; it must rise from stern demand and the loyal coöperation of good citizenship and individual responsibility to the community."

Welcomed by Crowds.

The presidential party reached Boston this morning and were escorted through crowd lined streets to the Copley Plaza hotel.

The Coolidges were conspicuous throughout the day's activities. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge called on President and Mrs. Hoover at the hotel soon after their arrival. They also were guests at a luncheon given for the President at noon by Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts.

En route by automobile from the railroad station to the hotel, from the hotel to the Legion meeting, back to the hotel for luncheon, later to the Statler hotel for the Federation of Labor meeting, the Hoovers were greeted by large crowds. The police were out in full force to guard against any hostile demonstrations, but the crowds appeared friendly and there were no unpleasant incidents such as the communist demonstration at Cleveland last week.

Butler His Breakfast Guest.

Late this afternoon the President talked with Senator J. H. Metcalf, who is the Republican candidate for reelection in Rhode Island.

HOOVER'S LABOR SPEECH

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Hoover's address before the American Federation of Labor:

"Members of the American Federation of Labor:

"In his invitation that I should address you on this occasion President Green spoke in terms of high praise of the benefits to labor from the nation-wide coöperation initiated at the White House last November for mitigation of the effects of the present depression.

"At those White House conferences the leaders of business and industry undertook to do their utmost to maintain the rate of wages. They also undertook in case of shortened employment to distribute work as evenly as possible over their regular body of employés. The leaders of labor undertook to urge effort in production and to prevent conflict and dispute. The public officials and the managers of industry and utilities undertook to expand construction work to mitigate unemployment.

Industrial Conflict Avoided.

"We have now had nearly a year in which to observe the working of these arrangements. These, the first undertakings of this character in our history, have been carried out in astonishing degree. There are, of course, exceptions, but in the large sense our great manufacturing companies, the railways, utilities, and business houses have been able to maintain the established wages. Employers have spread their employment systematically. For the first time in more than a century of these recurring depressions we have been practically free of bitter industrial conflict.

"The fine coöperation in the providing organized emergency employment through federal, state, and municipal public works and utility construction has been an important contribution in taking up the slack of unemployment. The measure of success is easily demonstrated. The department of commerce reports to me that public works and the construction work by the railways and utilities in the last eight months amount to about 45 hundred millions, as compared with about 40 hundred million in the same period of the boom year of 1929, or an increase of about 500 million. In all previous depressions these works decreased, so that the gain is more than even the apparent figures.

Unemployment Still Serious.

"We still have a burden of unemployment. Although it is far less than one-half in proportion to our workers than in either England or Germany, no one can contemplate its effect in hardship and discouragement without new resolves to continued exertion and to further effort in solution of our greatest economic problem—stability in employment.

"Your chairman has spoken of my interest in the development of an American basis of wage. Both the directors of industry and your leaders have made great progress toward a new and common ground in economic conceptions, which, I am confident, has had a profound effect upon our economic progress during the last few years.

"That is the conception that industry must be constantly renovated by scientific research and invention; that labor welcomes these labor saving devices; that labor gives its full and unrestricted effort to reduce costs by the use of these machines and methods; that the savings from these reduced costs shall be shared between labor, employer, and the consumer. It is a philosophy of mutual interest. It is a practice of coöperation for an advantage that is not only mutual but universal. Labor gains either through increase of wage or reduction of cost of living, or shortened hours.

"Employers gain through enlarged consumption, and a wider spread distribution of their products, and more stable business. Consumers gain through lower cost of what they buy. Indeed mass production must be accompanied by mass consumption through increased standards of living.

U. S. Making Progress.

"From the acceptance of this basis of industrial relations I believe America is making more progress toward security, better living, and more hours of leisure than those countries which are seeking to continue old conceptions of the wage and to patch up the old system with doles of various kinds, which limit the independence of men. Any comparison of the situation of our labor with the labor of those other countries, whether in times of high prosperity or today in times of temporary depression, should carry conviction that we are on the right track.

"No system is or can be free of difficulties or problems. The rapidity of our inventions and discoveries has intensified many problems in adjusting what we nowadays call technological unemployment. I am coöperating with President Green and representatives of employers' associations in an exhaustive inquiry into its various phases. If we stretch our vision over the last ten years we shall find much to convince us that the problem is not at all insurmountable in the long run.

"It is estimated by some of our statisticians that in this period over 2,000,000 workers have been displaced from older industry due to labor saving devices. Some way, somehow, most of these were reëstablished in new industry and new services. Nor is there any reason to believe that we cannot revolve our economic system in such fashion that further new discoveries and inventions will further increase our standard of living, and thereby continue to absorb men who are displaced in the older industries.

"Nevertheless there is a period of readjustment in each case of new discovery, and industry has need of a larger understanding of the facts.

Coal Difficulties Cited.

"It is this process of readjustment that partly causes our present difficulties in the bituminous coal industry. In that industry the encroachments of electrical power, of natural gas, of improvements in consumption, have operated to slow down the annual demand from its high peak, leaving a most excessive production capacity. At the same time, the introduction of labor saving devices has decreased the demand for mine labor. In addition to its other difficulties must be counted the effect of the multitude of 6,000 independent mine owners among 7,000 mines, which has resulted in destructive competition and final breakdown of wages.

"All these conditions have culminated in a demoralization of the industry and a depth of human misery in some sections which is wholly out of place in our American system.

"One key to solution seems to me to lie in reduction of this destructive competition. It certainly is not the purpose of our competitive system that it should produce a competition which destroys stability in an industry and reduces to poverty all those within it. Its purpose is rather to maintain that degree of competition which induces progress and protects the consumer. If our regulatory laws be at fault they should be revised.

Job Security Desirable.

"But most of these problems are problems of stability. With the job secure, other questions can be solved with much more assurance. You, as workers, know best of all how much a man gains from security in his job. It is the insurance of his manliness, it upholds the personal valuation of himself and of his family. To establish a system that assures this security is the supreme challenge to our responsibility as representatives of millions of our fellow workers and fellow citizens.

"The demonstration of nationwide coöperation and team play and the absence of conflict during this depression have increased the stability and wholesomeness of our industrial and social structure. We are justified in feeling that something like a new and improved tool has been added to the working kit for the solution of our future problems.

"No one would invite either war or business depression, but from them may come some new inspirations. We find in these times courage and sympathy, generous helpfulness from our work people to those unfortunates suffering not alone from the present but from fear for their future. We find inspiration in the courage of our employers, the resolution of the nation that we shall build steadily to prevent and mitigate the destructiveness of these great business storms. It is this inspiration which gives confidence for the future, and confirms our belief in fundamental human righteousness and the value of our American conception of mutuality of interest in our daily work."

HOOVER'S SPEECH TO AMERICAN LEGION

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Hoover's address before the American Legion convention:

"My Fellow Countrymen: It is with a great deal of pleasure that I am able to meet here with the American Legion.

"I hope I may venture to claim from some years of service during the great war a measure of comradeship with the men who fought in that war. I understand your variety of French perfectly. I know from intimate experience, and I intend to hold in confidence, the first reaction you had from a passing shell, and the homelike appearance of shell holes under certain circumstances. I shall maintain secret your opinion of those who profess indifference to or the glory in passing bullets, or insects, or the mud and filth of the trenches, or days and weeks in the wet and cold.

Recalls Legion's Birth.

"It was inevitable that men who had lived through that great common experience, who had engaged in supreme adventure with death, should combine into associations of lifelong comradeship.

"Yet it was not alone the comradeship of high adventure that instinctively called your organization into being. It was the common understanding which war called forth, the common experience from which sprang the highest emotions of patriotism—that shoulder to shoulder companionship in an idealism which transfigured men's lives.

"The millions who shared in that experience came home from it rededicated to the further service of their country. But great as was that service, performed under impulse of the high emotions of war, the service to the great ideals of peace is ofttimes even more difficult and ofttimes requires more sustained courage. It was, therefore, with deep sympathy that I witnessed the birth of the American Legion in France in 1919.

Quotes Legion Constitution.

"At that memorable meeting you sensed this high purpose and expressed these lofty ideals of your peacetime service in the preamble to your constitution, which reads in part:

"'To uphold and defend the constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom, and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.'

"That, indeed, is the real preface to American citizenship.

"It is my purpose to speak upon some of these ideals and purposes, for idealism must be translated into cold realism of the day to day task of citizenship.

"At the moment you made that declaration you sensed an imperative national need. You foresaw that the aftermath of war would be a period of change, a period of disturbed mind, of loosened moorings; a period when evil forces among men might lead to violence and crime; a period which demanded understanding and wise restraint if the basis of all society and all progress were to be maintained.

Ordered Government Vital.

"You realized that liberty and freedom can be won on the battlefield, but they can be held only by ordered government in peace. You realized, in fact, that without ordered government the very sacrifices which you had made, the fruition of your high hopes, your endurance, your courage, might come to naught.

"Eleven years of experience in our own country and in every country engaged in that war have proved the need of that inspiration to active citizenship. It has been a period of readjustment, a period of challenge to democratic institutions, a time when the world has had to contend with a greater mood of violence. Even today nearly one-half of the population of our globe is in a state of great unrest or a state of revolution.

Treaties Don't Make Peace.

"Real peace in the world requires something more than the documents which we sign to terminate wars. Peace requires unremitting, courageous campaigns, laid with strategy and carried on successfully on a hundred fronts and sustained in the spirit and from the hearts of every individual in every town and village of our country.

"In the great intangibles of human emotion respect is inseparable from good will. The maintenance of respect requires that we sustain a preparedness for defense that is impregnable, yet that contains no threat of aggression.

"We have to remember that during the great war we demonstrated not only our military power but also our ability to quickly organize it and the valor to use it. After the war the disturbed condition of the world made it necessary to increase our defense establishment beyond the pre-war basis. Above all, we made a more rapid recovery from the vast losses of the great war than other nations in the world. Our national income has expanded to embrace more than one-third of the whole commercial world.

A Dominant Power.

"As a result we have become a dominant economic power. Our citizens have spread their trade and finance into every corner of the earth.

"From these tremendous happenings in our country some leaders in other countries came to believe that they were in the presence of the birth of a new imperial power intent upon dominating the destinies and the freedom of other peoples. Such a conclusion would be the logical deduction from many instances during 3,000 years of history, when the exploitation of other people has been the outcome of the ability to do so. This we know is an utter misconception of America. We know there is a desire to do justice and no exploitation. We know there is no financial, traditional, or military imperialism in the American heart. We know, in fact, that we have opened the door of a new social and economic system by which within our own borders we shall create the conquest of poverty without exploiting other nations.

"But as wrong as these fears may be, it becomes our first duty to show by our every act, not alone by our government but by our citizens, that our guide is justice and that confidence may be reposed in that sense of justice.

End Suspicion and Fear.

"The day to day practical preservation of peace and good will requires that we build up and support agencies for pacific solution of controversies.

"On this road to peace we have attained two momentous victories. The first of these is the Kellogg-Briand pact. By the London naval agreement we have silenced the high dangers of competitive naval building and have safeguarded our defense by parity with the greatest naval power in the world. We have assured the maintenance of an efficient navy as the first line of defense. By limiting our strength we have given demonstration to the world that we seek no domination, but only adequate defense.

"The peace of our country has never stood more assured than at this moment. The realization of your ideal to promote peace and good will through active citizenship is the greatest guaranty of its continuance.

On Law Enforcement.

"The first high purpose you express is to uphold and defend the constitution and to maintain law and order in the United States. Happily your ideal is my first and most sacred duty. As President of the United States I am sworn by the whole people to maintain the constitution and to enforce the laws. No man should dare call himself a faithful American and suggest otherwise. You have recognized that the upholding of the constitution and the enforcement of the laws must, however, not rest upon government officials alone; it must rise from the stern demand and the loyal coöperation of good citizenship and individual responsibility to the community.

"One of the primary obligations of citizenship is national defense. Our people have been traditionally opposed to a large standing army in times of peace. The nation needs a regular army, highly developed in training and technical services, as the nucleus for the training of citizen soldiers and to lead them in times of emergency. We have always relied on our citizen army, and never relied in vain, but its maintenance is again the voluntary service of good citizenship. Your association has taken large interest in provision for better industrial mobilization. You have been greatly interested, and I have lately signed an act creating an inquiry into the methods by which the economic burdens of war shall fall with equal weight upon every element of citizenry. It is not equitable that one citizen shall profit by war while another makes the supreme sacrifice.

Talks of War Wounded.

"One of your expressed ideals was that of 'mutual helpfulness.' In your solicitude for your comrades, disabled both in war and in peace, you have kept that faith. Nor has a grateful nation failed in its duty. In addition to hospitalization, rehabilitation, war risk insurance, adjusted compensation, and priority in civil service, the government has undertaken through disability allowances to provide for some 700,000 veterans of the world war. Our total outlays on all services to world war veterans are nearing $600,000,000 a year and to veterans of all wars nearly $900,000,000 per annum.

"The nation assumes an obligation when it sends its sons to war. The nation is proud to require this obligation within its full resources. I have been glad of the opportunity to favor the extension of these services in such a manner that they cover without question all cases of disablement whether from war or peace.

"There is, however, a deep responsibility of citizenship in the administration of this trust of mutual helpfulness which peculiarly lies upon your members, and that is that the demands upon the government should not exceed the measure that justice requires and self-help can provide. If we shall overload the burden of taxation we shall stagnate our economic progress and we shall by the slackening of his progress place penalties upon every citizen.

A Citizen's Responsibilities.

"There are many other responsibilities of the individual in his 'obligations to the community, the state, and the nation.' The very beginning of such obligation is at the ballot box. The whole plan of self-government presupposes that the whole people shall participate in the selection of its officials, the determination of its policies, and the maintenance of its ideals. Anything less than this involves government by the minority.

"Your own expressed fears of 'autocracy of either classes or masses' can well come true unless the individual citizen takes at least his share in the burden of government.

Outlines Legion's Mission.

"You have a post in every town and every village. These 11,000 posts are organized into divisions with state and national commanders. You are already an army mobilized for unselfish and constructive endeavor. Your strength is made up of men who have stood the quality test of citizenship.

"You have it in your power to do much. Through your local posts you can awaken the minds of the communities throughout our nation to a higher ideal of citizenship. You have an exceptional interest and an exceptional opportunity in the front line of citizenship to coöperate and preserve the fundamentals of our republic."

TELLS LEGION IT CAN FIGHT AGAIN FOR GOVERNMENT

Pershing Gives Advice to Ex-Service Men.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP) — The American soldier who took up arms more than a decade ago in the cause of justice was urged tonight by his wartime leader to muster the same spirit, through loyal citizenship, in the cause of good government.

Gen. John J. Pershing, leader of the American expeditionary forces during the world war, stressed this and kindred duties of the ex-service man in an address at a dinner given O. L. Bodenhammer, national commander of the American Legion.

"In view of the unique position held by the ex-service men," Gen. Pershing said, "the duties that fall to their lot as citizens are peculiarly obligatory. These duties are as binding today as during those days of consecrated service on the field of battle. The safe lofty spirit should inspire their fulfillment.

Nation's Enemies in Peace.

"There are enemies to overcome in peace as well as in war. The forces of evil are ever active. They include those who would exploit the government for personal profit. They embrace the criminal class who defy our laws and that other class who are against all government. It is the duty of every loyal citizen to combat these evil forces with all the energy he can muster."

After placing the blame for inadequate law enforcement on a lack of interest among the citizens in their government, Gen. Pershing said:

"What I wish to say in conclusion is that the ex-service men must stand up courageously and fearlessly for everything that is sacred in our institutions. No man can fulfill the obligations of citizenship who remains passive regarding the enforcement of law."

Seek 1931 Convention.

The contest for the next national convention of the American Legion today narrowed down to a fight between Los Angeles and Detroit. Baltimore made a bid for the convention of 1932 and Chicago for 1933.

Paul G. Armstrong of Chicago submitted his city's plea for the 1933 convention. He explained that the World's Fair would be held in Chicago in that year and that it was necessary to go before the committee at this time.

PILSUDSKI MAKES HIMSELF ISSUE IN NOVEMBER VOTE

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Marshal Pilsudski, premier of Poland, today decided to use the parliamentary election on Nov. 16 as a plebiscite by which the country may pronounce itself for or against him.

Polish electors vote on lists of candidates presented by political parties which obtain seats in parliament in relation to the number of votes cast on their lists.

Marshal Pilsudski will put his name at the head of the government party list, and thus those who vote for that party also will express their confidence in the marshal.

HUNT R-101'S LOG AS SOLE CLEW TO AIRSHIP DISASTER

Experts Find Nothing to Solve Mystery.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 6.—Hope is held out here that the log of the ship was not destroyed by the flames which followed the crash of the British dirigible yesterday morning on its first flight to India and that it may yet be found intact somewhere beneath that mountain of twisted steel on the slope of the Bois de Feck.

If the log is found it will unlock the secret to the greatest air disaster of all time—a disaster which cost the lives of 47 persons, including the "who's who" of British aeronautics. According to technicians, the log would positively explain the cause of the catastrophe by showing the rate of ascending of altitude, speed, wind pressure, and the condition of the engines up to the moment of the crash.

Believe Log Still Exists.

Strong belief that the log still exists was expressed tonight by Arthur Disley, the R-101's radio operator. Disley, who is recovering from burns, was greatly interested by the discovery of a block of ruled paper found unburned in the midst of the wreckage.

"I know what that block of ruled paper is," Disley declared. "It is used for taking down orders to be carried from the control car to different parts of the ship. These blocks were kept in the control car, while the log was kept in the control room proper. Again, it seems to me, there would be much less chance of it being burned if the paper was not destroyed I do not see how the log could be. I think it is buried under the débris."

British air ministry experts, headed by Air Commander A. V. Holt, who started an investigation this morning, refused to comment on the possibility of finding the log, but they were observed diligently digging around in the thick layer of ashes and debris under the buckled framework. They seemed particularly interested in the splintered fragments of the control car, which is almost in the center of the wreckage, where yesterday the coveted order blanks were found.

Like Hunting Needle in Haystack.

The task of the experts is gigantic. Hunting for the log, even if it still exists in that wreckage, is just like hunting the traditional needle in the haystack.

The steel carcass of the R-101 lies buckled up in a shallow gully. Its nose is resting in a dense thicket and right in the middle of the dirigible's belly stands a small tree with most of its foliage stripped off by the terrific blasts of the hydrogen gas. The twisted steel tubes of the framework form an almost impenetrable jungle, and the maze and tangle of wires spread along the ground are like tropical creepers.

Check Up Official List.

A closer examination of the wreckage reveals a surprising number of articles which escaped the flames. Under the mess compartment are strewn oranges, potatoes, and green vegetables. One typewriter was removed which still had the ribbon intact.

All the bodies were removed late last night and a revised checkup shows that there are only 54 mentioned in the official list as aboard the ship when it left England. Since there were eight survivors there should be 46 corpses. Actually there are 47 corpses—at least there are 47 coffins. A doubt arises because one of the coffins, which is small like a child's coffin, may contain only part of a human body or perhaps parts of several human bodies. The gendarmes simply placed all stray pieces of human bodies they picked up in a single coffin. The only way to determine whether those fragments represent a separate body would be to check up all the corpses by heads and limbs, which will not be done.

Scout Stowaway Report.

The admission of Commander Holt today that the authorities removed 47 instead of 46 bodies immediately started the rumor that there was a stowaway on board. The survivors of the crew conceded that this was possible, but consider it unlikely.

"The authorities were specially on the lookout for a stowaway and all entrances of the ship were carefully guarded, while the officers checked each man entering," explained Radio Operator Disley.

If the 47th coffin represents only the fragments of several of the other bodies—which seems the most likely hypothesis—the death toll is now 47, for W. G. Radcliffe, rigger, died at 4 a. m. today from burns and a fractured thigh. All the other wounded seem to be recovering. A. V. Bell, J. H. Binks, and H. J. Leech were permitted to quit their beds tonight and leave the hospital for dinner with the British consul.

Five of Crew Identified.

Late tonight Commander Holt announced that five of the dead had been identified. They were all members of the crew—R. Blake, W. H. King, S. E. Scott, E. G. Rudd, and Assistant Coxswain W. A. Potter. They were identified by articles found near the bodies, and it is hoped the same method will permit further identifications. Friends of Lord Thomson arrived here this afternoon by plane, but were unable to make any identification of his body.

Commander Holt's announcement tonight indicated that the investigators had nothing to show for their first day's work. He said the French and British experts will require several days to complete the inquiry.

The committee today visited the wrecked dirigible twice and secretly questioned all survivors, as well as local witnesses. There was no statement made as to the conclusions drawn from the evidence, but THE TRIBUNE is informed that the experts are inclined to believe the explosion was solely the result of the ship's blundering into a hill in the dark and not caused by a fall.

Had Released Ballast.

On the other hand they have striking evidence to show that the dirigible was in serious difficulties before the crash. Commander Holt said that in the act of releasing large quantities of ballast shortly before the crash.

Part of the dirigible's superstructure was found today about one mile and a half awa from where the ship fell. This discovery may provide an important clew to the disaster.

Commander Holt clearly indicated tonight that the air ministry intends to "pass the buck" for the investigation to a court of inquiry by saying that the investigators would not publish formal conclusions, merely laying their findings before the court.

Concluding with a long statement, which he issued to the press tonight, Commander Holt definitely settled the stowaway rumor by announcing the official death toll a. 47, including Radcliffe. The stowaway rumor started when a soldier found a woman's dainty shoes with a buckle among the débris. The air ministry in London officially denied there was a woman aboard.

Remove Bodies to Beauvais.

Today the bodies were removed from the town hall at Allonne and taken to the Hotel de Ville—the city hall—at Beauvais, where they were laid in a black draped hall filled with flowers.

The Beauvais city hall is an historic building, for it was here that the supreme command of the allied armies was turned over to the late Marshal Ferdinand Foch on April 3, 1918.

During the afternoon a huge crowd of townspeople watched the procession of hearses winding their way through the narrow medieval streets of the town.

FRANCE WILL HONOR BRITISH AIRSHIP DEAD IN DAY OF MOURNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Tomorrow will be a day of national mourning in France, according to a government decree today. Orders were issued to military authorities and civilians to fly flags at half staff throughout the land as tribute to the victims of the British airship the R-101.

Premier Andre Tardieu will attend funeral services at the historic Beauvais cathedral tomorrow morning together with Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador to France; Laurent Eynac, French minister of air, and other notables of the two countries. Following the services the bodies will be carried to the French sea coast aboard a special train. French colonial troops will be ranged in line to give a military salute to the dead.

Forty French army planes will fly over the funeral procession, which will be headed by three survivors, J. H. Binks, A. V. Bell, and H. J. Leech.

BRITAIN MAY BURY AIRSHIP DEAD IN A COMMON GRAVE

Plans Single Memorial at R-101's Home Port.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A general public burial of all those lost on the R-101 in a common grave was suggested by the air ministry tonight. A single memorial, erected over their last resting place, probably at or near Cardington, home port of the R-100 and R-101, is also proposed by the air ministry.

The chief reason for this, according to the air ministry's statement, is that "it is practically impossible to identify with any degree of certainty a great majority of the bodies."

Public Memorial Service Friday.

The air ministry forwarded letters to the relatives of all the victims embodying this suggestion, and the relatives are asked to signify their assent as early as possible. The time and place of the funeral has not yet been finally decided, "but it will be of a public character and carried out with appropriate ceremonies."

Great Britain's grief at the loss of as many of its finest air experts and air men in the disaster will find expression in a memorial service at St. Paul's cathedral on Friday to which the general public will be admitted.

With full honors from the fighting services of two nations the remains of the victims will be brought to their homeland tomorrow night. The British destroyers, Tempest and Tribune, will convey the bodies across the channel, reaching Dover at about 10 p. m. They will be immediately transferred onto a special train, which is expected to reach London early Wednesday morning.

British Grateful to France.

A guard of honor will line up at Victoria station and escort the dead to the Westminster city mortuary.

The news that André Tardieu, French premier, directed France to observe tomorrow as a day of national mourning has been gratefully received by the British, who regard the action as a signal mark of respect, unprecedented as an act of homage paid by France to members of another nation.

Messages of sympathy and tributes continue to pour in from all over the world. King George has received tributes from the kings of Belgium, Denmark, Egypt, Italy, Sweden, Norway; the presidents of the United States, France, Switzerland, Portugal, Lithuania, and the regent of Hungary. Prime Minister MacDonald has received messages from Dr. Hugo Eckener and the crew of the Graf Zeppelin, and from Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, French trans-Atlantic flyers, now at New York.

May Compensate Dependents.

The question of compensating dependents of the disaster victims will be raised in the house of commons when parliament convenes at the end of this month.

It is reported that the MacDonald cabinet is considering the question of the continuance of experiments with the airship R-100. Parliament this year voted $1,710,000 for airship development. This included the maintenance of Cardington and other stations. It is understood that the tests will likely continue, although they may be suspended pending the findings of the complete official inquiry into the causes of the disaster, which will be held in London. The inquiry being made at the scene of the crash in France is a preliminary probe.

Wrote Will on Eve of Flight.

"I am setting out for a flight to India, and in case anything may happen to me I leave all my property and possessions to my brother, Col Roger Gordon Thomson."

Written hurriedly on a slip of note paper, Lord Thomson, minister of air, thus made his will on the eve of setting out on a flight which cost him his life, at his desk in the air ministry building at Kingsway Friday evening. The minister's signature was witnessed by two aids, Lord Thomson ordering that the will be locked up and given him to be torn up on his return.

Today the document was taken from the safe.

"My brother had little money or estate to leave for he was without private means and was dependent on his salary," Col. Thomson said.

BRITTEN TO ASK CONGRESS TO LIFT BAN ON HELIUM

Seeks to Let World Use U. S. Supply for Airships

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6—Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, today announced that he would introduce a bill at the forthcoming session of congress removing the ban on exportation of helium from the United States for use in the airships of Great Britain, Germany, and other foreign nations.

As a result of the destruction by fire of the British dirigible, the R-101, which was inflated with hydrogen, the recommendation that the United States forego its monopoly on helium, a noninflammable, nonexplosive gas, was first made by Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics.

Wins Support in House.

Not only did Britten promise to sponsor such legislation, but Speaker Nicholas Longworth, Minority Leader John Garner [Dem., Tex.], and other house leaders immediately endorsed it.

Mr. Britten agreed with Admiral Moffett that had the R-101 carried helium the lives of its crew and passengers in all probability would have been saved when it crashed in a storm. In times of peace, he said, it would be a proper and magnanimous act for this country to share its helium.

Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, American airship expert, today charged the loss of life on the R-101 and the dirigible's destruction to the use of hydrogen. Rosendahl was aboard the American naval dirigible when it crashed in 1925.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, in charge of aviation, also indorsing the helium export plan, pointed out that the United States now has more than an ample supply of helium for its own uses. Records of the bureau of mines indicate that the government contracting establishment near Amarillo, Tex., has been called upon to work to capacity only a part of the time and that its production has been limited several times because of an oversupply.

Hoover Sends Message to King.

Further messages of sympathy on the R-101 tragedy were sent by American to British officials today, including a cablegram from President Hoover to King George and another from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to Prime Minister MacDonald.

"I am profoundly shocked and distressed by the tragic accident to the R-101 and its dreadful toll of lives," said President Hoover's message. "May I express to your majesty, to the relatives of those who were lost and to the people of Great Britain the deep sympathy and grief of Mrs. Hoover and myself."

FALLS DEAD AT MEAL.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—While eating dinner in a Pembine (Wis.) restaurant Sunday evening, Charles Berg, 68, an employé of the Sawyer-Goodman mill at Sagola, Mich., for forty years, dropped dead. Coroner Ed Anderson pronounced death due to cerebral hemorrhage.

FEARED LOST

KARACHI, India, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Searching parties left Hanjam on the Persian gulf this afternoon in an attempt to locate Mrs. Victor Bruce, British sportswoman, who was feared to have been lost on an attempted flight to Australia.

Attempts to locate Mrs. Bruce by radio and other means along the gulf coast since Sunday at mid-day, it was announced, had failed. Airplanes and fast ships were covering the gulf coast route while authorities were notified to conduct a hunt on land.

Mrs. Bruce was last seen a few minutes after mid-day yesterday, flying over Hanjam on the Persian gulf. Mrs. Bruce took off from Bushire yesterday; her immediate destination being Jask.

GERMAN AIR LINER CRASHES IN GUST OF WIND; 8 KILLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DRESDEN, Germany, Oct. 6.—Eight persons met instant death here today when a Lufthansa ten passenger plane, the D-1930, flying from Berlin to Vienna, was caught by a sudden and violent autumnal squall and dashed to earth.

The pilot, Erich Pust, one of Lufthansa's most experienced and able officers, had started the plane on a downward curving glide to make an intermediate landing at the Dresden airport when the ship was struck by a vertical gust of wind.

Observers in the airport watch tower saw the plane turn over twice at an altitude of 1,200 feet and then start into a spin. The plane plunged to the field, burying its propellor deep into the earth. The plane was completely wrecked. Later it was discovered that Pust had had the presence of mind to shut off the ignition, thus averting an explosion.

Two Women Among Dead.

In addition to the pilot and the mechanic, Max Lange, six passengers, two of them women, were killed. One of the passengers was the well known Austrian author, Dr. Richard Kuehnelt, president of the Alpine Authors' association. The women were Frau Graefe of Sofia and Fraulein Blumel. F. W. Blackwell, a British business man of Shanghai, and men named Folies and Knittell were the others killed.

The plane, a single motored all metal machine, had been in service only a fortnight.

An ironic angle of today's disaster lies in the fact that D-1930 was the serial number originally planned for the giant Dornier DO-X flying boat, but it was withdrawn when Capt. Froidrich Christiansen of the DO-X refused to have anything to do with a number the sum total of whose units totaled 13. Consequently the DO-X was numbered 1929, and the ship which crashed today received the supposedly unlucky number when it was officially certified on Sept. 20.

Air Giant Forced Down.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Junker airplane D-2000, known as Germany's largest land plane, was forced to return here yesterday after taking off for Bucharest, when a defect in the petrol feed system developed. The plane is on tour of European capitals.

CHARITY, SCHOOLS GET $2,000,000 IN JONES WILL

Estate of Capitalist Is Valued at $10,000,000.

Bequests of $2,000,000 to charitable and educational institutions are contained in the will of Thomas D. Jones, lumber and capitalist, which was filed for probate yesterday with Mitchell C. Dohn, clerk of the Probate court. The estate is valued at $10,000,000. Mr. Jones died Sept. 27 at the Presbyterian hospital following an operation.

The will leaves $500,000 to Princeton university for the alumni fund, an endowment fund for the purpose of increasing the salaries of members of the faculty. A graduate of the university in 1878, Mr. Jones' previous gifts to Princeton's endowment funds have totaled more than $1,500,000.

$500,000 to University of Chicago.

The University of Chicago is given $500,000, of which one-half is for the Frank Billings medical clinic and the other half for the general endowment funds of the university. Another bequest of $200,000 is made for the Children's Memorial hospital, of which Mr. Jones was president for many years.

Other charitable bequests are: John Crerar library, $50,000; Fourth Presbyterian church, $50,000; First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, $25,000; Chicago Art institute, $50,000; Ferry hall, a school for girls at Lake Forest, $25,000; Visiting Nurse association of Chicago, $25,000; Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum, $25,000, and the United Charities of Chicago, $25,000.

Remainder to Relatives.

The remainder of the estate is to be divided into sixteen equal parts and bequeathed to his nieces and nephews as follows: Gwethalyn Jones, four parts; Owen Barton Jones, Winifred McCarty, Edward Herbert Bennett and Agnes J. Brown, and Marion J. Dunn, two parts each, and Herbert Jones and Florence A. Jones, one part each.

Mr. Jones was a bachelor. He was a director of the International Harvester company. He was an intimate friend of the late President Woodrow Wilson and served on the war trades board during the world war. His Lake Forest home, where he lived for forty years, was at 500 North Green Bay road.

Mandel's Will Is Filed.

The will of Frederick I. Mandel, chairman of the board of Mandel Brothers, who died in Paris on Sept. 5, was admitted to probate by Edwin Mueller, assistant to Probate Judge Harry Horner. Attorneys who filed the document declined to estimate the value of the estate.

Mr. Mandel's will leaves $25,000 to the Jewish charities, $10,000 each to the United Charities and Catholic Charities, and $10,000 to Mercy hospital. Five of Mr. Mandel's employés are left small sums.

$235,000 for Medical Research.

A trust fund of $235,000 to provide for medical research in the prevention of blindness is created in the will of Mrs. Louis Chapin Norton, who died Aug. 1 at Provincetown, Mass. Mrs. Norton was the widow of J. Henry Norton of the firm of Worthington & Norton, Board of Trade commission merchants.

Mr. Norton was blind for several years prior to his death in 1914. Bequests of $1,000 each are made to the Chicago Home for the Aged, the Chicago Nursery asylum, the Chicago Sunday Evening club, and the St. James Episcopal church. The estate is valued at $275,000.

The entire estate of Frank A. Pollick, importer, who committed suicide last Wednesday in his home at 543 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, is left to his widow and two children under the terms of his will, which was filed yesterday. No estimate of the value of the estate was made by attorneys.

Reported Engaged

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Not to be outdone by her brother, King Boris, Princess Eudoxia of Bulgaria, it is reported here, has become engaged, and to an Italian.

Unofficially it is learned that the princess, who is 32 years old, has betrothed herself to Duke Charles of Spoleto, son of Prince Acosta of Italy. The duke, who is 30, and an archæologist, is at present in a hospital suffering with a broken leg received while automobile racing.

It is learned also that King Boris informed the head of the Orthodox church on Sept. 25 of his impending engagement to Princess Giovanna of Italy, and the same day told the diplomatic corps, who were surprised, knowing the religious difficulties, but were pleased at the news.

It is said that one ceremony will be performed at Rome and the second at Preslav, ancient Bulgarian capital, in the presence of the exiled King Ferdinand, Boris father.

Vatican Denies Exemption.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, says tonight that nothing has been concluded with regard to any request for exemption in the projected marriage of King Boris of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna, daughter of the Italian king and queen.

"For any one who understands the Catholic doctrine," the paper says "it is absurd to think any exemption will be granted whereby any of the children of this marriage will be authorized to be brought up in any but the Catholic church."

This is a denial of the report that the Vatican had consented to an arrangement whereby the heir to the Bulgarian throne, or first son, would be reared in the Bulgarian Orthodox church, with any other children to be brought up as Catholics.

INCREASE IN LAND FORFEITURE FOR TAXES IS SHOWN

11,150 Parcels Sold for Delinquencies.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Approximately 300,000 parcels of land—more than three times as many as were involved the last tax sale in 1928—have been advertised for sale because of the nonpayment of taxes. The sale is now in its third week.

Tax buyers are refusing to pay the taxes on many parcels and consequently the number of forfeitures of property to the state for failure to pay taxes is increasing.

The buyers estimate that they paid nearly $5,000,000 into the county treasury at the last tax sale and they estimate that they will put up between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 in the present sale. The county treasurer's office says that the buyers invested a little more than $4,000,000 in the last sale and will probably invest between $5,500,000 and $6,500,000 for the present sale. But, taking either sets of estimates, it is certain that the pending tax sale is considerably larger than the last one.

11,150 Parcels of Land Sold.

The sale of property for taxes so far has been in the country towns. Tax sales in all of these towns have been completed except the towns of Thornton, Wheeling and Worth. In the territory covered 11,150 parcels of land have been sold for taxes. Some of this is farm land but most of it is in town lots. In this same territory 6,858 parcels were sold for taxes in the preceding sale. This shows an increase of 62.5 per cent.

There have been filed 11,386 objections against the taxes in the County court. Comparatively few of these objections relate to only one piece of property. Several objections refer to hundreds of parcels each. Attorney William F. Struchmann has made one objection involving approximately 7,000 parcels of land, all in the town of Calumet, the southwest part of the city.

It is estimated that the 11,386 objections filed cover more than 80,000 lots and other tracts of land. None of the objections have been heard. Clerks of the county attorneys are trying to group them so that there may be a hearing on several thousand parcels of property at one time.

Must Group Cases, He Says.

"In my time there have never been so many objections to taxes without any foundation in law or fact," commented Hayden Bell, county tax lawyer. He explained that it will be impossible to hear all of these objections unless it is agreed that one set of facts and argument shall apply to several thousands parcels at one time. Asked concerning the principal ground for objections, Mr. Bell replied:

"Excessive valuation, and inferentially lack of cash with which to pay."

Many property owners will find themselves in trouble because they have made a paymont on account, and then filed no objections in court. The property of such individuals is being sold for taxes, or the unpaid portion of the taxes.

When the tax sale will be completed is uncertain. The delinquent property in 245 volumes of tax warrants has already been sold and there remain 334 volumes. All this refers to general taxes only. After these have been disposed of, all property delinquent on special assessments must be offered for sale, and that involves going through 809 volumes of special assessment warrants. Every special assessment calls for a separate sale. One lot may have installments payable on five improvements. The law requires a sale for each installment.

Some of the objections to the 1927 taxes, which were supposed to have been paid in 1928, still are pending in court.

The next general taxes, due on April next, will average 20 per cent higher than on the property now being sold for nonpayment of taxes. The succeeding general taxes will be due on Dec. 1, and they will not be lower than those to be paid in April.

BODY IS FOUND IN NORTH WOODS BRIDAL MYSTERY

said, but she had decided. She borrowed $500 through a loan bank on a note said to have been signed by Mr. Geiger. On June 16 Mrs. Hackett and Perry were married in the county building by Judge Charles B. Adams of Canton, and on June 22 the newlyweds left Chicago in the bride's automobile.

Letters Are Received.

From Wisconsin Mrs. Rogers and others received post cards telling of the honeymoon trip. Several, dated between July 3 and 6, were posted from the Lac du Flambeau region, a wild and sparsely settled country near Rhinelander, more than 400 miles from Chicago. It was from this section that the new Mrs. Perry wrote Mrs. Rogers telling that her hopes for a happy marriage were not merely a dream, but a reality. She asked Mrs. Rogers to buy a blank diary for her and mail it. This was done around July 6.

The authorities say they have evidence that on the night of July 6 Mr. Perry was in Milwaukee alone and that he telephoned to his first wife in Cleveland, saying he would arrive in Cleveland the following day. He reached Cleveland July 7 in an automobile police say was Mrs. Hackett's. In the car, they say, were bags and a suitcase bearing the initials "C. B. H."

According to the police, Perry explained to his wife that the baggage belonged to his wealthy aunt in Chicago, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, and that the clothes were given him for their friends. Perry remained in Cleveland until Aug. 12, when he drove away saying he was going to Texas to drive a rich woman around.

Mrs. Perry, who went under her maiden name, said she became curious about the aunt. She found a letter in her husband's clothes addressed to Mrs. Rogers in Chicago.

Mrs. Perry communicated with Mrs. Rogers, inquiring about Mrs. Hackett, the supposed aunt. At the same time police here received a letter from Attorney Emanuel B. Cohen of New York asking for information of Mrs. Hackett, who was, he stated, a sister of Peggy L. Young of Woodside, L. I. The sister had not heard from Mrs. Hackett for several weeks and was alarmed.

German Woman Flyer for Central Chicago Airport

Building of a central airport on Chicago's lake front was urged yesterday by Fraulein Antonie Strassman, German good will flier, in a speech before members of the Junior Association of Commerce meeting in the Sherman hotel. She declared that Chicago has "the greatest future of any city in America" and asserted that a centralized airport was necessary for the city's progress in aviation.

Widow, Mother of 6, Shot by Drunken Policeman

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Angelina Mastione, 53, widowed mother of six children, was shot four times and probably fatally wounded while on the porch of her cottage in Brooklyn this evening by an intoxicated policeman.

ROCHE'S RAIDERS SEIZE HOODLUM IN CICERO HOTEL

Detectives from the office of Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, shifted their activities to Cicero yesterday, arresting Tony Mareno, hoodlum resident of the Western hotel, a Capone hangout at 4323 West 22d street.

Mareno mildly protested that he was a barber, but a search of his pockets by Detectives Julius Siegan and John H. Scherping revealed a .45 caliber Colt automatic and $1,036 in cash. The prisoner, questioned by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and Investigator Roche, asserted that he had borrowed the money, and that the gun had been given him by a man he couldn't name. Mareno was taken to the bureau of identification and was then locked up on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

SCIENCE CALLED TO WAGE WAR ON MODERN CRIME

Medicine and Law Agree on New Methods.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

University, legal, and medical authorities are agreed "in principle" that some sort of an institute of criminology must soon be established in Illinois in order to cope adequately with modern crime. The scientific resources are at hand, but they are not being utilized with the exception of the aid given by the crime detection bureau of Northwestern university in the St. Valentine day massacre and more recently in the Zuta murder case.

The this as well as the school in police training at the University of Chicago and the great laboratory resources of the University of Illinois should be coöperated and put on an official basis is the general conclusion reached by those who have studied the problem. Columbia university may throw some light on the problem, for it has had a commission at work for two years and it is to report soon.

Dr. Woodward's Views.

Dr. William C. Woodward, director of the bureau of legal medicine and legislation of the American Medical association, has this to say:

"Probably the best results would be obtained by adapting the New York City system to the needs of the state. The legal functions of the coroner's office throughout the state might be transferred to the office of attorney general, magistrates and grand jurors.

"The medical functions might be brought under the supervision of one competent state officer, as state coroner or medical examiner, with headquarters in the capital or in Chicago. He might be provided with technical assistance and laboratory facilities to enable him to supervise and supplement the work of a corps of district examiners, or 'coroners.'

"The office of coroner is imbedded in the state constitution, and would be hard to abolish. The appointments of the medical examiners should be on a basis of competitive examinations, with laws insuring permanency in office.

"The headquarters could be called in on any difficult case and would have at command the experts in ballistics and other fields. It could be expanded to include other medico-legal functions and, in connection with the state insane asylums, provide adequate psychiatric advice in connection with persons whom it is sought to commit to the asylums."

The Legalistic View.

A committee of the American Bar association is also at work on this subject. They worked last year and made a report that the institute idea was worth further study and they were authorized to continue. In this report the committee stated:

"There can be little question that the office of coroner now holds an anomalous place in the administration of our law. Scientific medicine was unknown when the office was established. Today, science, if given the opportunity, has much to contribute bearing on the problems that come to that office. Efficient, painstaking, prompt investigation by experts is required.

"The skilled pathologist, aided by the chemist, the toxocologist and the bacteriologist, must answer as to the physical causes of death. The experts in investigation and detection of crime, with skilled technicians in photography, finger print reading, identification of individuals, must discover and apprehend the perpetrator.

"The function, of the medico-legal institute as it exists in Europe is to determine causes and circumstances of death in cases of crime or accident. When properly manned it has a staff of expert medical scientists. If such an institute were established it would offer scintific aid of great value to medical examiner and coroner, prosecutor, courts and police. It probably should become part of the machinery of criminal justice.

"An institute of criminology would offer scientific training for all persons who have a part in the administration of criminal law. Policemen are an important link in the chain of law administration. So long as they are not well trained they cannot be blamed for indifferent work.

"As a rule the policeman knows little about criminality and the science of criminal identification, and often is not qualified to appraise the value of evidence which comes into his hands."

Prof. Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois is chairman of the bar association committee. On the medical association committee were Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, Dr. H. Douglas Singer, Dr. William J. Stapleton of Detroit and Dr. Winfred Overholser of Boston.

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Subpœnas were issued today for the bank accounts of all city magistrates in Manhattan and The Bronx at the direction of Isidor Kresel, special counsel to Samuel Seabury, the referee in the Appelate division inquiry into magistrates' courts.

Excluding Chief Magistrate Corrigan the subpœnas cover all of the twenty-four magistrates now sitting in the two counties, most of whom were appointed on the recommendation of various Democratic leaders.

JAIL WOMAN FOR LEAVING CRASH SCENE

Mrs. Geneva Picken, 31, of Danville, Ill., and George Volchuk were sentenced to ten days in the county jail yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David on charges of driving away from the scene of an accident. The sentence was imposed when prosecutors said they could not produce witnesses to substantiate a charge of manslaughter in the death on May 27 of Charles Borenstein, 65, 4448 Grenshaw street. Mrs. Picken was driving when the auto struck Borenstein.

Valentine Pietrzek, 60 years old, 13217 Exchange avenue, a laborer, was killed last night when struck by an automobile while pushing a small cart loaded with coal across Torrence avenue at 130th street. His son, Marion Pietrzek, 28 years old, who was walking beside his father, is in the South Shore hospital seriously injured. Mrs. Dorothy Runge, 34 years old, of 4721 Henry avenue, Hammond, the driver, is being held.

This death and three others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 788. The victims:

Mrs. Victoria Malli, 38 years old, 1526 Harrison street. Died on her way to Belmont hospital after being struck by a hit and run driver at Bryn Mawr and Milwaukee avenues, where she was waiting for a street car.

Frank Dlugopoeski, 8 years old, 1012 Erie street. Died in the county hospital of injuries received on Sept. 12 when struck by a hit and run driver.

Lillian Diatz, 3 years old, 5230 Rutherford avenue, Norwood Park. Killed when she fell from her father's automobile on Western avenue near Elston.

Policeman Milton Keebler, 5647 Throop street, while directing traffic last night at Ashland avenue and 56th street, was seriously injured when struck by an automobile driven by Miss Caroline Wasserman, 31 years old, a teacher, 9019 Loomis street. Miss Wasserman was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. At St. Bernard's hospital it was said that Keebler's skull was fractured.

RECORD NUMBER JAMMED IN JAIL AT WAUKEGAN

All records for the number of inmates in the Lake county jail at Waukegan were broken yesterday when Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle announced that 76 men and women were being held there.

The normal capacity of the jail is 46 and the previous high mark was set two years ago with 72 prisoners.

The situation has served to stimulate the movement for a new jail building. James Kelly of Lake Forest, member of the Lake county board of supervisors, is expected to start action for a new jail at a meeting of the board in December.

DOMINIONS ASK RIGHT TO HAVE OWN NATIONALITY

Seek to Change Laws on Naturalization.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Imperial conference met today under the shadow of the R-101 disaster. Most of the morning meeting was taken up by speeches of sympathy by the dominion prime ministers and a reply by Prime Minister MacDonald, who is deeply affected by the loss of Lord Thomson, who was not only British air minister but a personal friend of the prime minister.

A resolution of sympathy was moved by Prime Minister Bennett of Canada and was seconded by Prime Minister Scullin of Australia.

Immediately after the morning meeting Mr. MacDonald left for the Labor party conference at Llandudno, Wales. In the afternoon the chair was taken by Mr. Scullin.

Refer Questions to Committee.

The heads of the delegations have completed their consideration of constitutional questions and have referred most of them to the legal committee under Lord Sankey for detailed consideration. The principal questions referred to the committee were those of coöperation in dominion legislation, nationality of the empire, advice to the king on the appointment of governors general, the issue of full powers to diplomats, a form for commercial treaties, and the status of high commissioners.

The most interesting of the questions is that of nationality. Formerly a British subject throughout the world was British in the sense that a Roman was a Roman citizen anywhere. In late years, however, some dominions, including South Africa, Canada and Ireland, have been developing the theory of separate nationality and have been issuing passports and granting naturalization on different grounds than those of the British government. The Sankey committee, it is hoped, will find some way to reconcile world British citizenship with dominion particularism.

Begin Work Today.

The right of a citizen in any dominion to appeal from his own supreme court to the privy council was also referred to the Sankey committee, but it is understood that the heads of the delegations have agreed that this question must be allowed to lapse, if not definitely abolished.

The Sankey committee will begin work tomorrow morning. A meeting of the economic committee was also held this afternoon.

On Wednesday a plenary session will be held. It may last three days. At this time the economic proposals of all the dominions will be laid before the conference.

PIECE OF WIRE, MAN KNOWN AS 'BILL' ONLY CLEWS IN BOY MURDER

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 6.—(AP)—A 14 year old boy's description of a man known as "Bill," and a piece of wire that strangled Earl Fuller, 12, after he had been brutally tortured, today formed the only clews in the hands of officers seeking the boy's slayer.

The mutilated body, a strand of wire drawn tightly about the neck, was found in the "flats" along the Mississippi river, three blocks from the Fuller home, yesterday morning. Earl was last seen alive about 9 o'clock Saturday night when he left a group of boys with whom he had played football in a city park.

Alfred Haigh, 14, the only one of his eleven playmates who could offer any definite aid, said he left the park with a man who was called "Bill." Sixty suspects were rounded up by police, including many transient residents of the "flats," in an endeavor to have the boy identify the man.

The body of the boy was found in a clump of bushes along the river by Henry Waltz of Dubuque. The clothes had been torn from the body. Wire similar to the strand that circled the boy's neck was found about 150 feet away, indicating that the attacker knew the layout of the place.

Artist's Model in Cigaret Ad Files Suit for $250,000

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—An artist's model, Mrs. Doris Podmore, filed suit for $250,000 today against the American Tobacco company. She says the company used her picture without consent in a cigaret advertisement and caused to be silhouetted beside it "a shadow of a grossly fat woman." She became ill, she alleges, as a result of "ridicule and contempt" to which she was subjected because of publication of the advertisement.

DEMOCRATS GET BLAME IN SLOW TRADE RECOVERY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Responsibility for the slow recovery from the current economic depression was placed upon the Democratic party tonight by Speaker Nicholas Longworth (Rep., O.) in the fourth of a series of six national broadcast addresses arranged by the Republican national committee. Mr. Longworth asserted that the unemployment situation would be infinitely better than it is today if Democratic senators had not followed a policy of delay in acting on the tariff. Upon the heads of the senators responsibility for much of the present unemployment must rest, Mr. Longworth asserted.

Early in the day Mr. Longworth said that reports indicated some Democratic gains would be made in the house in the elections this fall. He expressed confidence, however, that the Republicans would control the next house as they did the last one.

Dry Issue Troublesome.

"There is no indication of an upheaval and no real dissatisfaction with Republican policies," Speaker Longworth said in an interview. "My reports are to the effect that in industrial sections the Republican vote will be reduced due to unemployment. The issue that is causing the greatest trouble is prohibition, and in Ohio and Massachusetts some Republican candidates for the house may be defeated because of this and other complications. Generally speaking, my diagnosis shows that the electorate is not going to punish the Republican party for economic conditions. They seemed to be impressed with the truth of the situation that bad times are nationwide and that a change politically would not benefit the country.

Says Wet Issue Gains.

"In Ohio I read in the always accurate poll of the Cincinnati Inquirer that the Democratic candidate for the senate, who favors repeal of the 18th amendment, is running 100 per cent ahead of the Republican candidate, who is dry. The wet issue seems to be gaining adherents in many sections of the country and many dry Republicans may go down to defeat in the November election. But since there is no apparent upheaval I cannot see the Democrats winning the house. But the Republican majority will be reduced and this will give the Democrats and independents an opportunity to tie up legislation through a combination similar to that made in the senate over the tariff."

TRAIN KILLS SANITARIUM PATIENT.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Marie Ostheimer, 33, daughter of Lewis Ostheimer, Indianapolis, was killed at Rome City, eight miles north of here today, when struck by a Pennsylvania freight train while walking along the tracks. She had been a patient at Kneipp sanitarium.

A slight headache WARNS YOU

That is a bad way to start the day because it more than likely indicates that you have been neglecting the very important matter of keeping the digestive tract functioning properly and disposing of the poisons in the system.

If you will ask your doctor, he will tell you these slight morning headaches should not be passed off too lightly, especially if the cause is sluggish digestion. For this apparently small thing may lead to more serious complications.

And, it's so easily and pleasantly corrected with Acidophilus milk distributed here by—dairies. MRS. McCORMICK TWITS LEWIS ON NEWS IN EUROPE

Expects League Crisis in Russian Intrigues.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—News of the Russian plan to invade Rumania with a soviet army next spring and to take back Bessarabia was used by Ruth Hanna McCormick tonight as point for an argument that the league of nations is still one of the great issues in the Illinois campaign.

The Republican nominee for senator, speaking at Taylorville earlier in the day and here this evening, declared that if James Hamilton Lewis, her Democratic opponent, had succeeded in getting America into the league when the whip of the senate in the Wilson régime, the United States today would be facing prospects of sending soldiers overseas to police Europe.

"My distinguished, eloquent and gallant opponent, James Hamilton Lewis, says the league is a dead issue," said Mrs. McCormick. "That is a wish thought with him. He wishes it were dead. But instead it is very much alive.

May Call for Armed Intervention.

"You've seen the news this morning that Russia is planning an armed invasion of Rumania with Bessarabia as objective. They're beginning to break down the boundaries drawn by the treaty of Versailles. If the project should materialize in an invasion, the league of nations, by majority vote might instruct any member nation of the league to use united armed force, instructed to enforce the mandate of the league. Force of arms or economic boycott are the agencies for enforcement.

"Woodrow Wilson, as the great exponent of an internationalistic foreign policy, as against the nationalistic policy of the Republicans, was the great advocate of the league of nations. My opponent, Mr. Lewis, then senator, was spokesman for the Wilson policies, and day after day he took the floor advocating that America join the league. He advocated that the United States should be a member of an international alliance which should use armies and navies and make war to enforce its peace mandates.

Says League Is Live Issue.

"He was one who urged that force should be used by nations in the league to compel obedience by other nations, and had his ideas prevailed he would have the United States assisting a European military alliance in declaring war in the sacred name of peace.

"The league of nations is as live an issue as it ever was, only it is before us in different form. The question of adherence to the world court is to be brought up in the senate next December or the succeeding December, and the world court is the back door of the league of nations. Democrats in the senate today believe in the internationalistic policy as much as ever, and they are for carrying America into the league by the back entrance if not the front door, and they are for the world court.

"It is reported that Mr. Lewis is not an advocate of the world court, but I've never seen him quoted as giving his reasons. If he believes in the league, the logical thing would be for him to be an adherent to the world court. If it is true he has changed his mind, we'd like to hear from him why he has changed his mind."

Attacks His Liquor Inferences.

Mrs. McCormick drew laughter from the crowds in discussing the liquor referendum by intimating that Mr. Lewis, while playing up his personal dryness, is seeking to leave an impression that as a magician he's going to lift a seidel of beer with a collar out of the hat on election night.

"My distinguished opponent," remarked Mrs. McCormick, "is quoted as telling audiences that he is dry personally, but is trying to leave the impression that as soon as a voter votes for him he can hasten home and get there in time to blow the froth off a glass of beer, which in some mysterious manner will have appeared on his kitchen table.

"Mr. Lewis says if elected senator he's going to vote wet no matter what the people of Illinois say. He can't do what he's saying he's going to do. He cannot vote wet—all he can do is to vote to resubmit the 18th amendment to a referendum of the states.

Discusses Mrs. O'Neill.

"My other distinguished opponent, who has the backing of the Anti-Saloon league, says if elected she will vote dry, no matter how the referendum goes. The same thing is true of this dry vote as of Mr. Lewis' wet vote—a senator can vote only to resubmit the 18th amendment to the states and three-fourths of the states are needed to ratify.

"In Illinois 400,000 citizens have signed a petition for a referendum on repeal of the 18th amendment. I am standing exactly where I have always stood. I am as dry as when I wrote my platform for congressman-at-large two years ago. But I do not believe, whether for or against, that I would have the remotest right as a representative of Illinois to vote contrary to the opinion expressed in a legal and orderly way by the people I'm sent to represent. If I went contrary to the people's will as expressed in a legal and orderly manner I would regard myself as a traitor to majority rule, representative government and the bill of rights."

WIRE TAPPING CHARGE CROPS UP IN NORRIS CAMPAIGN QUIZ BY NYE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Charges that a man representing himself to be a federal officer sought to tap telephone wires in Lincoln, Neb., during the Norris compaign inquiry there by the senate election expenditures committee are made by Charles E. Matson, a Lincoln attorney, in a letter sent to Vice President Curtis.

Although copies of the letter were obtained in Washington today it was said at the office of the Vice President that it had not yet been received.

Mr. Matson said that he offered to produce evidence that a would be wire tapper attempted to tap the wires of citizens opposed to Senator George W. Morris [Rep., Neb.], and suggested that he be called to testify before the committee when it held its hearing in Lincoln Sept. 22, but that the committee did not summon him.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the committee, said that he has had correspondence with Mr. Matson on the subject and that he will be summoned at the next hearing in Lincoln.

DISSOLVES ONE LEWIS WRIT IN MINERS' BATTLE

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Without passing on the merits of the opposing litigation, Judge Frederick A. Hill in Circuit court dissolved an injunction by which adherents of the Harry Fishwick faction were forbidden to call themselves "United Mine Workers of America."

In so doing Judge Hill focussed the legal imbroglio of Illinois coal miners in the Sangamon County Circuit court.

Less than a month ago Judge Hill had declined to dissolve the injunction, holding then that Fishwick and his followers acted without authority in forming a new United Mine Workers organization at Springfield, and ignoring the body headed by John L. Lewis.

Fishwick's injunction against the Lewis group, restraining it from interference with Fishwick's new "international," still stands in Sangamon County court, challenged by Lewis. There, Judge Hill said, the issues should be fought out and not in the Franklin or Iroquois County courts where Lewis sought redress.

ARCHDUKE TOWED DESPITE LACK OF PAPAL BLESSING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 6.—Despairing of ever obtaining a papal annulment of his wife's former marriage, thus allowing a Roman Catholic church wedding, Archduke Albrecht of Hapsburg will be married under the rites of the Old Catholic church—a small dissenting Roman Catholic branch.

The marriage will take place on Oct. 26. The ceremony will be performed in a new church which is to be dedicated on Oct. 12. Albrecht has already contributed $5,000 to the building fund of the church.

Determined to obtain a church wedding before beginning conjugal life, Albrecht thus far has been living apart from his wife. Albrecht is staying at the palace in Budapest while his wife is in a summer home outside of the city.

Acidity Slams More Doors than Temper!

"Touchy" and grouchy husbands are often only sick men! It's acid in their systems speaking when they bark and growl.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid causes acid indigestion with gas, sourness and burning. It sets up putrefaction and fermentation in the intestines which spreads poisons through the system and often results in sick headaches, nervousness, irritability and depleted energies.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new acid corrective comes in the form of a small, white tablet called Magnesia Oxoids, which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active oxygen. Now, as any doctor will tell you, active oxygen when created within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks putrefaction and fermentation in the intestines. It stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to a real correction of acidity.

Make This Acidity Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your indigestion, your cranky spells, your blue days and sleepless nights. Make this acidity test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other reliable druggist. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't notice a decided improvement in your spirits and health, return the bottle to your druggist and he will refund your money.—Advertisement.

THE DAY AT KING'S MOUNTAIN.

The King's Mountain celebration today, commemorating, as it does, the hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battle, has some more than ordinary features. The President has journeyed to the scene and the British ambassador is present to dedicate a tablet to Ferguson, the fallen leader of the lost fight. He was buried in a ravine a short distance from where he fell and a cairn, such as was thrown together on wilderness graves to keep the wolves from digging, marks his burial spot.

The war in the south was bitter and brutal beyond the experience of the north. The southerners, divided on the question of loyalty to king or country, were savage in their attacks, and reprisals upon each other and the invading army had some leaders noted for rough work and destructive campaigning. The best known was Tarleton, with whose name Ferguson's was frequently connected, but the commander defeated at King's Mountain was not a brutal or even inconsiderate enemy. The occupied country had no particular reason to hate him. He was a man of fine courage and a good officer. He had invented a repeating firearm of sorts, proving, however crudely, that this was a prospective development, but the official military mind also proved its power of resistance to innovation, as it frequently has, and in the United States was yielding to it slowly only in the later part of the civil war.

King's Mountain is the perfect example of the armed freeman springing to the defense of his soil, but as an example it cannot be taken as indicating the inevitable outcome of such springing. These were unusual freemen. Most of them lived in the mountains and river valleys of western Virginia and North Carolina and eastern Tennessee. In the valleys of the Watauga, the Clinch, Nolichucky, Powell, Holston, etc., they had furnished their own security. They were self-reliant men in conditions which did not invite timidity or reward weakness. Familiarity with weapons was a necessity. The men they recognized as leaders, such as Campbell, Sevier, Shelby, and Cleveland, were natural selections tested by experience. An incompetent could not have assumed any authority or have required any submission. The men had gone to the frontiers to open up new lands and make new states. They were far from the reach of government and had to make their own. They were individualists, each inured to hardship and hazard.

When they heard that the British were so unwise as to threaten their communities in the overrunning of the south it was a highly selected body of fighters which rode out of the mountains in defense. They went south through the passes and valleys seeking the roving left wing of Cornwallis under Ferguson and found it in position on the rough slopes of what is known as King's Mountain, on the North and South Carolina line. This is not mountain country, but there are several isolated ridges or upheavals, and it was in the foothills of one of them that the British commander posted himself to turn back the expedition against him. His troops were mostly American Tories enlisted and trained in the British army, and as Tories hated by the patriots much more fervently than the British regulars.

The mountain men tied their horses, encircled the bowlder studded hill, and began their attack. Their leaders had told them that one thing was expected of them. If they gave way before the bayonet rushes it would be all right, providing they came back again. They did. Ferguson's downhill attacks disorganized his own force and not the attackers. The advance up the slopes was irresistible, Ferguson was mortally wounded, the Tory spirit fell with him, and when the attacking lines converged at the top the success was complete. In casualties or captives the British force was almost entirely bagged and word went to Cornwallis that the defeat was complete. A new hope went through the harried south.

The country now, in commemorating the event, renews its acquaintance with the character of the nation builders and keeps fresh its appreciation of the qualities needed to make it and keep it.

DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF.

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana says there were nineteen Democratic senators who took every tariff boost they could get in the Hawley-Smoot law to acquire merit with their local manufacturers in the legislation which they describe as a Republican monstrosity. The record very likely would fully sustain him in showing that wherever a Democratic senator saw a state advantage in higher rates he went after them like any Grundy. The tariff is a political iniquity when it boosts the other fellow's rates, but a Jeffersonian who went low tariff where his own folk were involved would be regarded as too much of a doctrinaire for service in a pragmatic world. He would be retired to the cloister where his devotion to principle would not have an effect on the supply of side meat and meal for the winter.

It is not, however, impossible in American politics to take off in one direction for some substantial realities and in the other for diversion in philosophy and criticism. It is good-naturedly accepted that it would be unreasonable to expect a statesman's actions to conform to his principles. One serves one purpose, the other another. It adds variety to public life.

OUR ACCOMMODATING JUDGES.

Eight men were arrested in Chicago Heights Sunday morning suspected of complicity in hoodlum operations in Cook county. They were arrested by officers of the state's attorney of Cook county. Without any apparent difficulty two judges were found who did not hesitate to hold court on Sunday with the result that the prisoners were released before they had even been checked up by the police bureau of identification in Chicago. If they had any information to give about hoodlum activities in Chicago it remains with them. If they are guilty of crimes committed there is nothing but a $200 bond holding each of them from flight.

The eight owe their release to the zeal of their lawyers who found ready coöperation in City Judge Craig A. Hood and Police Magistrate A. I. Zeller of Chicago Heights. The conduct of these gentlemen, we think, deserves some special consideration from the electorate and especially from the bar associations. Judges do not customarily hold court on Sunday, and when they do so it may be assumed to be of their own volition. Why these judges chose to do so is a matter worthy of inquiry. Was their sense of duty toward the law and the suspects reinforced by feelings of friendship toward the lawyers? Was it, perhaps, reinforced by warm regard for the prisoners themselves? These are questions to which the associations of lawyers may discover the answer.

The inquiry, too, might well be extended to occupants of the bench in Chicago who have shown a similar willingness, not to say eagerness, to spring to the defense of the hoodlum and the gangster. By no means all the judges to be found in this category are in the Municipal court. There is no point at which the alliance between crime and politics can make itself more evident than in the courtroom of whatever rank to which the criminal suspect is summoned. There he appears before the judge, an official who owes his office to political action. There he is represented by his confidant, a lawyer who may be as consequential a figure in the world of politics as he is invaluable in the world of crime. The finding of the judge in such cases may be based on something other than the law, however weighty the citation of precedents on behalf of the defendant.

The conduct of judges who are hearing the cases of hoodlums deserves the most careful scrutiny. When a judge departs from his routine, and in consequence men under suspicion are released prematurely, the presumption can hardly be to the credit of the judge.

RAILROAD PESSIMISM.

With much of what the president of the Chicago and North Western railway said at the bankers' convention we agree. American railways have suffered much from ill advised public regulation, from heavy taxation, from unjust exactions imposed upon behalf of other industries, from new forms of competition, unweighted by similar burdens. In the interest not only of the railroads but of general business and of the whole people these disadvantages should be removed and a more helpful and constructive policy should be established and maintained.

These disadvantages unquestionably have not only retarded the physical development of railways but they also have discouraged initiative and enterprise in railroad management. For this reason criticism of management ought to be restrained and as far as possible what is called constructive. Yet it would be uncandid to put all of the blame upon the shoulders of political action and public opinion. Railroad ownership and management share responsibility. The hostile attitude and ill considered regulations of which railroad men complain were precipitated by grave faults in railroad policy and practice, and while the worst have been corrected, because of the very public demand which railroad management criticizes, there are still legitimate and important causes of public discontent with the railroads. In Chicago we are the victims of railroad inertia and failure to see and seize opportunity. The railways terminal situation has been a crying offense to the city for years, an injury to the city and to the railroads themselves. Absentee control has refused relief and we have had to put up with conditions which the east has not had to tolerate. If competition of new forms of transport has reduced revenue, instead of meeting the threat with resourcefulness and improved facilities the railroads have shown too much of a disposition to find alibis in political attack. It is true the railroads have greatly improved freight service in the last half decade and spent large sums upon their physical plants. But passenger service has not kept pace with the times, and perhaps in this field there is too much defeatism in the philosophy of the railroads and too little determination to meet new conditions with new resources. Admittedly restriction of earnings, through unwise public policies, creates new difficulties and limits the possibilities of progress. But it does not foreclose them and should not paralyze but invigorate the determination of management to overcome difficulties.

Railroad progress has been deterred not merely by imposed restrictions but by the lack of alert progressiveness. The railroads are suffering less from a subversive public policy today than from their own pessimism and failure to make the most of opportunity.

ADULT EDUCATION.

[Rockford (Ill.) Register-Gazette.]

It is a pleasant thought that 37,000 men and women have enrolled in the adult classes of the Chicago public evening schools. The total number is expected to reach 60,000, an increase of 10,000 over last year. Some of these students are striving to realise in a little way at least hopes long deferred. Harsh circumstances deprived them of educational advantages in their childhood. Now they strive to recover lost ground. Others are ambitious to acquire knowledge which will help them improve their material condition. All are on the right track. They are working to a helpful mental stimulus and a large measure of self-respect. Learning a little more each day they can face the world with more courage. By all means, too, quickening of their citizenship, a keener interest in the work of the world and a more valuable participation in it. To extend and build up adult education is a service tremendously worth while.

SMALLPOX ON INCREASE.

J. E. F. wants an article on smallpox with especial reference to its contagiousness. He wants to know if the disease can be carried a distance of forty to fifty feet by air.

REPLY.

Smallpox has shown a definite tendency towards increased prevalence, both in Europe and America, during the last fifteen years. Something more than thirty years ago the general run of smallpox epidemics seemed to be due to a very mild virus. While the disease seemed as contagious as ever, those who developed it did not have many pocks, they were not very sick, they generally got well, and bad marking, blindness, or other objectionable after effects were infrequent. In consequence, people lost much of their old time fear of the disease. Some countries, notably England, took the teeth out of their vaccination laws and others relaxed in the use of their more stringent laws. Still others tried to get along without laws, or with poor ones.

In consequence we are in the midst of an increased prevalence of epidemics in sections of both America and Europe. To make matters worse, every so often we have a few weeks of old fashioned smallpox, with its deaths, its blindness, and its horrible illness. We need to wake up and go at the matter with something of the old time vigor.

Smallpox is the most contagious of all the eruptive fevers, but it cannot be borne through the air for distances of forty to fifty feet. It begins to be contagious shortly before any symptom develops. It is highly contagious during the stage of fever, headache, and backache, which precede the eruption by three days. It is supposed to remain contagious as long as ulcers are present. It is spread by the breath, by the secretions, and by the pus from the sores.

It can be prevented by vaccination. Immunity conferred by vaccination usually lasts seven years, though in many cases it is protective only for five. In many instances one vaccination completely protects for life, though in most instances, after five to seven years, protection is only partial. Young children, including babies, stand vaccination much better than adults do.

The old time dangers of sepsis and tetanus have practically disappeared by reason of the use of modern methods, but some cases of encephalitis in the wake of vaccination have been reported, both from Europe and from this country.

Protection of a community by quarantine is expensive and insufficient.

MANY CASES ARE CURED.

M. A. N. writes. I am 18 years of age, and have had tuberculosis of the hip for thirteen years.

1. Can I be completely cured? If not, to what extent?
2. Can this be done by violet ray treatments?
3. Must I undergo an operation?

REPLY:

1. Many cases are cured, with fixation of the joint.
2. No.
3. Many cases require operation.

As you have had your trouble thirteen years you doubtless have had many examinations and much treatment. The opinions from physicians who have observed you are far better than any general opinion based on generalities.

2. In the case of arthritis, are not the deposits of different nature in different people? This is important to determine in order to know what is best to eat.

REPLY:

1. By a chemical analysis of a stone. If no stone is available repeated urinary examinations for such points as excess acidity, excess salts, and for crystals will point the way.
2. Deposits of minerals in the tissues is not usual in even chronic arthritis. When such tophi happen to be present one can sometimes be removed and analysed. They vary according to the disease.

GOOD TIME FOR AN HEIR.

Mrs. A. L. writes:

1. I expect my baby in the spring. If I am unable to nurse it, is it dangerous to change milk during the summer?
2. Also, when do you believe is the best time of the year for a baby to be born?

REPLY:

1. Not if you are reasonably careful.
2. In the late spring.

Ten years ago these answers would have been improper. A study of recent statistics shows that young babies have their lowest death rates in summer. Good safe milk preparations and milks are now generally available. However, by all means, breast feed for six to nine months.

THESE BONDS ARE GOOD.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The bank where I bought some mortgage bonds closed its doors two months ago. The bonds are due now. What can I do to collect them?

M. S.

The closing of the bank had nothing to do with your right to collect from the maker of the bonds. You should present the bonds to the maker for payment and if he fails to pay you should examine the trust indenture and pursue the remedies authorized. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

C. N.

1. No.
2. It is supposed to be presented the next day. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHEN THE BRAZILIAN REVOLUTION GETS ON THE RADIO.

Hello, everybody: this is QXQ broadcasting the nice little revolution they've stirred up down here in Brazil. Well, folks, this is a new game for me, but nowadays the radio is going after everything, and so we thought we would give you this revolution just as it happens. I've got a bullet proof vest on and a pair of strong binoculars and a telescope, and I'm up where can see about everything, and if they don't get to shooting this way I'll tell you everything just as it happens. There comes the government army: they've got a lot of cannon and they look pretty fine.

No, wait a minute; there's a lot of smoke around on account of the shootihg, and I made a mistake. That's the revolutionary army. Just a minute; another mistake. You see, this is the first time I ever broadcast a battle. That isn't the revolutionary army, that's a parade of Shriners; it's the Rio drill team. Or maybe it's a parade of the Modern Woodmen or the Elks. I'll let you know later. But here come the revolutionists, revolutioning all over the place. It looks like an old-fashioned Fourth of July. Now, folks, just a minute and I'll let you listen to the battle. Boom! Boom! Boom! Now, did you all hear it?

Well, that's the battle all right. There they go! The government troops are chasing the revolutionists. No, wait a minute; there's a lot of confusion down there; there always is in a battle. The revolutionists are chasing the government troops. Just a minute. It's hard to see the field up here, both on account of the smoke and the growing darkness. I understand the whistle has just blown and the troops are knocking off work for the day. Or else the government troops heard they were going to be paid and have gone over to the paymaster's tent to get their dough.

But they'll all be back here tomorrow ready to go at it again, and I'll be here, too, ready to tell you everything. You will now listen to our studio jazz band playing "Gimme a Squeeze, Dearie, Just One Little Squeeze." You will please stand by for station announcements.

Poor personalia, second-rate memories,

Say that there once was a town named St. Julien
Red in the night, and the bodies in pairs,
Lying in witness of hand-to-hand, mad assault;
Well! . . . . . who cares?

Time has been striding the road to Mont Sec amain
Over a decade, and what's to record
Here in these days we have lived into witlessly?
Say! . . . . . aren't we bored?

Why should we chronicle deeds, men and days now dead,
Straining to sing of a life long apart;
Is it perchance that they seem to be present still
In one heart?

WILLIAM PENN has been the idol of Philadelphia for several hundred years, but his statue's going to come down, and in its place will be put a statue in solid gold of James Emory Foxx, who made a home run and brought in another run when the score was tied in the ninth inning of the great battle yesterday. And why, ask you, does our hero spell his name with two x's? For the same reason that the deposed patron saint spelled Penn with two n's.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 7, 1914.

LONDON.—An Antwerp dispatch gives the following official communication issued last night: "The military governor has informed the burgomaster that a bombardment of Antwerp is imminent and that the people who wish to flee from the town are requested to leave. The bombardment will have no influence on the town's resistance which will be pushed to the limit." Many residents have already left the city for places of refuge in Holland and England.

PARIS.—German cavalry made its reappearance on the scene of action today in great force, thus disproving reports that all its horses had been made useless because of an epidemic of glanders. The allies' extended front in France met with vigorous counter attacks on the part of the Germans, who seem to have weakened their position on the center of the battle line in order to throw heavy masses of men against the left and right wings. The allies, although forced back at some points on their left, have been generally able to hold their own.

BERLIN.—[By wireless to Sayville, L. I.]—It is officially stated that the Russians were completely defeated near Suwalki and Augustowo on the East Prussian frontier. It is announced that the situation everywhere is most hopeful for the Germans and Austrians.

PETROGRAD.—The official war announcement says: "The Russian offensive campaign continues. The fortified positions of the enemy on the frontier are under a heavy artillery fire. The enemy has received reinforcement from the garrison at Koenigsberg. There has been particularly desperate fighting at Bakalargewo."

CHICAGO.—Ten thousand persons waved their arms, swung their hats or umbrellas for 20 minutes at the Coliseum when Gov. Theodore Roosevelt appeared from his long trip through the west. The cheers were taken up outside by 10,000 persons who were unable to gain admittance to hear the governor's speech. Gov. Roosevelt, referring to William Jennings Bryan's statements that Providence and not the Republican party was responsible for the good times, said: "I am perfectly willing to admit there was a fusion between Providence and the Republican party. The Democratic party has fused with everything else about except Providence, but I never heard of it fusing with that."

LONDON. — With the Chinese muddle showing signs of clearing up there is some opportunity of paying attention to the quiet ending of the war in South Africa. Out of 30,000 wounded 29,000 have actually returned to duty, but 10,000 British soldiers have found graves in South Africa. From Lourenzo Marquez comes a statement that President Kruger's grandson will sail on Oct. 10 to prepare a residence for Mr. Kruger in Brussels. Kruger will sail a few days later.

CHICAGO. — Senator Marcus A. Hanna and Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio were the speakers at a big north shore Republican rally at Evanston.

OCTOBER 7, 1880.

PITTSBURGH. — Democratic journals seem to grow more reckless every day in their statements. According to them about half the Republicans in Allegheny county have flopped over to Hancock. The truth is there has been less flopping than usual. No Republican of standing has deserted his flag.

PARIS. — Mme. de Metternich, the witty heroine of innumerable stories and intrigues during the second empire, is to spend the winter here, much to the satisfaction of the Paris tradespeople.

PARIS. — Jacques Offenbach, the composer and dramatist, is dead. All Paris will be at the funeral, which takes place at the Madeleine on Thursday. He was seized with an attack of gout yesterday and 12 hours later was dead.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Economy may be carried to such extremes as to be classed as penuriousness and become very annoying, as in the present demoralized condition of the postal affairs of this city. Three instances occurring this week may be cited. A leaflet announcing a meeting for Thursday evening was mailed last Saturday; on Monday the person mailing was notified that more postage was required and a messenger went at once to the postoffice and affixed the ½ cent stamp extra. These printed announcements were not delivered prior to the meeting and mine reached me Friday morning, six days after mailing at the general postoffice and four after the extra stamps were affixed.

On Monday evening I mailed copy to a printer for a rush order for circulars, sending it as first class matter with full postage affixed for sealed mail. This reached the printer, a few blocks from my home, Wednesday morning. He had called for the copy Tuesday afternoon when I learned that he had not received that mailed.

On Monday I mailed 150 copies of the Year Book of the Illinois Woman's Press association, properly addressed with full postage affixed. Some of them were delivered Thursday morning and some had not been received Thursday evening. I had taken the precaution of having the books weighed and postage ascertained before mailing. These are three concrete instances occurring within one week, but others might be mentioned equally exasperating. We have come to realize that printed notices in open envelopes are delivered at the convenience of an inadequate staff of carriers. I was told by a carrier that similar mail and magazines were stacked up at substations for days, delivery delayed because the carriers were unable to handle them promptly.

Residence districts that formerly had three deliveries a day now have but two and fewer deliveries are given the business district. Chicago sends a large sum to Washington as the receipts of its postoffice and is entitled to fair service. We should not be deprived of service to meet deficits in other cities, nor to pay for the mailing of political documents for propaganda by our public servants. Let us have fair play.

JUSTICE IN U. S.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29.—Your paper, issue of the 27th, carried a dispatch from Peoria regarding the building of the memorial to Jennie M. Constance, who met her death at the hands of an assailant in Chicago, and in this connection to the eternal shame of the state of Illinois may it be said that the murderer of this woman is today enjoying life, sleeping in a better bed, eating better food than he ever had before committing the foul deed for which he was found guilty!

AFRICA SPEAKS.

Maywood, Ill., Oct. 1.—Sometimes one feels he must break into print or lose and this time for me was brought on by viewing a current motion picture known as "Africa Speaks."

As a photographic composition there can be no question but that it is interesting, colorful, vivid. But to say it is all true is another matter.

It seemed to me that our heroes continued to appear just a trifle too immaculately turned out even for a safe jungle jaunt of fourteen months. One does not go into wild country like that, undergo at least some inconveniences and come through looking exactly as when he started, with not even an added wrinkle or loss of fat around the middle.

Then, too, there must have been a third camera man else how could our two lone heroes appear together in conversation?

No. As a true story it merely becomes only another of those glaring superlatives with which the movie public has so long been deluged. We must just grin and say, "Well, we got through that one. Now what will they try to feed us next?"

Let's have done with the hookum and hooey.

PRESIDENTIAL FISH.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—A full column in today's TRIBUNE is devoted to a discussion of President Hoover's new book on the art of fishing. After reading numerous quotations from this illustrious rival of Walton's "The Complete Angler," I am convinced of the following facts:

First—That the book offers a splendid solution of the business depression.

Second—That it is a complete and ample fulfillment of every campaign promise made by its author.

Third—That it is unquestionably the most concise statement on problems since he appointed the Wickersham committee to investigate the subject.

Fourth—That R. H. L.'s column in today's TRIBUNE entitled "Debors" has a last line that isn't so funny at that. The line reads "This country is sure going to H——"

RICHARD PROTESTS.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—I am a boy of 13 years of age and in the eighth grade in St. Lawrence's school. My brother, who is 13 years of age and also in the eighth grade, and myself went to the Tivoli theater at 63d and Cottage Grove avenue and were informed by the management that we would have to pay full price for admission.

I am protesting such an action as unfair to myself and other school children, as school children have not the means to pay full admission, as they are entirely dependent upon their parents for their spending money, and in most cases the parents cannot afford to give the children enough money to pay full admission.

LEENEY'S LOVE AFFAIR TOLD AT MURDER TRIAL

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Mrs. Dorothy Langley went through the ordeal of several hours of public confession yesterday before a jury in Judge Joseph Sabath's crowded courtroom in the Criminal Courts building. She had been called by the state as a witness against Mrs. Florence Leeney, who is charged with the murder of her husband, Maurice Leeney. The state charges that a love affair which Mrs. Langley had with Leeney, who was her cousin, was a motive for the murder.

That Mrs. Langley was desperately uncomfortable during the hours she was on the witness stand was apparent. Though her head was bowed, her hands fumbling nervously, and her tongue frequently became paralyzed when the searching inquiry of the attorneys touched on the topic of her affair with the middle aged trucking contractor who was shot to death last New Year's day, she was alert and communicative again when it turned to impersonal things. Neither blushes nor tears marked her testimony.

Meditated Harm to Husband.

Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and Ross Lee Laird benefited by her appearance for the state to the extent that she described Mrs. Leeney as vengeful and meditating harm to her husband some weeks before his death. Mrs. Leeney, she testified, brought a revolver to her home and said she intended to use it, at the same time declaring that Maurice was trying to make trouble between blood relations by telling his wife of his relations with Dorothy. She intimated that Mrs. Leeney did not believe the story.

Defense Attorneys Charles Dougherty and Samuel A. Hoffman also gained an advantage in her testimony when Mrs. Langley admitted her misconduct with Leeney, and that Mrs. Leeney and he had quarreled over her presence in their home. She said further that Mrs. Leeney had requested her to leave, but she had stayed on when Leeney ordered his wife to attend to her own affairs. On cross-examination she confessed further that Leeney had established her in a hotel room for a week, and had purchased a coat for her.

Separated from Husband.

Mrs. Langley gave her age as 20, her address as 5512 Drexel boulevard, and said that she and her husband, Normal Langley, who was employed by Leeney, separated in March of this year.

John J. Leeney, older brother of the dead man, cast his sister-in-law in anything but a favorable light when he repeated at length conversations he had had with her, which he gave as replete with profanity. His most dramatic moment on the stand came when he repeated the substance of a talk he had with her last Thanksgiving morning, in which he quoted her as saying she had been having trouble with Maurice, and ending with the assertion:

Points Finger at Defendant.

Then, leveling a forefinger at the defendant as she moved uneasily in her chair behind her attorneys, he addressed himself directly to her:

"That's what you said, Flo," he affirmed sonorously.

A strong family feeling in the Leeney clan, which extended also to the relatives of Mrs. Leeney, was indicated by the testimony of John and another of the Leeney brothers, George, 29, of 6322 South Loomis street. George testified that his brother Maurice had taken him from an orphan home into his own home, where he boarded for about ten years.

The name of George (Red) Barker, racketeer, now in difficulties with the law, came into the testimony when George stated that Maurice had been carrying a revolver with the permission of former Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege, because Barker had been trying to make trouble for him.

Urges Its Adoption Immediately in U. S.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Representatives of organized labor opened the 50th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here today.

From William Green, president of the federation, they heard a plea for united support in efforts to inaugurate immediately the five day work week in industry. The federation president paid tribute to the pioneers in the labor movement in this country whose problems in years past, he said, were no less serious than those confronting labor today.

The aggressiveness of President Green's appeal for the five day work week was indicated by his statement:

"I wish that, beginning now, it might be the purpose of the officers of the federation to press upon industry our uncompromising demand that the five day work week be immediately established.

"The workers of today can produce," he said, "in the shorter work day and the shorter work week the commodities needed by the world."

The delegates were welcomed to Boston and Massachusetts by Mayor James M. Curley and Frank G. Allen, the invocation was delivered by Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston.

Mayor Curley praised the humanitarian achievements of the organization. Gov. Allen declared he had no "quarrel" with President Green on his demand for the five day week, providing it was adopted throughout the nation.

He is the youngest brother of Lord Luke of Pavenham.

WOODCOCK AIMS AT BOOTLEGGERS; IGNORES DRINKER

Dry Chief, in Speech, Tells Plans.

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Commercial sources of supply and not the drinker imbibing with moderation in his home is the target of his forces, Prohibition Administrator Amos W. Woodcock declared here today in an address before the Government Club, Inc., at the Astor hotel.

Every one knew, Col. Woodcock said, that there was much drinking in the home, but this, he maintained, could not be stopped by putting laws on the books or by enforcement machinery; it must come by education only. He said that his agents were not going to bother about what went on in one's castle.

Says Force Is Too Small.

The reason for this attitude, Col. Woodcock explained, was not altogether altruistic, but was necessary since there were only 1,558 agents in the country to curb violations, or about one for every 80,000 persons. Col. Woodcock said he did not wish to make cops out of his agents nor does he want any crude or disorderly conduct of duty, but rather intelligent investigations that would lay low the sources of supply, from which home stocks are replenished.

In addition to the new prohibition school, now being attended by dry agents, Col. Woodcock has established a research bureau to ferret out the truth about the law, he said. He took the stand that no government had a right to propagandize its populace, but that its duty should be to learn the facts, present them to good citizens and let them decide the matter for themselves.

Thus far, the bureau, by guesswork only, has found that liquor consumption annually is about 65 per cent less than in 1914, the last year for which records were available. The federal administrator admitted this was a guess. He asked that the success or failure of the dry law be not judged by drinking in the home.

Col. Woodcock, unlike previous administrators, expressed amazement at the coöperation which is apparently being given him by the New York police. He said he had found that more than half the cases prosecuted here last month were due to police investigations.

The Philadelphia police, he pointed out, champions in this respect, he said, closed 2,000 speakeasies, leaving but nineteen to care for Philadelphia's thirst.

IDENTIFY BANDIT SLAIN BY POLICE DURING HOLDUP

The young bandit who was shot to death by police early yesterday as he ran from Sally's Waffle Shop at 4650 Sheridan road, where he had obtained $30 in a holdup, was identified at an inquest in Town Hall police station as George De Foe, 24 years. De Foe's sister, captured as she waited in an automobile to drive her brother from the scene of the robbery, gave her name as Mrs. Betty Martin of 2102 Hudson avenue. De Foe was slain after he had tried to shoot Sergt. Frank Weimer, who was passing in a squad car at the time of the robbery. Robert Warner, manager, and Miss Jean Righino, cashier of the restaurant, identified the robber.

Mrs. Martin was questioned, but held to her story that she thought her brother entered the restaurant to buy cigarets. She was booked for accessory to commit robbery and will be arraigned today.

CHURCH BREAKS WITH LEAGUE ON DRY REFERENDUM

Methodist Conference Appoints Pastors.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Only 50 pastors in the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church out of a total of about 330 will have new charges for the coming year. This fact became known yesterday at the close of the annual conference sessions at Wilmette, when Bishop William Frazier McDowell read the list of pastorate appointments.

All officers of the conference were re-elected and it was voted to hold the next conference at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple, with the Rev. Dr. John Thompson, the host.

Break with League on Poll.

Resentment against the dominance of the Anti-Saloon league in Methodist political activities was expressed yesterday after the passage of a resolution asking the league to reverse its attitude toward the dry law referendum. The league has condemned the poll as wet strategy and urged drys to disregard it. According to pastors, the resolution marks a new policy of the church toward the dry league.

Previously the churches, including the Methodist, which have participated in the league activities have obeyed the league's decisions, pastors said. The resolution demanding that the league reconsider its referendum position, together with a suggestion that the league call a prefiection dry convention to find ways and means to get all drys to vote on the referendum questions, shows an opposite course, it was pointed out. Pastors declared that in the future they believed the league would be guided by the churches.

Indorse Employment Plan.

Gov. Emmerson's plan to relieve unemployment conditions was indorsed by the conference. Gov. Emmerson has asked that each county create committees to search for local labor markets, and wherever possible to undertake needed public works.

Charles D. Gage read a report of the conference pension fund. He said the fund had reached the point where each pensioner received $24 for each year of service. This amount, he pointed out, is only $1 less than the maximum and places the Rock river conference "at the top notch of all conferences in Methodism in regard to ministerial pensions."

INDUSTRIAL LEADER OPPOSES INSURANCE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The "unashamed resistance of organized industry" to governmental pensions for the aged, insurance for the unemployed, and similar legislation was proclaimed today by John E. Edgerton of Lebanon, Tenn., in an address before the National Association of Manufacturers, which he heads.

He inveighed against "predatory legislative invasions, in the form of compulsory acts patently based on unenlightened emotions, inadequate information or selfish motives."

Nothing has happened, he declared, to weaken the confidence of understanding minds in the soundness of the American economic system or scheme of government.

He urged business men to make the present depression an occasion for taking stock of themselves and their methods.

Expert in Rejuvenation, Worn by Work, Kills Self

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Peter Schmidt, who had gained considerable reputation in rejuvenation operations, shot and killed himself at his desk yesterday. Friends believed the surgeon, who was only 38, had been worn by too much work. He was the author of a book, "The Conquest of Old Age," and had done much toward developing the Steinach method of rejuvenation.

HOMES

THE WORKSHOP OF THE WORLD... Philadelphia's 4,987 factories, with an invested capital of almost one billion dollars, turn out each year products valued at two billion dollars. Philadelphia's industry is so varied in its scope that unusually steady employment prevails. (View of American Bridge Co.'s plant.)

LOOK to the homes for your sales! There lie the steady earning power and the greatest spending force in any market.

And here, The Evening Bulletin delivers the most effective market service known to advertisers . . . the coverage of nearly every home, in one newspaper.

A coverage built up through thirty-five years without premium or circulation contest; a growth founded upon the confidence and respect of business . . . of the home. A circulation which offers not only coverage, but influence as well.

The Evening Bulletin exceeds the circulation of any Philadelphia Sunday newspaper, has more than double that of any other evening newspaper, and almost equals the combined total of all morning newspapers.

Today the Philadelphia market is the Bulletin Market . . . a market of three million people, with its billion dollar potential in yearly retail sales.

FIGHT TO OUST W-G-N FROM ITS CHANNEL HALTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The expected clash of big broadcasting strtions of the middle west for the two remaining "super-power assignments available to that territory failed to develop today at the opening hearing before the federal radio commi sion on the applications of eight stations in the fourth radio zone for the maximum broadcasting power of 50,000 watts.

Verbal pyrotechnics were awaited from the Chicago Federation of Labor station, WCFL, which filed an application with the objective of ousting station W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE outlet, from its present assignment, but they fizzled. Edward N. Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation, and broadcasting representitive of the American Federation of Labor, presented the major portion of his case, but did not challenge the right of station W-G-N to its exclusive channel.

Organized Labor's Claims.

Mr. Nockels voiced the claims of "organized labor" to an "official mouth-piece," and gave a chronological history of the station, which now is limited as to its hours of operation with 1,500 watts power. He charged that labor had been discriminated against in the distribution of broadcasting facilities, that it has a proper claim to one of the 40 cleared channels reserved for high power stations.

Although the Chicago controversy failed to materialize, an unexpected development was the interference of station KSTP, St. Paul, with the backing of the St. Paul city council, in opposition to the claim of station WCCO at Minneapolis, for an increase in power from its present 7,500 watts to the 50,000 watt maximum. This station, operating on the heterodyne channel of 1,480 kilocycles with 10,000 watts, claimed that if WCCO is granted the requested increase in power it will diminish the chances of the neighboring St. Paul station of obtaining a preferred assignment. Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost, presiding, finally allowed KSTP to intervene, but reserved ruling as to the admissibility of its testimony.

Permits an Intervention.

Similarly, the commission allowed station WEBC at Superior, Wis., to intervene in protest against the application of station WTMJ, operated at Milwaukee by the Milwaukee Journal, seeking the channel occupied jointly by stations WENR and WLS, Chicago.

Henry A. Bellows, one of the original federal radio commissioners and now director of station WCCO and a vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, testified that better reception for all listeners would result if all stations operating on cleared channels were permitted to use the maximum power.

TORRENTIAL RAIN BRINGS DAMAGING FLOODS IN TEXAS

Streams Rage on Both Sides of Border.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Torrential rains which spread from Texas across the Rio Grande into Mexico today flooded lands long parched by serious drought, doing great damage to property and farm crops, but taking no known toll of lives.

Brady, Tex., was the hardest hit community, when the Brady river spread from three to eight feet of water over several blocks of the business section.

Several Homes Carried Away.

From 30 to 40 small homes were carried away, making between 200 and 300 persons homeless. Merchandise stocks suffered approximately $250,000 damage. The water supply was menaced, power was cut off, and there was a probability of a food shortage.

The Guadalupe river rose 18 feet near Kerrville after three days of continous rain which measured 7¾ inches.

Tony Sanchez and two companions who attempted to cross a bridge over the river in an automobile, were swept downstream, but were rescued.

Other Rivers Rise.

The San Saba river in the vicinity of Menard was the highest in 20 years and the flood waters were spreading over a large area of lowlands. The Rio Grande at Rel Rio, where more than ten inches of rain fell, had risen eight feet and still was rising. The Devil's river in the same section was up 15 feet and still rising.

Twenty Hurt in Tornado.

Crockett, Tex., Oct. 6.—(AP)—More than twenty persons were believed injured and numerous farm houses were demolished late today by a tornado which struck Houston county, skirting Crockett, and centered on a farming center near Latexo. As Crockett hospitals began filling, relief forces battled torrential rains and tree-strewn roads seeking other victims.

Arrest 36 in Lake County in Rum, Disorderly Cases

Smith, state's attorney of Lake county, announced yesterday that operatives from his office had arrested 36 persons over the week-end on dry law and disorderly house charges, resulting in a total of $3,050 in fines. Five of the prisoners were sentenced to jail terms of from 40 to 80 days.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

REJECT DESIGN OF WAR MEMORIAL FOR WACKER DRIVE PLAZA

The proposed design for a war memorial to be erected on the plaza of Wacker drive and Wabash avenue—a world war soldier grieving at the grave of a comrade—was rejected yesterday by the Chicago plan commission in a letter addressed to Mayor Thompson, the city council, and Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. The commission approved the site but urged that a competition be held for a design.

The American Legion, sponsors of the memorial, says the plan commission letter, should hold the competition. The commission took this action upon the recommendations of a committee or architects and civic leaders including Benjamin H Marshall, chairman; Howard L. Cheney, Abel Davis, Alfred Granger, and Martin L. Ryerson, who decided that the surroundings were out of keeping with the proposed design. The design was prepared by Leonard H. Grosse.

In June, 1929, the city council granted leave to the Harold A. Taylor and the Medill-Tribune posts of the American Legion to erect the memorial, subject to approval by the commissioner of public works and the Chicago plan commission. A subcommittee of the Legion and plan commission members reported that it had grave doubts that the proposed monument would last in the public mind as a sufficient and proper tribute to the Legion.

TRACE $50,000 CHICAGO BANK LOOT TO DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—On suspicion of implication in a Chicago bank robbery, Judge Henry Sweeney, at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus today ordered four men held for 24 hours. The men are James Moceri, Frank Lombardo, Frank Cooper and Sam Garfield.

The police charge that James Moceri, one of the men held, sold $50,000 worth of bonds that have been identified as a portion of $80,000 worth stolen from the Terminal National bank of Chicago. The other three men were arrested when they came to police headquarters to ask the reason for holding Moceri.

Suicide of Doctor's Wife Laid to Domestic Trouble

A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Mrs. Nancy Ford, 25 years old, wife of a Rockford physician, committed suicide because of worry over domestic troubles. Mrs. Ford died at the Mercy hospital from the effects of a sleeping potion which she took in a room at the Palmer house last Saturday. Her husband, Dr. William K. Ford, told the jury that his wife had filed suit for divorce a year ago, charging cruelty.

"Several years ago I began to have stomach trouble, bloating, sick headaches and nervousness. Then neuritis developed in my feet, ankles, hands and wrists. Konjola certainly proved its merits in my case. I have taken seven bottles. I can say . . . and my friends will vouch for this statement . . . that I am as a new woman. MISSING MAN RETURNS; TELLS OF KIDNAPING

M. A. Sensenbrenner, 4034 West End avenue, manager of a jewelry store at 4118 West Madison street returned home yesterday from Gary where he had been found after having disappeared mysteriously 10 days ago.

Gary policemen early yesterday morning found Sensenbrenner lying in a street in a residential neighborhood. He was in a semi-conscious condition and was taken to police headquarters. A doctor said he was under the influence of drugs and he was removed to a hospital. He responded to treatment and later was able to return to his home.

Sensenbrenner said that all he could remember was that three men kidnaped him as he was on his way home from the jewelry store on Sept 27 and held him prisoner. He said they gave him a queer tasting beverage, which, police said, probably contained a drug.

MRS. L HATED COD LIVER OIL

Now, thanks to McCOY'S tasteless tablets, she wards off sickness pleasantly

MRS. L was constantly troubled with stubborn colds. She tried every remedy she could find. Nothing helped her. Desperate at last she asked her doctor what to do, and the doctor recommended the regular use of cod liver oil.

She tried it, and sure enough she rid herself of those bothersome annoying colds. But that dose of oil three times a day was awful. Sometimes it even made her sick.

Then Mrs. L heard about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets. Eagerly she went to her druggist and bought a box. She used them regularly for several weeks. She continued to get all the benefits of cod liver oil without putting up with that nasty fishy taste.

Two of these wonderful tablets contain all the vitamins you get in a whole spoonful of cod liver oil—they'll do everything for you that cod liver oil can do. Extensive tests prove this to be so. That's why the Good Housekeeping Institute has given these tablets its seal of approval. That's why so many doctors widely recommend them.

POULTRY TRADE ORDERS ATTACK ON FARM BOARD

Economist Says Policies Caused Price Drop.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The federal agricultural marketing act was made the target of an organized and financed attack as the result of a resolution adopted unanimously yesterday by the National Poultry, Butter and Egg association in annual convention here.

The resolution "calls upon and implores the leaders of representative units of this industry to lay aside all other considerations and join a movement to perfect an organization with prestige and power enough to carry on a determined fight" against the farm act and any other "radical legislation in general and that affecting our own industry in particular."

Hear Attack on Board.

The officers of the association, whose industry is estimated by them to approximate a volume of a billion dollars annually, are instructed by the resolution to "accept it as a mandate to proceed with all possible force and dispatch."

Earlier in the day L. B. Kilbourne, president of the association, made the operations of the federal farm board in administering the federal marketing act the keynote of his address before the convention, which is meeting in the Hotel Sherman. He declared that "losses of egg dealers this season have already aggregated something over thirty million dollars," caused, he asserted, by disturbing influences of the farm board in the poultry industry.

"I speak with certain knowledge," said Mr. Kilbourne, "that in the egg and poultry industry new construction and the investment of money in physical equipment is being held up because statements by the farm board indicate a policy toward farm marketing industries tending to introduce credit into the picture and to slow down our program of investment."

Attitude Uncertain, Claim.

He called attention of produce dealers including the packing industry which distributes a large volume of poultry, butter, and eggs, to the declaration of these commodities for consideration by the farm board on Sept. 1, 1929. Later, statements were made that the board would not interfere in this industry but the uncertainty continues, he said.

"The immense losses suffered by the egg trade may be considered a form of farm relief since they represent how much more farmers were paid for eggs than consumers would pay," Kilbourne stated. "A loss of thirty millions to the farm board at this particular time would be looked upon as a national calamity. We accept it as a part of a highly speculative business."

James E. Boyle, professor of rural economy, Cornell university, told the convention the farm board was the "biggest single element of uncertainty in our agricultural situation." He declared that the board by "entering the wheat and cotton markets with unlimited public money thereby drove out of the market nearly all speculative investment and left these markets weak."

Cause Price Depression.

"The board has accumulated a huge carry-over of wheat and cotton," he said. "I feel certain that by these two policies the farm board has depressed wheat prices at least 20 cents a bushel and cotton at least 5 cents a pound."

Prof. Boyle, speaking on the business outlook, said the trade barometers now point to an upturn in business. Unfavorable factors listed by him are the low purchasing power of the sellers of six basic farm commodities of the world: Silk, rubber, coffee, sugar, cotton, and wheat; the ever increasing tariff walls and phychology of fear among business men, investors and speculators. All the low priced commodities, he said, had been given special government aid in the form of farm relief.

Prof. Boyle sees as favorable factors, outweighing the unfavorable, cheap credit, sound transportation, and farmers' crops worth more this year than last year. The price relationship between stocks and bonds he regarded as the most hopeful sign of a revival of business.

WARSHIP SCRAPPING MAY CUT DOWN NAVY PERSONNEL BY 2,000

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Plans to speed up the warship scrapping in order to bring the United States fleet within the scope of the London naval agreement are now under consideration by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations. At least twenty submarines, two old cruisers, and several other vessels are slated for disposal under the treaty within the next few years.

According to information current today, Admiral Pratt hopes to dispose of these vessels within the next few months as one of the navy's contributions to the Hoover retrenchment program. By scrapping these vessels at once, instead of gradually over a period of two or three years, it would be possible to reduce naval personnel almost 2,000 men.

The fleet now has approximately 16,000 tons of submarines in excess of the 52,700 permitted by the treaty. If these vessels were disposed of at once or laid up, 800 men would be freed for other duties. Recruiting has been curtailed in both the navy and the marine corps, and before the end of the year the personnel of these two stablishments will be reduced by at least 3,000 men, according to the existing plans.

ROADS PAVING WORLD TO PEACE, STIMSON SAYS

Addresses International Highway Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—An appeal for a more rapid development of good roads throughout the world as a means of promoting closer international relations was sounded by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today in formally opening the sixth international roads congress in Constitution hall. Officials of sixty nations, representing three-fourths of the world's population, were in the brilliant audience.

The meeting of the road congress today, for the purpose of studying problems of modern highway systems throughout the world, was the first held outside of Europe.

A Path Toward Peace.

Responding to an introductory address delivered by Roy D. Chapin, president general of the congress, Mr. Stimson told the 650 assembled delegates that good roads were intimately associated with international peace and national prosperity. As an example of the value of hard roads in cementing international ties, Mr. Stimson pointed to the growing tourist travel between the United States and Canada.

"Speaking to this distinguished group of experts," Mr. Stimson said, "it is unnecessary for me to emphasize the intimate relation between improved road communication and national prosperity, nor need I point to the larger social consequences that flow from the greater accessibility of country to city and city to country. In our country we have seen the improved road and the motor vehicle reach out into areas as yet untouched by other forms of transport. Gradually this has given a flexibility and mobility to our transportation systems, bringing all sections into close touch and providing a basis for better understanding among our people.

Looks to Roads to Americas.

"No less significant are the international results. The motor tourist travel between Canada and the United States has contributed much to closer understanding between the two peoples. We are now looking forward to the time when the road communication between the United States and Mexico and the Central American countries will be so developed as to increase interchange of visitors with attendant strengthening of mutual understanding."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The prices of Ford passenger and commercial motor cars are to be reduced immediately in England. The reductions range from $25 to $150 in the case of passenger cars and from $45 to $90 on commercial vehicles.

Henry Ford himself made this announcement here tonight. The new prices will remain unaltered for the next year, Mr. Ford declared, adding that more substantial reductions would follow when the new British factory being built at Dagenham is in full operation.

"We expect at least three-fourths of the Dagenham output to be exported to markets outside of Great Britain," Mr. Ford said. "This, in terms of money value, represents $75,000,000 from markets already created which are taking their present requirements from the United States."

HOLD 3 FOR RAID ON $50,000 LOAD OF BAR SILVER

Warwick, R. I., Oct. 7 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Police early this morning recovered a part of the truck load of bar silver, valued at $50,000, seized in a holdup near Killingly, Conn., early yesterday and arrested three men, believed to have been in the party of six in the raid. The loot was recovered in a summer cottage. Cornelius A. Wines of Waterbury, Conn., was the driver of the truck, owned by the Byrolly Transportation company.

Half a dozen men leaped from bushes beside the road to the running boards of the truck, and Wines, drowsing over the wheel, woke up to find the atmosphere fairly bristling with revolvers, all pointed at him.

His captors turned the truck into a seldom used dirt road, brought it to a stop, and Wines was bound, gagged, and blindfolded, then tied to the front bumper, after which the highwaymen passed out the bags and boxes of silver bars.

They appeared to know exactly what to look for and just how much there was. They made no attempt to break open any of the packages, but passed out seven boxes, seven bags, and twenty-one bars of silver.

MANIU RESIGNS JOB AS PREMIER OF RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 6.—Premier Juliu Maniu today handed in the resignation of his cabinet. It was accepted by King Carol.

Although the official communique gives ill health as the reason for the premier's resignation, differences over the coronation of King Carol are said to be the real reason. The king wants his coronation in any case, whereas M. Maniu declares the coronation is possible only after a reconciliation of Carol and Queen Helene.

This, together with constant friction between Premier Maniu and Minister of Communications Michael Manolescu, a close friend of Carol, who has been accused of court intrigues, is believed to have caused the downfall of the cabinet.

You are Paying for a Packard
Why not own one?

-one of The New and Finer

PACKARD
STANDARD EIGHTS

THE New Packard Standard Eight—refined and improved, but not radically changed—is the finest and most luxurious car of its size Packard has ever offered.

All the resources of more than thirty years of exclusive quality-car building, all the experience of eight years of eight-cylinder motor development, have been focused upon the new series Standard Eight. And it emerges as "fine gold refined"—a fine car made finer still.

Traditional beauty of line, of course, has been preserved—for Packard does not believe in depreciating the appearance of cars in the hands of owners by periodic and unnecessary changes. But the bodies—Packard designed and built—have been improved in construction and beautified in detail until they stand as the final word in luxury. Shatter-proof glass, new interior comforts and conveniences, are included.

The famous Standard eight-in-line motor has been given greater power through improved carburetion and manifolding—with a new measure of brilliant performance as the result.

Longer, softer springs and new shock absorbers provide greater riding ease. Conversion of the four-speed transmission to the quiet "short-shift" type permits greater ease in driving. While ease of daily chassis care is attained through an entirely automatic system of lubrication. These are but a few of the many added refinements and conveniences.

If you are driving a car similar in size and power to the Packard Standard Eight you are paying for new Packard luxury and distinction without enjoying their advantages. Why not, then, have the Packard?

Packard operating costs are no greater, you will admit. Depreciation, the one important cost of car ownership, is no greater either—if you but drive the Packard longer than is your custom with lesser cars. Records show that most Packard owners keep their cars twice as long as the ones they traded in.

Packard Standard Eight prices at the factory range from $2385 to $3465. Your present car, if of average value, will make or exceed the down payment on the model of your choice. The remainder can be arranged in convenient monthly payments.

May we demonstrate the Packard Eight—and ownership costs—without, of course, any obligation to you?

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs reache[illegible] out in the ninth inning yesterday and grabbed the city baseball championship. With defeat almost ready to engulf them, they resorted to the unexpected—a bunt. Three runs followed, the White Sox were nosed out by 6 to 4, and the municipal title was retained by the National leaguers because it was their fourth victory in the six games played. The fray failed to carry the fall event into a seventh and deciding game because of K. Cuyler. His bunt caught the Sox defense flat footed in the final inning and helped to restore to the north siders a lead that twice had been taken from them by Bush's determined warriors.

Old Hack Wilson, the roving target for the citrus fruit throwers, also was active as usual. Once he exhibited a homer. Then in the ninth, with the Sox were still rocking on their heels as the result of Cuyler's run, Hack tore out a single that drove in the tying run and put one other man himself in position to score later.

Sox Rout Blake in Eighth.

When the Cub ninth got under way, almost all of the 16,000 customers were satisfied it was an American league day. The Sox were out in front by 4 to 3. The Cubs had tied it up in the eighth, but the Sox moved out in front in their half, during which they finally routed Fred Blake, who had been given the starting assignment on the strength of his winning achievement in the second game of the series. Blair doesn't do well with southpaw pitching, so to open the last session Manager Hornsby delegated Dan Taylor to be a pinch batter. Braxton, who had taken over the job when Carraway fell apart under the force of Wilson's homer in the fifth, still was pitching. He threw one Taylor liked, but it sailed into left for a single. English bounced to Kerr for a forceout.

Then Cuyler stepped in with the unexpected. He smashed a line foul over the third base line. Kamm was playing deep, so on the next pitch Ki started in that direction. He was over first base almost before Kamm had captured the ball and started to throw. Wilson stepped up and turned purple when Ump Quigley called a strike on the first ball pitched. Hack was so mad that he ripped into the next offering, and it whistled past Kamm for a single, English scoring and Cuyler racing to third. Hack went to second on the throw-in.

Cuyler Scores on Short Fly.

That was all for Braxton. Bush sent in Thomas, the only reliable pitcher he had available. Thomas purposely passed Stephenson. Hartnett filed to Wilson in short center, and, even though faced with the task of beating a short throw, Cuyler dashed for the plate and made it easily. Hack tore home with the last run when Grimm fumbled the ball through Clancy, who was charged with an error. Then Petty handled the Sox rather easily in the last stand, and that was all.

Lady Luck was kind to Caraway in the first and second innings. Both English and Cuyler singled with one out in the first. Wilson, after the usual lumber barrage, cracked the first ball to deep center, but Barnes flagged it. English went to third after the catch. Kamm picked up Stephenson's fly grounder and ended the inning.

After being inactive for two rounds, Blair crowded a lot of action into his visit, but couldn't get a man to the plate. Kamm led off with a double to left, the first hit off Blake. Caraway bunted in front of the plate, and Hartnett threw to Bell too late to nail Kamm. Bell then relayed the ball to

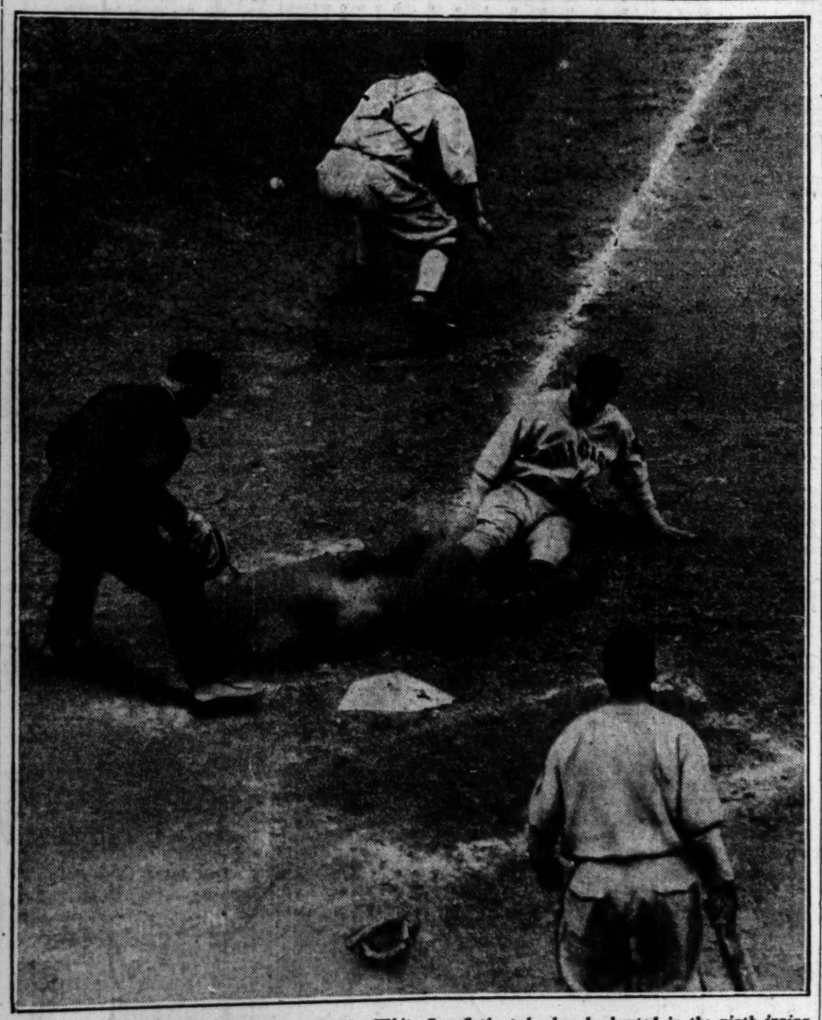
PUTTING AN END TO CITY SERIES



Ki Cuyler, Cubs' right fielder, caught the White Sox flatfooted when he bunted in the ninth inning yesterday. He went from first to third on Wilson's single and scored what proved to be the winning run when Hartnett hit a short sacrifice fly to center. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Root First Cub to Quit Scene of Diamond Toil

Charley Root, the Cubs' pitching star, who was kept out of the city series by a sore arm, was the first athlete to head for winter quarters. He didn't wait for the last game to be played. Accompanied by Mrs. Root he left on a noon train yesterday for Middletown, O. From there he will drive to Los Angeles.

Fatty Fothergill was used as a pinch hitter for Tate in the ninth inning yesterday, but did nothing except give Charley Grimm a rude bump. Fothergill was out by yards on an infield tap, but he slid into the bag feet first and almost tore off the Cub captain's left leg.

Rogers Hornsby and William Veeck, manager and president, respectively, of the Cubs, intend to leave this noon for Philadelphia. They want to see the windup of the world series. Rogers also thinks he'll have a chance to talk with a few National league owners on some possible trades during the winter.

Some of the Cub adherents must have carried lemons when they started for the south side. At any rate quite a number were sailed at Carl Reynolds whenever he appeared at bat. This probably was in retaliation for the fashion in which Wilson was bombarded in every game. Hack said last night that he was glad the series closed before his "admirers" got around to the point of heaving watermelons.

Lincoln Park Golfers to Have New 9 Hole Course in Spring

Lincoln park golfers will find a new links awaiting them when the season opens next spring. Workmen have just finished laying out and seeding a course on filled in land along the shore of the lake between Waveland and Montrose avenues and all that remains now is to let nature do the job of perfecting the greens and fairways.

The work has been completed in four weeks and the result is a nine hole course which should prove to be the most difficult in the park system

Has Difficult Bunkers.

Whereas the present course at Diversey parkway is flat and not equipped with particularly formidable traps, the new one has a rolling terrain and is bunkered in a way calculated to cause trouble for even the most experienced player.

The old course, which is also nine holes, will continue in operation. Oscar Knop, superintendent of recreations, said yesterday that throughout the season an average of 800 golfers have turned out every day. Ever with the coming of cold weather, he said, the attendance has dropped off but little and approximately 600 are now teeing off daily. The new course will almost double the capacity of Lincoln park's links, though due to its greater difficulty, play will be somewhat slower.

To Play at Night.

Putting practice greens on both courses are almost ready, but they will not be opened until spring. Flood lights have been installed and play will be permitted every evening until ten o'clock.

Among other improvements in Lincoln park's recreational facilities is the new field house, which is almost complete. This season has seen the opening of twenty additional tennis courts, ten in June and ten more in July.

LET OTHERS HIT THE LINE—S. M. U. CHOOSES TO PASS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

By its selection of plays against Notre Dame last Saturday Southern Methodist demonstrated to the central west an offense which consisted almost entirely of forward and lateral passes. Of course, the pass is not unknown to the central west, but no team ever invaded the territory with so complete a reportory of pass plays and depended on them for all their gains.

Southern Methodist lost, 20 to 14, but in defeat it completed 13 first downs, one less than Notre Dame. Eleven of these were accomplished by passes. The Mustang quarter back disregarded fundamental rules, long accepted for attack. In the second period, on third down and with one yard to gain, the Methodists passed. The average team would have used a plunge or a run in an effort to make a first down, especially since Southern Methodist was in its own territory at the time.

Refuse to Play Safe.

In the fourth quarter, when the southerners took the ball near their own goal line after Savoldi fumbled, they might have played cautiously. With four minutes to go, it seemed that the contest might end, 14 to 14, a moral victory for the Mustangs. But Southern Methodist immediately called for passes and the second effort was intercepted by Capt. Tom Conley, again giving Notre Dame the ball on S. M. U.'s 30 yard line. The Mustangs stopped Notre Dame at the time, but later the Irish scored the winning touchdown.

Southern Methodist coupled a brilliant first line defense with its passing. Seven men played in the line, with two backs only a yard behind them. The formation gave it decided strength against Notre Dame's plunges and runs, but it was weak against passes. Frank Carideo,[illegible] the Notre Dame quarter back, sized up the opportunity, and that is the reason that Notre Dame scored the winning touchdown.

Starting near midfield, one pass was completed, a second was ruled complete because of interference, and Notre Dame had advanced the ball 48 yards to within four yards of the Methodists' goal line. Schwartz then crashed outside of the defensive left tackle for the score.

S. M. U. Has Involved Attack.

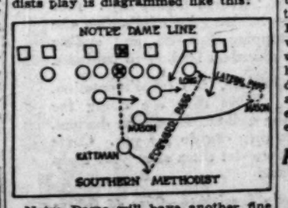
Southern Methodist played its ends about 2 yards wide of the tackles and used a short kicking formation in the back field. Its most spectacular play, and one which was worked successfully three times, revolved around Louie Long at end, who received a forward pass, and then passed laterally to a back circling the end. Illinois had a similar play several years ago. The Southern Methodists play is diagrammed like this:



Notre Dame will have another fine team this year. The players tackled and blocked cleanly. The offense, however, will improve as the season advances. Even so, Notre Dame made nine first downs on straight football. Marchy Schwartz, Jack Elder's understudy last year, was the back field star. He passed excellently. With Mike Koken and Nick Lukats in reserve the left half back position should not worry Rockne.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—So far as the St. Louis customers are concerned, the world series ended this afternoon when Jimmy Foxx, the young Maryland hay tosser, whaled one into the bleachers just to the left of center field in the ninth inning with Mickey Cochrane on base. The hit bounded from skull to skull among the steerage patrons with dull sounds as of a bouncy object meeting concrete or other solid matter, until some one plucked it out of the air for a souvenir of a mournful afternoon at the ball yard.

The two Philadelphia runners rounded the bases with ostentatious deliberation, scoring the only two runs of the day. Mr. Cochrane, who has ears like the handles of the Davis cup, turned to Mr. Grimes as he dwadled along from third to home and flapped them derisively, while, from the Athletic bench, several other members of Connie Mack's assemblage of well behaved young men addressed highly insulting remarks to Mr. Grimes in the vigorous sign language of the trade.

A's Conduct Startling.

For all the fine morality and social elegance of Mr. Mack's young men, all of whom possess dinner jackets, few of these gestures could be described, much less explained, in any newspaper which goes into the American home, and it was a bit startling to see these boys expressing such homely familiar but altogether inelegant ideas by simple movements of their fingers from the bench, placed out in front of the dugout, in full view of all present.

Mr. Ed Rommel, the superannuated pitcher for the A's, who is carried on the roster nowadays merely as a pensioner in recognition of the time when he won 27 ball games in a season with a team of errand boys, bellhops and peanut vendors for his support, was particularly rude. He hove up from his place down near the end of the pine plank and uttered a manual remark of a nature so shocking that George Walsingham Earnshaw, who is listed in the Philadelphia social register, turned and remonstrated with him.

"Remember, there are ladies present," Mr. Earnshaw said.

Mr. Rommel Continues.

"Any lady who knows what I said to Grimes just now is not any lady," said Mr. Rommel, agitating his fingers in an angry running fire of abuse.

Mr. Cochrane's ears have been the subject of considerable personal repartee in the two games that Mr. Grimes has pitched. In the first game at Philadelphia Mr. Grimes mentioned the matter of ears and Cochrane's rejoinder was a home run. Today Grimes resumed the subject of Cochrane's ears and while that sensitive young man got no home run, himself, it was a nome run that brought him in with a run, which was a sufficient rebuke.

The customers raised a half cry that certainly didn't express jubilation as the solid and somewhat elephantine Mr. Foxx hoisted his flyball against the dull autumn sky and Taylor Douthit, the center fielder, backed up reaching for it, until he was chafing his shoulder blades against the wall. The world series is moving back to Philadelphia tonight and this was the

Gallant Fox Is Retired to Kentucky Stud

New York, Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Gallant Fox, 3 year old champion of the year and one of the greatest thoroughbreds in the history of the American turf, has been permanently retired, according to a statement today at Jamaica by James Fitzsimmons, trainer of the colt.

Fitzsimmons said that Owner William Woodward had decided that the son of Sir Gallahad II. and Marguerite had earned his retirement and that he would not seek to race him again. He is to be sent to A. B. Hancock's Claiborne stud in Kentucky.

Gallant Fox retires the greatest gleaner of the American turf with winnings of $328,163 as a reward for his two seasons of racing. If the value of the gold cups and other trophies is calculated in the winnings the total is well beyond that of the French horse Khar which is credited with being the world's greatest money winner with $325,340. Khar's winnings, however, have been converted into dollars at the normal rate of exchange and not the actual rate, so that in effect Gallant Fox is the world's greatest money winning horse.

Moore, Once Sox Rookie, Justifies Mr. Mack's Faith

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—Connie Mack apparently thinks well of Jim Moore, Texas rookie, who was turned back to Dallas by the White Sox this season after training with the Comiskeys at San Antonio. Jim appeared Saturday as a pinch batter and singled, and today he batted for Earnshaw in the eighth and filled the bases when he walked on five pitches.

A few drops of rain fell just as the game started and there were sprinkling spells intermittently throughout the contest. The weather man had indicated that there'd be too much rain, thus causing much anxiety among the railroad boys, who had to get everything set for the dash back to Philadelphia.

Mickey Cochrane is beega stronga man. After he had popped up in the eighth he grasped his bat and busted it on the home plate.

Foxx's homer differed only slightly from the one he socked off Root in the first game of last year's series. The pitch was about as high as Charley's, but a little inside, whereas Charley's was a little outside. The ball landed about ten feet farther toward left field than did Jimmy's homer off Root.

Dykes, Miller and Boley don't care so much for St. Louis just now. None of the trio got a hit during the three games here.

Wild Bill Hallahan will pitch the opener in Philadelphia Wednesday. Connie Mack made no anouncements, but Grove will have a chance to rest on the train.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—Burleigh Grimes, most times a smart and cautious old gent, permitted a careless second to pop into his life in the ninth inning of the fifth game of the world series this afternoon. He pitched a high one to Jimmy Foxx. And Jimmy did just what Chicago's own Charley Root could have predicted he'd do. He smacked a homer into the left center field bleacher. Mickey Cochrane was on base at the time. Mickey and Jimmy right then and there did all the scoring of the afternoon. The Athletics beat the Cardinals by a score of 2 to 0.

The A's victory gave the Philadelphians an advantage in the series, three games to two, and the show now moves back to Philadelphia to be fought to a conclusion, beginning Wednesday. The Cards must win on Wednesday and Thursday to be proclaimed world champions.

The game this afternoon was proclaimed one of the best in the history of post-season interleague series. Until the eighth Grimes had allowed only two singles, and during the first seven innings not a Mackman reached second base and only three arrived at first. But don't get excited about Grimes' pitching until you've heard about Connie Mack's victory partners—Connie Mack's pitching staff, you might say—George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove.

Earnshaw pitched seven innings and allowed two hits, a single by Sparky Adams with one out in the first inning and a double by Jimmy Wilson with two out in the seventh. George then gave way to Jim Moore, a pinch hitter, and Lefty Grove, who pitched nine innings yesterday, came in to finish the job. In two innings Lefty allowed one hit, a single by Frisch with two out in the eighth, which meant nothing at all, for Jim Bottomley forthwith fanned, for the third time in the game and the eighth time in the series.

Grimes Allows 5 Hits.

Grimes allowed five hits in all, the same number he allowed when he took a licking, 5 to 2, in the series opener. In the previous game, however, every hit was an extra base hit and every hit became a run. Up till Foxx's great smack in the ninth Burleigh allowed no long range hitting. The third and fourth hits he permitted never got past the pitcher's box.

The contest was so well pitched that it produced only minor thrills until the A's eighth. As previously recorded not a Philadelphian reached second in the first seven innings. And the eighth started with Gelbert throwing out Miller.

After Bing had been retired at the outset of the eighth Haas caught Grimes and the infield back on their heels and bunted. He easily beat out the effort for a single. Grimes threw a ball to Boley then a strike which Joe missed, the hit and run was on and Haas was paddling to second when the ball smacked into Wilson's glove.

Frisch Drops Ball.

The Red Bird catcher made a nice throw to Frisch and Umpire Geisel waved out Haas, but was forced to reverse his decision when Frankie dropped the ball. There was a concerted squawk on the decision but when the debate closed Mule still was standing on second. Boley caromed the ball off Grimes' glove toward third and Burleigh made a desperate effort to get Haas at third but failed by an eyelash.

Moore batted for Earnshaw and walked. The bases were full with only one out. Bishop forced Haas at the plate. Bottomley to Wilson. The bases still were full, but with two out. Dykes forced Bishop, Gelbert to Frisch, and the Cardinals started breathing again.

After getting out of a jam like this you'd have thought the Cardinals

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 6.—(AP)—It was a snarling, defiant flock of Cardinals that hurriedly packed its luggage today after losing to the Athletics in the fifth battle of the world's series. The Cards were one down to the Whits Elephants, but they were not down and out by a long ways in spirit.

They openly muttered defiance, with Gabby Street, their manager, declaring they would certainly win two games in Philadelphia. There was no solemn, depressed air of a burial in the Cardinal dressing room. To hear them about, the impression prevailed that they won instead of lost today.

"It was a well pitched ball game that any one could have busted up," Street said, "and Grimes nor any body else is excited about losing it. We're going to Philadelphia heads up, and determined to win the next two games."

Hallahan to Pitch Again.

The old sarge said he would start "Wild Bill" Hallahan, the pugnosed Irish kid who blanked the A's Saturday. Street expected that Connie Mack would counter with Robert Moses Grove.

"He'll have to pitch Grove because we can beat any one else he's got. And we'll beat him, too."

"It was lucky that Foxx had to hit a high, fast curve ball. We had no idea of passing him. He was just lucky, that's all. The team that got the breaks got all the luck that went with it."

Frankie Frisch, captain of the Cards, said he did not drop the ball in the eighth inning after tagging Haas at second base.

"Umpire Geisel," Frisch bellowed, "must have been blind. I hung right on to the ball, but he made his ruling and couldn't change it despite the fact that he was wrong. We still feel that we should have won today's game and we're going to knock hell right out of 'em when we get back in Philadelphia."

"I'll Bust Up Game."

That smash gave Connie Mack the greatest thrill of the year. The 67 year old leader of the Athletics, sitting on the bench, saw the ball sail into the bleachers and Foxx trot triumphantly home.

"My heart beat faster at that moment than it has all year," said Connie. "I knew from the sound of the crack that it was a homer. I tried my best to keep calm but inside I was burning up.

"Outside of that one hit there was nothing except the pitching, which was about as brilliant as I ever saw in the world series. Earnshaw was even better than he was in the second game. He was faster and had better control. As for Grimes he was every bit as good until Jimmy Foxx swung his big bat in the ninth.

Mack Praises Grimes.

"Grimes showed excellent head work in the eighth when he decided to let Jimmy Moore, our pinch hitter, either hit at a bad ball or walk. He evidently thought Moore was more likely to score the runner from third with a long sacrifice fly than either Bishop or Dykes, who followed.

"The series has demonstrated that two very evenly matched teams are the contenders. We've had a tough time winning three games, and there is one and possibly two equally tough contests ahead of us."

EDDIE RAN SEEKS ANOTHER K. O. AT COLISEUM FRIDAY

Eddie Ran, welterweight boxer, who arrived from Poland a year ago and has scored several recent knockouts, will meet Johnny Hayes of Philadelphia in one of the eight round bouts on the Coliseum card Friday night.

A couple of Norwegian fighters who now hail from Chicago will appear in two of the other eight round contests. Otto Von Porat, who is in the middle of a comeback campaign made necessary by his one round knockout at the hands of Willie Stribling last June, will oppose Angus Snyder of Kansas in the windup.

The other Norwegian is Edgar Norman, light heavyweight, who will battle Chick Raines in the semi-windup. Other eight round bouts will bring together Domencio Bernasconi and Sid Torres, bantamweights, and Colognato Orests and Dave Forbes, heavyweights.

Mack's Nice Boys Forget Their Manners

last positive action that St. Louis was to see.

The traveling party will be considerably reduced now. There may be only one more game, and a number of the baseball experts from other major league towns and the western minor league points are dropping out to turn to football. Also most of those enthusiasts, who start out eager and excited to follow the show from town to town at their own expense, have wearied of the standing around and sitting around in the hotel and the sleeping in berths and have checked out quietly to follow the rest of the series per newspaper or radio.

It is becoming sadly apparent that the world series G. A. R.'s are a dwindling group. One by one they drop out, the old ball players and managers who first came to the world series years ago all brisk, and thirsty, and prepared to sit up against the hardiest all night sitters-up in the world.

It's Just Business Reunion.

To such as these, the world series ball games nowadays have come to represent no more than business sessions of the annual reunion and the hitting and the pitching are scarcely more enthralling than the reading of the secretary's minutes at an annual convention of the national association of ink salesmen.

But when the arteries begin to complain and the dogs whine and the eyes begin to glaze and droop by 10 p. m. the social side of the reunion also suffers a loss. They were the spirit of the world series for more than twenty years and though the new boys seem impervious for a few years to the new gins and brews, no upstarts can impart the same presence to the occasion. Perhaps the world series is losing its character and becoming, as Mr. Gabby Street insisted the other day, just a string of ball games, although it may be developing a new character for all I can tell.

More Festive in St. Louis.

The Philadelphia games seemed to draw little out of town trade, for the customers were all of a general sameness and apparently residents of the town or the general neighborhood. But in St. Louis the series has been a holiday show for a large number of customers from southern Illinois, the Ozark region, Oklahoma and Texas and the spirit of the patrons has been much more festive.

The stimulants have been potent and plentiful and there seems to have been liberal indulgence in the pleasures of the gambling houses and other hideaways abounding here under the most tolerant administration since the world's fair of 1904. The hotels, the taxi companies and the restaurateurs have prospered well and where the name of Mr. Sam Breadon, properietor of the Cardinals once was denounced and Rogers Hornsby exalted as a martyr, Mr. Hornsby is now forgotten and Mr. Breadon is extolled as a savior and accelerator of business and spending.

would have been inspired or something. But Mr. Grove was pitching and doesn't go in much for inspired enemy batsmen. Douthit popped to Bishop, Dykes threw out Adams, but Frisch singled to center, only to stand and watch Bottomley fan on four pitches.

Grimes obviously was a very happy man when he took up his pitching work at the start of the ninth. He pitched a ball and two strikes to Mickey Cochrane. Then something happened to Burleigh's control. He threw three straight wide ones to Mickey and Mickey waddled down to first.

Al Pops to Gelbert.

Burleigh was still in high spirits, however, and when Al Simmons took a wild cut at his first pitch Burleigh paused in his work to ape Al's awkward swing. And when Al popped to Gelbert Burleigh gave the American league batsman, who had gone hitless all afternoon, a heavy razz.

But eventually Burleigh, the Wisconsin woodchopper, threw off his playfulness. But he couldn't have been concentrating on the task at hand for, as we've told you, he threw a high one to Jimmy Foxx. High and a bit inside, and how Jimmy loves those babies! The hit was a typical Foxx skyscraper and there was no question about it being a homer from the instant the ball left the bat. Somehow Burleigh didn't feel so frisky as he had after Simmons' effort. Burleigh was indeed a sick man.

He carried on, however, struck out Miller and made Haas tap to Gelbert. But the Cards, who have been proud of their ability to come from behind, had no such plans when they came to bat in the latter half of the ninth. Hafey popped a fly to Cochrane in front of the plate. Blades batted for Watkins and walked, but Grove threw out Wilson and the game ended when Gelbert, who was about to be proclaimed by St. Louis as the world series hero, was called out on strikes.

The game started with Bishop being called out on strikes. Then Gelbert threw out Dykes. Cochrane singled to center, but died when Simmons popped to Gelbert.

Adams Hits Single.

The Cardinals' first started with Douthit bouncing out to Foxx. Adams then singled to center but stayed on first while Frisch popped to Boley and Bottomley rolled out to Foxx.

From the first to the fifth it was three up and three down for the A's, but Foxx opened the fifth with a single to center and was forced by Miller, Gelbert to Frisch. Haas then hit into a double play, which involved some neat work by Adams and Frisch.

In the Cardinals' third, Gelbert walked on four pitched balls and moved to second on Grimes' perfect sacrifice bunt. Douthit grounded to Dykes, who got in front of Gelbert, who was well toward third. Gelbert outsmarted Dykes completely and managed to land safely back on second, Mr. Dykes sprawling on top of him, but too late. This seemed like a break at the time it happened but the Cards couldn't follow it up. Adams popped to Boley and Frisch tapped to Foxx.

Dykes Gets a Walk.

Dykes drew the first walk off Grimes to open the seventh but the A's third baseman never progressed, for Cochrane popped to Wilson, Simmons filed to Watkins and Foxx fanned.

Hafey started the Cards' seventh by being called out on strikes and Watkins followed with a fly to Simmons. Wilson doubled to left center. Gelbert was given an intentional pass, then Grimes missed a strike, fouled one and finished the third out by flying to Haas.

CUBS BEAT SOX IN NINTH, 6 TO 4; WIN CITY TITLE

Blair at first, retiring Caraway, who still was standing at the plate. English made a flashy pickup of Kerr's grounder, and Kamm was cut down at the plate. Kerr went to second on the play and moved to third when English fumbled Barnes' grounder. Barnes then stole second, and a big chance got away from the American leaguers when Reynolds chased a third strike almost to first base.

Caraway's Luck with Him.

Caraway's amazing knack for dodging disaster continued in the fourth, or the Cubs would have registered more than one run. Hartnett pushed open the attack with a single straight into center. Grimm walked. Bell wanted to bunt, but fanned instead. The two runners moved up on Blake's sacrifice. Blair drove a single between first and second, Hartnett scoring and Grimm stopping at third. A pass to English crowded the bases, and Caraway wriggled free from this predicament on Cuyler's hopper to Kerr.

The second hit off Blake's mixture of speed and hooks occurred in the home fourth. The first two south side representatives were set down on fly balls to Hack Wilson in center. Cissell then walked and tore to third on Tate's single to center. Blake put a quick stop to a possible outbreak by slipping across a third strike when Kamm wasn't looking.

Wilson's lengthy contribution to the north side cause came with the count 1 and 1 on him at the start of the fifth. It was a line drive into the lower floor of the left field pavilion and had the earmarks of a homer the instant it left Hack's bat. After Wilson had run around the bases, Caraway handed a walk to Stephenson, and Manager Bush accepted this as a sure sign his young southpaw was about exhausted. Braxton came in and ended the inning on Hartnett's line drive to Cissell for a double play.

Sox Tie Score in Fifth.

A pass after two were out brought on the Sox splurge which let them tie the score at 2 each in the home fifth. Barnes walked and Reynolds, after taking two strikes, singled to center, putting Barnes on third. Jolley whacked a wicked drive toward first, and it went foul by inches. This convinced Blake he had better walk the big fellow, and the bases were filled. Clancy then looped a single into center, Barnes and Reynolds scoring and Jolley rumbling to third. Blake tossed out Cissell to conclude the revolt.

The run that put the Sox ahead in the sixth began to take form when Tate led off with a double to left. Kamm sailed a long fly to Cuyler, and Tate romped to third after the catch. Three strikes disposed of Braxton, but Kerr walked. Then Barnes bounced a ball just too high for Blake to reach. English tore in and scooped it up, but his throw to first was too late to keep Barnes from enjoying a hit. Tate scored and Kerr took second. Kerr and Barnes worked a double steal, but Reynolds hit to Blake for the third out.

Bell Drives Stevie Home.

The first two hits made off Braxton were instrumental in giving the Cubs the tying run in the eighth. Stephenson was the first man up. He singled to center. Hartnett and Grimm flied out, and Braxton gave the Cubs an opening by unloading a wild pitch that sent Stevie to second. Bell then took advantage of the opportunity by slugging one past Kamm for a double. Stephenson crossing the plate. Bell expired on second when Blake whiffed.

Tate again played a hand in the eighth when the Sox scored the run that would have won for them if the Cubs hadn't broken loose in the ninth. Tate singled and Kamm [illegible] Braxton struck out. Kerr singled to drive Tate home. Barnes dropped a Texas league single in short left, and the bases became loaded on Reynolds' fumble of Reynolds' hopper. Blake was relieved by Petty, who induced Jolley to pop to Bell. Then Cissell put on their wrecking party in the ninth, and thereby ended the game.

EXPECT WATWOOD TO RECOVER FROM SKULL FRACTURE

Johnny Watwood, White Sox outfielder whose skull was fractured by a pitched ball in Sunday's city series game, is expected to recover, but will be confined to the hospital at least three weeks, according to an announcement yesterday by his physician, Dr. Philip Kreuscher.

Watwood, a left handed batter, was hit just above the right ear by one of Pat Malone's fast balls in the fifth inning of the game. He was carried unconscious to the dugout and upon being revived was taken to his apartment, as he was not believed to have been seriously hurt.

Later an X-ray revealed the nature of the injury and he was removed to Mercy hospital. Dr. Kreuscher said that the brain had not been affected and that there was little likelihood that the accident would prove fatal.

MOON MULLINS—THE OLD TIME PAYMENT PLAN

VAN NICE GETS BACK TO WORK WITH MAROONS

Captain to Add Punch to Passing Attack.

Capt. Errett Van Nice returned to the active list in the Chicago football camp yesterday and went through a strenuous scrimmage session without mishap to the injured side that kept him out of the opening game last Saturday. All day. Although his presence in the back field against Wisconsin next Saturday will hardly make the Maroons the favorites, their chances for a surprise victory appear bright.

ERRETT VAN NICE.

Realizing that hope for victory in the first conference game depends on his passing attack, A. A. Stagg drilled his backs on new variations of the formation. Most of the linemen who saw much service Saturday were given rest from the scrimmage. Two-thirds of the passes attempted against Ripon were completed and the boys tossed them about all yesterday afternoon so that they would not lose the knack.

Paul Stagg originated most of the aerial attack last Saturday and with Van Nice also in there shooting his long-aided throws, the Wisconsin pass defense will be in for a strenuous afternoon's work.

Greg, a reserve half back whom Stagg started in the Ripon game in Van Nice's place, turned up with a sprained limp yesterday and will be out only a few days, though he should be ready for action at Madison.

PURDUE TRIES PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Development of a forward and lateral pass attack was stressed this afternoon as Purdue prepared to start its Big Ten title defense against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. The Boilermakers reported in excellent physical condition. Coach Kizer indicated that there would be no radical changes in lineups.

Although Alex Yunevich, full back who scored three touchdowns in less than ten minutes against Michigan last season, and Jack White, quarter back, look like fixtures in the back field, half back choices are still a toss-up. Howard Kissell, who tore off a 75 yard touchdown run against Baylor, looked on with favor, while Ed Risk, Louis Poyo, and James Purvis have all shown ability.

WOLVERINES TEST PLAYS.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Michigan football squad today ran through the plays to be attempted against Purdue next Saturday. The reserves scrimmaged with the freshmen.

Traveling was used at tackle part of the time and Auer shifted to center. It appears that Auer will be given the pivot post in the event that Harrison is hurt Saturday, and that Traveling will be sent in at tackle.

Traveler is likely to be started at center, but should he fail to demonstrate good generalship he will be relieved in favor of Newman.

ROBINSON TO BE OUT.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—It was announced today that Capt. Carl Robinson will not be on the Illini lineup in the Butler game Saturday. His shoulder was injured in the freshman game two weeks ago and he was unable to play against Iowa last Saturday. John Snook, third string full back, was called to Aurora today because of the death of his father, and probably will not be available on Saturday.

With Art Schultz as the only full back available, Coach Zuppke shifted Bob Conover from guard into the back field and instructed him to learn the full back signals.

Boyd Owen, sophomore end, returned to scrimmage today for the first time since he injured his ankle three weeks ago. John Evans, half back, who hurt his knee last week, and the cast removed today and reported for practice. It is doubtful that he will be able to play Saturday.

HAWKEYES LOSE TOUSEY.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Iowa's two outstanding full back candidates appeared in the same back field today as the Hawkeyes began preparations for next Saturday's contest with Centenary college.

Fitz was moved to the blocking back post, Sansen being used at full back. Since Benjamin, Negro back, probably cannot be used against the southern team, John Carlson replaced him in the varsity lineup. Orville Tousey of Oak Park, Ill., high school candidate who has been playing hard luck for two seasons, fell under the jinx again yesterday when he was operated upon for intestinal obstruction.

BIERBTH COMES BACK.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Clinton Riebeth, Minnesota's star end, was back in uniform this afternoon. If he recovers his strength, it is expected that he will get into the Stanford tilt on Saturday.

The Gophers went through the stiffest Monday workout of the season, having plenty of time to blocking and tackling. They came through the scrimmage game in good physical condition. Coach Crisler said he might make wholesale changes in his lineup before the end of the week.

BADGER SQUAD CUT.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—Every member of Wisconsin's squad came out of the game with Carleton in good condition. Coach Thistlethwaite today made the first cut, sending about 20 men to the "B" squad. The varsity is now made up as follows:

BY FRENCH LANE.

Tonto Rock, that horse from the far west with the supposedly weak heart, galloped to another victory in the Woodlands purse at Hawthorne yesterday. Tonto was a long shot in the betting, paying $20.48 to win.

He ran like a horse with anything but a small heart. The official timers caught him for the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43 4-5, which was within a fifth of a second of the track record. Some private clockers got him in 1:43 2-5.

Tonto Rock's triumph shocked the big crowd. Uncommon Gold and Suitor had been backed to the exclusion of all the others, and when they neared the last turn running head and head well out in front of all their rivals, it looked like one or the other would win.

Move Up in Stretch.

Then things began to happen. The three trailers, Seth's Hope, Fleche D'Argent, and Tonto Rock, raced on past Uncommon Gold and Suitor, and as the stretch run got well under way they raced far out in front of the two heavily backed choices.

A sixteenth from home it looked like Seth's Hope had the race won, but Jockey Willie Moran, who for some time has been riding indifferently, called on Tonto Rock for one final rally. The son of Trap Rock-See Saw II. responded nobly. He won going away and finished two and a half lengths in front of Seth's Hope. Fleche D'Argent was four lengths farther back in third place. Uncommon Gold and Suitor brought up the rear thoroughly whipped.

Another upset came in the Andover purse, which served as the secondary feature, when Fiddler turned up as the winner by a length from Lady Seth. Ladrone, the even money favorite, was out of the money. It was Fiddler's race all the way, but he had to withstand desperate challenges late in the stretch run.

Fiddler Pays $9.36.

It was the third straight failure here by Ladrone. He didn't threaten the leaders until in the stretch, when Jockey Hanford brought him up with a belated rush. He hung on just for an instant, but soon was dropping back again. Trek got up in the final strides to take third money.

Despite Fiddler's victory over Ladrone a few days ago, he was neglected in the betting and paid $9.36 to win. He stepped the mile and 70 yards in 1:41 4-5. This was just fractions of a second off the track record. Fiddler picked up 112 pounds and gave weight away to every starter.

Burnstein and Oliphant Back on N. U. Squad

If Northwestern's football players were concerned over the Tulane game they can be said to be truly worried over the outcome of Saturday's clash with Ohio State at Dyche stadium. This game will open the conference season for the Wildcats.

Feeling in the Wildcat camp places the Ohio game as perhaps the biggest obstacle facing the team. If the Purple gets safely past this engagement, let the rest of the teams look out. That is the way the situation is regarded by the north side school.

Capt. Hank Bruder was the only regular who did not report for drill yesterday. The Purple ace developed a cold prior to the Tulane game. When he failed to show improvement he was ordered to the university infirmary for a thorough check up. He is expected back in uniform tomorrow.

The Wildcat squad was bolstered yesterday by the return of Larry Oliphant, end, and Sid Burnstein, half back, two letter men, who have been on the hospital list since the opening of practice. Oliphant appears ready to take over his regular job at right end. Burnstein had a torn cartilage in his knee.

IRISH VARSITY RESTS; RESERVES TRY NAVY PLAYS

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame varsity was given a complete rest this afternoon and practice for reserves was light. Coach Rockne said that there were no weaknesses shown Saturday which cannot be corrected with the next game or two.

The men who reported for practice worked against Navy plays used by freshmen teams in dummy scrimmage. There will be line scrimmage for the varsity tomorrow and Thursday.

NAVY STUDIES FOE'S PLAY.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 6.—[Special.]—The Naval academy football team today began preparations for the game with Notre Dame Saturday. Squad B was drilled in the style of offense used by Notre Dame.

The Navy squad will leave Annapolis Thursday afternoon, arriving at South Bend at 10:30 the next morning. The squad will practice in the Notre Dame stadium Friday afternoon.

QUESTIONNAIRE OUT OF GOLD CUP RACE SATURDAY

James Butler's Questionnaire has been withdrawn from the $25,000 Hawthorne gold cup which will be decided Saturday. The horse was off form in the Havre de Grace handicap last Saturday and Butler decided to give him a rest.

Spinach, winner of the Havre de Grace event, and Sun Beau, which finished second, along with Jim Dandy, the long shot victor over Gallant Fox, arrived at Hawthorne yesterday and will start Saturday.

OPEN CAGE SEASON.

Becker Spends Morning with Shore Birds

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Upper Illinois River, Oct. 6.—Four midgets of the shore bird world were down here on the mud flats this morning when we hitched up our boots and decided to buck the mud for a little jacksnipe shooting. In calling them sandpipers the bird men named them well, because they are the half pints among the shore birds such as the plover, yellowlegs, and jacksnipe.

There is no mistaking these tiny sandpipers, for they look like sparrows in comparison with their big cousins. We saw just four on the bar, alert, twittering little fellows that bolted as soon as Jack, our spaniel, trotted out of the weeds and looked over the flats.

Incidentally, these little shore birds are delicious eating. Some years ago when it was possible to take any species of shore bird, we bagged a mess of these small snipe when fresh meat for the camp was needed and no large specials of snipe was available. Today all the sandpipers are protected by Uncle Sam, as their numbers have been seriously reduced in recent years. So the half pints and all of their relatives frolic with immunity on any of the mud flats as they drift southward for the winter months.

The jacksnipe went into reverse this morning trying to shake off flying No. 8 shot from our 16 gauge. Sometimes they were successful, and again they were not. This reverse stunt of the jack is a tantalizer. You don't know whether he is going to do a corkscrew to the right or to the left. This morning we missed the first one that shot up from the edge of the bar and zoomed over the vegetation on our left. Just as we had him lined up he used the reverse lever on his wings, and we didn't touch him.

On the next pair we managed to time the reverse stuff accurately and bagged both. Because a 16 gauge is so light and easily handled, we found this type of gun ideal for the bar shooting. Either No. 8 or 9 shot does the trick. In using a springer spaniel as an aid in this sport on the mud flats we keep him at heel because the jacks flush without any urging. The dog has to stay at heel until after a bird is down. Then he saves us a lot of wallowing around in the mud by retrieving.

SELLING RULES IN DULL CHICAGO STOCK SESSION

Little Headway Is Made in Rally Attempts.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Selling ruled a listless trading session on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Lacking support, leading issues sold off from 1 to 3 points.

The liquidation which enveloped the New York market early in the day brought on an easier trend here. The selling here was not particularly aggressive, however, and trading was slow throughout the day. Traders displayed caution in making commitments. It was apparent that much of the liquidation originated outside and not with the professional element.

The market's behavior was a disappointment to persons who had predicted a resistance to the selling around last week's closing level. Closing prices were near the lows for the day and the feeble rallies which developed at intervals made little headway.

Among Specialties.

Among the specialties losses of more than two points were sustained by General Theaters and Electric Household. Trading in each of the issues was comparatively light. Smaller losses were incurred by Libby-McNeill and Lion Oil. Swift International eased a fraction following the announcement of the declaration of an extra dividend of $1. Grigsby and Majestic turned over in fair volume and were down moderately at the end of the day.

North American Car moved contrary to the trend. Aggressively supported, the issue moved 2½ points to finish at 35⅝.

Leading the list in activity, Middle West slipped off a point. Other utility stocks shared similar fates. Insull again broke through 50 and closed down 2¼. Edison dropped 6⅝.

Interest in the investment shares centered in Chicago Corporation common, which declined a fraction of a point. There was little activity in other stocks in the group. Only a few hundred shares of Continental Chicago common and preferred changed hands.

Motor shares sold off along with the rest. Auburn lost three as the shopworn rumor that its dividend was in danger bobbed up again.

Take No Action on Extra.

Directors of A. M. Castle corporation, meeting yesterday, took no action on the extra dividend of 25 cents, which has been paid for the last six quarters. The regular dividend of 75 cents was authorized.

Directors of Abbott Laboratories, Inc., have called a special meeting of stockholders for Oct. 21 to pass on proposals to increase the capital stock from 150,000 to 200,000 shares and increase the directorate from 9 to 11 members. Of the new stock, 5,000 shares will be reserved for employes.

Electric Boat.

We own outright some shares of Electric Boat. It cost around $9 and is now quoted at around $4. Can you give us some information as to whether this company is active and earning any dividends?—L. A. G.

Electric Boat company was incorporated in 1925 as successor to a business formed in 1899. It constructs submarine and power boats of every type, including "Elco" motor boats, naval equipment, Diesel engines, dynamos, electrical equipment, and accessories.

As a result of disarmament conferences and naval reduction programs, this company's earnings trend has been downward for several years. A large part of its business has been the construction of submarine torpedo boats for the United States and foreign governments. During the last three years, however, the pleasure craft division has been increasing its business. In April, 1930, operations in the Elco plant were reported to be greater than at any time since the world war.

No statement of earnings for the current year is available at present. In 1929 the company reported a loss of $33,757, not including income of $3,073,963 received from the United States government in payment of claims. Including the claims money, earnings last year were equal to $3.56 per share on 775,682 shares.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $5,520,517 and current liabilities were $549,850, leaving a net working capital of $4,970,667.

The company has only one class of stock and no funded debt. No dividends have been reported.

Provident Estates Co.

Will you please forward a report to me on the present worth per share of the stock of Provident Estates company, Inc., Akron, O., incorporated under the laws of Ohio?—E. R. H.

We are informed that when Provident Estates company, Inc., went into receivership in 1923 the assets were all turned into cash. There was enough money to pay the creditors in full and a cash balance was left to be distributed to preferred stockholders.

The money was distributed to the preferred shareholders who could be located, but there still remained in the hands of the receiver about $2,000 belonging to holders of preferred who could not be traced. The receiver was discharged by the court and this money was turned in to the clerk of courts, Summit county, Ohio.

If you hold preferred shares in this company you may receive $2.90 per share by turning them in. If you will write to the First-City Trust and Savings bank, Akron, O., they will take care of this transaction for you. The common stock has no value.

We Lend the Tools— Jones Does the Work

Jones is about thirty-five years old, married, and has three children... He is in a good position, and is buying his home... He has always made it a point to save part of his income...

Last fall the kids got sick, and you know what that means... there was a trained nurse for almost three months, in addition to the doctors...

Jones might have been in a predicament... for he had used all the money in his savings account... and needed $400.00 besides...

Jones comes to the Personal Loan & Savings Bank... borrows $400.00... pays back $8.00 a week out of his income... of course pays all his bills. At the end of the year he has not only paid back his loan... he has found it possible to lay aside an additional $15.00 a month in his savings account.

Your name may not be Jones, but you may borrow the tools and work out your own problem if you happen to be in a financial situation similar to Jones.

We extend a "personal" invitation

GREATER GOOD-WILL FOR CORPORATIONS

..... resulting from public access to their investment securities

Customer-Ownership has become of the utmost significance. The vitalizing force of broad public investing is demonstrated daily in hundreds of corporations. Markets are enlarged, a public reception is prepared for new products or services. Corporate identity is established, good-will etched deeply in the public mind.

But how can the sound corporation of moderate size enter today upon this new, vital phase of modern business? How, starting in these crowded times, can it still obtain unobstructed access to public investing?

Obviously, the times have demanded an additional open market for securities... a place where buying and selling can compete on equal terms under strict regulations safeguarding both parties in every transaction... where the "ticker" instantly makes known prevailing prices... where fair established commissions are charged.

This... an additional Securities Market in New York for worthy issues not listed on other New York exchanges... has been provided by the long-established New York Produce Exchange.

Smooth, rapid conduct of the vital business of investing is here assured through the complete equipment provided. This Securities Market has sprung full-fledged from the resources of the Produce Exchange.

More than a half-century of exchange experience dictates the regulations in behalf of investors and reflects to the credit of the corporations whose securities are here presented to the public.

Thus, corporations which realize the advantages in identifying their issues with an orderly organized procedure of investment have now the opportunity of applying for listing on this Securities Market under the auspices of America's oldest incorporated exchange.

BIG BUSINESS IS SPENDING WHILE COSTS ARE LOW

Santa Fe to Place Rail Order.

BY O. A. MATHER.

In spite of the current depression, perhaps because of it, farseeing executives of big corporations are making large capital expenditures in preparation for better times. It is their judgment that costs now are about as low as they are likely to get and lower than they will be when business revives.

W. B. STOREY. [Moffett Photo.]

For example, the attitude has been taken by W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, and Frank T. Hulswit, president of the American Commonwealths Power corporation. Mr. Storey announced yesterday that his road soon would place orders for about 370 miles of steel rails, although he said frankly that it has been necessary to dip into reserve to meet capital outlays, because of lower earnings, and that the dividend for the rest of this year is too uncertain to permit of any estimate of earnings. However, the Atchison on Sept. 1 had $28,000,000 in cash and $18,000,000 in securities.

Immediate Purchases.

Really courageous was the stand taken by Mr. Hulswit, who announced a policy of immediate purchases for further operating needs of his big utility system.

"The decision was reached after a study of prevailing prices of commodities and equipment needed in the production of utility services," he explained. "Prices of commodities needed at present and for the immediate future are too attractive to overlook when compared with past price levels. It is doubted that they will go lower. On the contrary, business conditions are improving, which will of necessity create increased demands on producer and manufacturer. Therefore, we look for an increase in prices sufficient to warrant our investment in materials in advance of our future financing and construction requirements."

Again in the railroad field, officials of the Canadian Pacific railroad expressed confidence in the future as the result of their annual inspection tour. President E. W. Beatty said the party was "greatly reassured as to the outlook for a steady progression of general business and, in all likelihood, a well defined upturn in volume making itself evident next year." He predicted crops encouraging and farming more diversified. He predicted a material advance in grain prices.

Tire Sales Increase.

And there was other cheerful news. The B. F. Goodrich company reported that tire sales in September were substantially above a year ago and while seasonable fluctuations resulted in some shrinkage from August sales the decline was not so marked as in the same period in 1929.

Similarly, President William O'Neil of the General Tire and Rubber company said the dollar volume of sales in September was above a year ago, while as to time this year has output been more than 15 per cent from the peak. Net income this year will be within 12½ per cent of that for 1929. Net earnings for the first half of the fiscal year were sufficient to cover dividends for the full year. An increase in operations in January is expected.

September brought the largest volume of business for any month yet this year to the Archer-Daniels, Midland company, according to President Dwight M. Archer. Standard Brands, Inc., announced the opening of five new coffee roasting plants, with plans for construction of still other plants. The specter of wage cutting has been laid in at least one industry. Dr. A. F. Haake, managing director of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, said furniture workers generally not only have refused to cut wages but have announced they do not intend to make any reductions.

Trading of Traffic for Order Cited at Hearing

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some railroads at least wish they could go back to the old time method of making their purchases. They would like to have their purchasing departments buy supplies from any companies, anywhere, on a basis of cost and service only.

But, it was brought out yesterday in a hearing before Examiner J. L. Rogers of the interstate commerce commission at the Hotel Sherman, practically all roads are to some extent in the grip of competitive conditions that force the buying units to keep at least one eye on the effect their spending will have on the traffic their roads carry.

Representatives of the Monon, one of the smaller roads entering Chicago, held that they were being injured through the system of trading traffic for orders and which is dignified by the term reciprocity. E. P. Varnia, vice president in charge of traffic, said that coal and lumber dealers and producers were most active in such trades and most prone to use their traffic as a forcer for orders.

Tells of Agreements.

Some four years ago, he related, his road had agreements to purchase one car of coal from certain mines on the agreement that five more loaded cars would be turned over to the railroad for transportation. The Monon, apparently, has suffered from its smaller purchasing power in that its coal traffic from sources served by large competing carriers has dropped to about a fourth of what it was.

President H. R. Kurrie of the Monon said there was a ratio of purchasing power to ability to corrall traffic under competitive traffic arrangements. He and the road's purchasing agent, J. H. Liebenthal, believe that the smaller roads are at a disadvantage in this "you scratch me and I scratch you" game.

There have been instances when concerns which failed to get orders from the railroad have been able to take away the traffic of totally different concerns and place it with competing carriers, the examiner was told by J. H. McCabe, assistant general freight agent of the Santa Fe. A paint company in Louisville told him, through a representative, that a condensed milk company would favor roads other than his in revenge for the paint company's loss of a contract, and it happened, he said.

Some railroads, according to gossip reaching him, had had their purchasing departments "cornered by shippers." The Santa Fe, being a prosperous road, was more independent, and only mild efforts have been made by other departments to influence the award of purchasing contracts, it was said.

Says Reciprocity Is Forced.

"There is a ratio between purchasing power and traffic," said Mr. McCabe. "We hope the interstate commerce commission will either spank us or clear us. This demand by big shippers that railroads buy from them has been growing very acute within the last six years. We would like to see it stopped, but we are forced into it by other railroads."

All the witnesses have insisted that shippers are never favored unless their propositions are just as good as those of nonshippers, but Attorney M. C. List for the commission has presented hypothetical questions which have brought admissions that the system of reciprocity, which dates back only about seventeen years, could be abused to the point where the purchases might take the form virtually of rebates to shippers.

The commerce commission, it is understood, sees the possibility that both manufacturers who are small shippers and short lines that are small purchasers will suffer unduly. This present proceeding, designed only to turn up the facts, will continue here through the week.

STANDARD OF N. Y. CLAIMS MERGER IS NECESSARY

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Counsel for the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company argued before the United States Court of Appeals today that the proposed merger of the two companies is not in any sense a merger in restraint of competition and trade, in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, but is a move to enable the Vacuum group to keep pace with competition in world markets.

PACKERS WILL PRESENT CASE, STARTING TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—Firms affected by the packers consent decree tomorrow morning in the District of Columbia Supreme court will begin presentation of evidence in support of their petition for a modification of the decree so that they may handle foods other than meats and retail their products.

Justice Jenning Bailey will hear the case and the government, which is opposing the modification, will be represented by Assistant Attorney General John L. O'Brian.

The packers, the largest of which are Swift & Co. and Armour & Co., of Chicago, are expected to put on the stand several department of commerce and agriculture officials to testify as to economic and legislative changes of recent years which the packers claim make the decree unnecessary as a public safeguard and a detriment to live stock producers and consumers of meat.

Several farm groups, including the American National Livestock association and the National Wool Growers' association, have announced they will seek to intervene in the case on the side of the packers. The National Wholesale Grocers' association and the American Wholesale Grocers' association oppose modification of the decree.

BRAZILIAN ISSUES HIT NEW LOWS; LEAD BOND MART DECLINE

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—There was a fresh outbreak of selling of Latin American obligations in the bond market today inspired by reports of revolutionary uprisings in Brazil, where martial law has been declared.

Active selling forced a wide list of Brazilian issues down 1 to 7 points, many to new 1930 lows, and influenced liquidation in bonds of Colombia, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, and Argentina.

The weakness in the South American list was the feature of a session in which minus signs were placed after a majority of active bonds. The domestic section was highly irregular with the exception of U. S. governments. There a firm trend was maintained on a dwindling volume of sales.

The heaviest liquidation in the South American list centered in Brazilian government bonds, and loans of the states of Rio Grande do Sul, and Sao Paulo. The extreme loss was 14½ points in City of Sao Paulo 6½s. Sao Paulo State 6s sold off 8¾; 7s, 3¾, and the 8s dropped 6. New year's lows were reached by Brazilian 6½s of 1927-'57, off 5 points; 6½s of 1927, down 2⅝, and the 8s, off 5. Bonds of Rio Grande do Sul, where a state of siege exists, were easily depressed by thin offerings. Losses ranged from 3 to 7 points. Rio de Janeiro 8s were heavily liquidated, and moved down nearly 2 points to 95¾. The 6½s yielded 5.

The unsettlement influenced by the Brazilian revolution was reflected in sharp losses elsewhere in the Latin American list. Argentine 6s, Bolivian 7s and 8s, Colombia 6s, Costa Rica 7s, Cuba 5½s, Peru 1st and 2d 6s, and Uruguay 6s were 1 to 3 lower. Chilean bonds were in supply slightly under previous final prices.

Bonds of companies with extensive interests in South America such as Anglo Chilean Nitrate 7s, Lautare Nitrate 6s, American and Foreign Power 5s, and American I. G. Chemical 5½s sagged a point or more.

A $12,000,000 offering of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock for Standard Oil company of Ohio, which will enable it to retire its outstanding 7 per cent stock and provide the company with additional funds for corporate purposes is being carried out today by a banking group comprising Chasé Securities corporation, Bancamerica-Blair corporation, Hayden Miller & Co., and Union Cleveland corporation. The stock is priced at $103 and accrued dividend per share to yield over 4.85 per cent.

Public offering of cumulative trust shares, new fixed investment trust, is expected to be made tomorrow or Thursday by Bancamerica-Blair corporation and Distributors group.

Income Trustshares, also a new fixed investment trust, will be offered in the near future by a nationwide group of bankers organized as Income Distributors Inc., and headed by Pirnie, Simons & Co., Inc.

$75,000,000 N. Y. Issue.

For the first time in nearly three years the city of New York expects to market an issue of long term bonds at an interest cost to the city of less than 4½ per cent. The news was made public today that Controller Berry will open bids on Oct. 21 on a new issue of $75,000,000 of bonds, due Oct. 1, 1980. Of this issue $52,000,000 will be for rapid transit, $16,000,000 for water supply, and $7,000,000 for the construction of docks. The issue will carry a 4 per cent coupon.

Not since May 11, 1927, has the city marketed a long term issue bearing a coupon as low as 4 per cent. At that time an issue of $60,000,000 4 per cent serial bonds and corporate stock was awarded at an average price of 101.216, which was equivalent to a 3.936 per cent interest cost to the city.

INVITES TENDERS.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today invited tenders for $100,000,000 or treasury bills to be submitted on Oct. 10. The bills will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. They will be issued in two series of $50,000,000 each.

The first will be dated Oct. 15, 1930, and will mature on next Dec. 16, while the second series will be dated Oct. 16 and mature Dec. 17, with both payable on maturity at face value.

EXCHANGE TO KEEP EYE ON BEAR SELLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 6.—What amounts to a declaration of war against Wall street's rampant "bear party" issued from the New York Stock exchange today when it admonished brokers that they are risking disciplinary measures when they sell or assist in the sale of securities "for the purpose of bringing about a condition of demoralization in which prices do not fairly reflect market values."

The purpose of this move, it was made plain, is to put an end to reckless selling campaigns designed to depress the stock market unwarrantably. The effect it was predicted, will be to discourage short selling of any but a legitimate character, the stock exchange being concerned only with what is known as "bear raiding" and the part that its members may play in such operations.

As part of the plan to check "sharp shooting" practices, the exchange already has warned its entire membership against the dissemination of false rumors calculated to induce needless liquidation in the stock market. Member firms were called upon at the end of last week to furnish the business conduct committee of the exchange with copies of all correspondence which may have gone over their private wires bringing into question the financial position of any firm.

New York, Oct. 6.—Today was one of the bluest Mondays that the stock market has had to stagger through in recent weeks. Prices of active stocks were knocked down from 2 to 5 points, and among the higher priced and more volatile shares losses ran from 6 to 18 points. Those manipulating stocks for a decline were favored by a weak opening, caused by an accumulation of selling orders over the week-end, with very little buying in evidence the bears had pretty much their own way all day.

Those with a flair for seeing the market in the light of outside news, took the Brazilian revolt as a pessimistic influence, but today's movement seemed more like another "technical reaction" based on the situation of the stock list itself.

WHEAT PRICES ARE PULLED UP BY LATE BUYING

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish sentiment predominates in the wheat market and, while prices declined 1¼c in the early trading in sympathy with stocks in Wall street, there was aggressive buying later by houses with eastern connections which absorbed the surplus in the pit.

While there was a bulge of 2¼@2¾c from the bottom, the finish was at net gains of 1¼c, December closing at 32¼@32¾c; March, 86¼c, and May, 89¼@89¾c. There was considerable profit taking by longs toward the last and also selling by a commission house that was a good buyer early.

The early decline in wheat was in sympathy with Liverpool, which was 1½@2d lower due to rains in parts of Argentina and Australia. The foreign news was generally ignored later as the domestic visible supply showed a decrease of 2,739,000 bu for the week, the first time in over 10 years there has been a reduction at this season of the year. Total is 202,993,000 bu, against 191,592,000 bu in 1929.

Talking Higher Prices.

There has been fairly persistent buying of wheat futures for some days through strong commission houses. The east is showing more interest in the market than for a great many months, and it is said some speculators who have not traded in grain in years are in the market at present. Investment buying by strong interests has been a factor in creating a much better undertone.

The prospect of the United States consuming the greater part of the excess supply of wheat this season is a big factor in the situation, and the trade is gradually coming to feel that the immense loss suffered in the corn and hay crops will have to be made up by the largest consumption of wheat ever known. There were 10,000 bu cash wheat sold by long handlers for feeding purposes during the day at 2c better premium than a week ago.

Winnipeg wheat failed to show much strength and closed ⅜@⅝c lower, with the lack of foreign demand having some influence. Buenos Aires was weak and 2¾@3c lower as the result of rains over part of the main producing area in Argentina.

There was some buying during the day on Winnipeg reports, indicating that Russia had oversold, and would be unable to fill all of its contracts, but the trade as a whole is not disposed to pay much attention to Russian news at the present time.

No Pressure on Corn.

Disappointing husking returns on corn are having considerable influence on futures. A small break early was followed by an advance of 2¾@3c from the low point, with some of the locals who sold out last week active in reinstating their lines. The close was within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1¾@1¾c, with December at 85¾@85¾c; March, 87@87¼c, and May, 89c. There was no material pressure on the market, with the bulge checked by selling against offers.

H. A. Rumsey, who has returned from a trip from Des Moines to Omaha, says farmers estimate that yields will run one to two-thirds of normal. There is practically no new corn being offered for sale, while every elevator visited reported it had sold from 200 to 2,500 bu wheat for feed. Domestic demand for cash corn was somewhat slower, with the spot basis ½@¾c lower. Three cars of new corn were received, including one of No. 6 yellow, which brought 79c.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The disturbing political situation in Brazil was reflected in a severe break in coffee futures here today. No. 7 contracts closed at a net decline of 82 to 102 points. Sales estimated, 51,000. Santos contracts closed 128 to 151 points lower. Sales, 123,000. Closing quotations: Santos: December, 10.45c; March, 9.50c; May, 6.96c; July, 8.62c; September, 8.80c. BUTTER AND EGGS

Egg futures broke sharply into new record territory on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday. A heavy selling drive began at the opening of the session and a steady fall was recorded throughout the period. Butter futures also sold off, gathering weakness from the egg trading and losing ground in the face of decidedly favorable news. All deliveries closed at the day's low. November eggs lost $150 per can's closing at 21¾@21¾c, off 1¼@1¼c. December closed at 22¾c, off 1c. November butter closed at 36¾c and December at 36¼c, both off ¾c.

BY AL CHASE.

Henry C. Crowell, assistant to President Dr. James M. Gray of Moody Bible institute, and radio director of that institution, yesterday secured title to a site in Winnetka on which he has started construction of a $100,000 residence. He purchased the site with eighty feet of frontage at 1113 Sheridan road, from John W., Robert L., and Frederick H. Scott, all of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.

The property extends back 600 feet to the shore of Lake Michigan, where it has a frontage along the water's edge of 250 feet. It lies between the Fentress holdings and the Robert Cluett property. The ten room residence Mr. Crowell is erecting was designed by Edwin H. Clark. It is of colonial design.

Son of Henry P. Crowell.

Mr. Crowell is a son of Henry P. Crowell, chairman of the board of directors of the Quaker Oats company and a trustee of Moody Bible institute. Fred B. Thomas & Co. were brokers in yesterday's sale and Bryan Y. Craig was attorney.

The price Mr. Crowell paid for the Scott property was not disclosed, but the deal was closed subject to a $100,000 purchase money mortgage made by Mr. Crowell with the Chicago Title and Trust company for ten years at 6 per cent.

Fred L. Ellstrom has bought the eighteen flats at the southeast corner of Muskegon avenue and 80th street, 50x125, from George L. Turnquist for an undisclosed price, subject to $68,000. He gave in exchange the three apartment building at 7742 Cornell avenue. Morgan L. Fitch of Charles Ringer & Co., broker in the transaction, also reports having sold the six flats at 8131-33 Kingston avenue, lot 58x125, for Mr. Turnquist to Mr. Ellstrom.

Add to Forest Preserve.

The forest preserve district has purchased 5.64 acres in Wheeling township from Mrs. Helen H. Morris for a stated $9,590. The property is north of Dundee road and east of Milwaukee avenue.

Lord's department store in Evanston, which purchased the Y. M. C. A. property at 1611-21 Orrington avenue, adjoining the main building of the Lord establishment, on Dec. 27, 1929, has started work remodeling the three story building. An additional floor is to be added with completion set for next February. The property fronts 130 feet on Orrington avenue with a depth of 210 feet. The Y. M. C. A. is now in its new quarters at Maple and Grove, Evanston.

LARD PRICES LOWER

Lard was offered freely early yesterday and prices declined with grains, only to rally with them later and close at net losses of 7½ to 12½c. Traders paid no attention to the advance of 25@40 cents in hogs, due to light receipts as compared with a week and a year ago. Liverpool lard was 6d higher. Export clearances for the week were 7,026,000 lbs against 12,476,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 2,456,000 lbs against 4,064,000 lbs last year. Bellies were hard to buy, with October up 50c and January and July up 5c for the day. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders who are bullish are basing their operations on reports that feeding operations are in excess of the highest estimate made by the most enthusiastic supporters of this factor as a bullish influence and are buying on all setbacks. They are also expressing the belief that the turning point in the visible, which has been increasing for several months, has been reached with a reduction of 2,739,000 bu last week. They expressed the belief that should there be any increases later they will be small. Strong interests are said to be in the market, but houses who bought steadily for a week past were credited with selling at the close. The disposition, however, is to look for sharp rallies to follow all recessions.

Local operators who have been bullish on corn all season said at the close that the market was giving a better account of itself and that it has become more difficult to buy corn, especially on the weak spots. The main factor is that husking returns from many of the best corn sections are disappointing and that the outsiders are not disposed to sell.

COMPARATIVE PRICES.

HOGS—Bulk of sales yesterday.....$ 8.85@10.25
One month ago.....9.30@11.25
One year ago.....9.15@10.25
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 7,000 hogs; 22,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep.

Hog receipts dropped short of all expectations yesterday, resulting in a "bullwind" market at 25@50c advance. Some packing sows sold for as much as 50@75c above last week's close and were mostly $1.00 above the low spot a week ago.

All interests were on the market at the start, the additional gains in the wholesale market for fresh pork strengthening the buying power of the smaller local interests. Shippers bought more than half of the receipts after directs had been deducted from the supply, but many orders had to be returned unfilled because of a shortage of 225@230 lb averages in particular.

Only pen holders remained at the close. The extreme top advanced to $10.45, highest since Sept. 26, while the general average gained 35c at $10. Pork loins finished at the highest point in about a month, selling at 20@25c per pound, the heaviest loins going slightly above the previous high spot this season.

Today's Hogs Bid $10.50.

Butcher hogs averaging 210@260 lbs were bid $10.50 for today's delivery on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no sellers at this figure, trading in future months was only fairly active and 5@10c higher.

January light weights reached $9.00, equaling the highest in three weeks for January light. Mediums for next January delivery sold at $9.10. October mediums brought $9.65.

Cattle receipts at 21,000 yesterday were only moderate for the time of year and with demand showing some improvement, there was a fairly early clearance at strong to higher prices. Light weight steers and some yearlings sold to better advantage, while plain medium and heavy beeves were unchanged.

Fancy yearling steers at $13.15 equaled the highest of the season. A good many 1,300@1,500 lb steers sold at $10.00@10.75, with one shipment averaging 1,518 lbs at $11.75. Thirty-two steers averaging 1,699 lbs at $11.00 were the heaviest here yesterday. Cows and heifers sold steady to strong. Calves were unchanged. Stockers and feeders were fairly active and strong.

Idaho Lambs Bring $9.00.

Twelve carloads of of Idaho range lambs, averaging 78 lbs, put a top of $9.00 on the market yesterday, the highest mark since the middle of last month. On Monday of last week the extreme top was down to $7.85, the lowest since before the world war.

Advances of 25@50c were scored in fat grades of fat lambs which make up a smaller share of total arrivals today. Others ruled steady to 25c higher. Sorted ewe and wether natives sold largely at $8.00@8.25, a few to city butchers reaching $8.35. Aged ewes and yearlings were steady to strong. The larger number of feeding lambs on sale met good demand at $8.00@7.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 6,456 cattle, 34,041 hogs, and 21,775 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 9,047 cattle, 22,690 hogs, and 11,821 sheep a year ago.

WALL ST. GETS MONDAY BLUES; STOCKS TUMBLE

end. The market opened under a burst of selling that swept away values in all directions. Active shares went down from 1 to 3 points in this initial onslaught, during which trading was carried on at the rate of 5,000,000 shares for the day. There was a feeble rally when the first batch of selling orders had been absorbed, but the bears quickly saw their advantage and extended their lines.

Trading then turned dull, but stocks continued to slip to lower levels and many closed at or near their worst levels of the day. Scores of them touched new lows for the year at one time or another. Transactions amounted to only 2,365,000 shares for the day.

The so-called pivotal issues did nothing to encourage brokers today. United States Steel closed at just about its lowest point for the day for a net loss of 3 points. American Can coasted among the market's bluest chips, fell into line with a drop of 5 points, while American Telephone and Telegraph, bellwether of the utilities group, sagged very nearly to its low for the year, being off 3.

Rail leaders also suffered severely. Union Pacific, New York Central, Atchison and Pennsylvania declined from 1 to 4 or more points.

Down 5 to 18 Points.

With the "best" stocks going down easily before not over-vigorous selling late in the day, it was not surprising that such shares as American Foreign Power, Allied Chemical, Electric Power and Light, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Westinghouse were battered down from 5 to 18.

Among the only satisfaction that optimists could draw from today's session was the rapidity with which trading dried up after the first rush of selling was over. Stocks continued to subside, but they did so more of their own weight than because pressure was heavy. The success of the bears recently is credited with hurting sentiment and preventing normal buying.

News Not Helpful.

Such infrequent news items as appeared did not lend themselves to cheery interpretation. A slight tightening of call money rates, reflecting adjustment of reserves at the federal reserve bank, and a sharp drop in scrap steel prices were factors, however small, on the side of the depressionists. Automobile registrations have not been calculated to stir enthusiasm, and Wall street expects the earnings reports of several motor companies to make anything but light reading.

Weakness in railroad shares caused comment. Public speculation in these issues has not been general, and selling is interpreted as coming from that division of the people which keeps its securities in strong boxes.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL was featured by a marked absence of orders on either side today. At the outset the tone was easy owing to the easiness of all other markets, excepting hogs. With the rally in grains the tone improved somewhat but the closing was barely steady with old contracts 5 to 19 points lower and new contracts unchanged to 9 points lower. Sales were only 300 barrels all new contracts. Prime crude, 6.12½c; prime summer yellow, old, spot, 7.90c; October, 7.50c; November, 7.55c; December, 7.62c; new, December, 7.50c; January, 7.35c; March, 7.56c; May, 7.58c.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color nearly three times as big as any other magazine page in the world . . . 6,000,000 families at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

It is one thing to buy circulation and quite another thing to buy it in the areas where people have the maximum to spend.

If magnitude were the sole consideration The American Weekly would be without competition because it has the largest circulation in the world at the lowest cost per reader.

Nearly 6,000,000 families read this great magazine. Now let us see where these families are.

First, bear in mind that The American Weekly is a national magazine with national coverage in forty-eight states.

However, all forty-eight states are not commercially equal in value. The cream of the national market is to be found in the twenty-five states where the per capita income tax return is above the average for the entire United States.

In these twenty-five most prosperous states are:

18,187,477 or 69.6% of the total families
6,133,634 or 83.2% of the total number of income tax returns
17,207,463 or 74.4% of the total passenger cars
46,375,890 or 88% of the savings bank depositors
$25,205,349,000 or 89.3% of the savings bank deposits
5,265 or 68.1% of the total department stores
35,032 or 70.8% of the total drug stores
204,928 or 74.5% of the total food outlets
27,750 or 65.1% of the total furniture stores
24,973 or 79.6% of the total shoe stores

And in these twenty-five states are 5,076,300 or 86.7% of The American Weekly circulation.

Bear also in mind that in 536 of America's 812 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over, The American Weekly concentrates and dominates.

In each of 185 cities, The American Weekly reaches one out of every two families.

In 132 more cities, it reaches 40 to 50%.

In an additional 102 cities, it reaches 30 to 40%.

In another 117 cities, it reaches 20 to 30%.

—and, in addition, nearly 2,000,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy The American Weekly.

To the national advertiser The American Weekly offers the greatest magazine circulation on earth, concentrated in the richest buying areas of the nation and reaches them at the lowest cost per family.

It offers a magazine so interesting in its editorial content that it is read eagerly by every member of the family.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter Joanna, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 6:00 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. On day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and notifies the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20, a clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always ten minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar, after leaving Anne, and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

Murder by person or persons unknown, is the verdict given at the inquest.

A man who represents himself to be Dr. Stone, an archaeologist, is thought to be an accomplice and is suspected of the theft of some valuable silver which belonged to Col. Protheroe. His secretary, Gladys Cram, is also under suspicion.

The vicar receives notes from three women parishioners, asking him to call as they have important information to tell him about the murder. His first call is on Miss Hartnell, who lives next door to Mrs. Lestrange, a mysterious newcomer to the parish. She is known to have called on Col. Protheroe the night before he died. She says Mrs. Lestrange was not at home at the time of the murder, as Mrs. Lestrange had said she was.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

INFORMATION TO THE AUTHORITIES.

Miss Hartnell was, I was glad to note, unable to look me in the face when saying this. The same builder builds all our houses and the bells he installs are always clearly audible when standing on the mat outside the front door. Both Miss Hartnell and I knew this perfectly well, but I supposed deception have to be preserved.

"Yes?" I murmured.

"So I thought I would just go round the house and—and tap on the window pane," she continued, unblushingly. "I went all round the house and looked in at all the windows, but there was no one in the house at all."

I understood her perfectly. Taking advantage of the fact that the house was empty, Miss Hartnell had given unbridled rein to her curiosity and had gone round the house, examining the garden and peering in at all the windows to see as much as she could of the interior. She had chosen to tell her story to me, believing that I should be a more sympathetic and lenient audience than the police. The clergy are supposed to give the benefit of the doubt to their parishioners.

"What time was this, Miss Hartnell?"

"As far as I can remember," said Miss Hartnell, "it must have been close on six o'clock. I went straight home afterwards, and I got in about ten past six, and Mrs. Protheroe came in somewhere round about the half hour, seeing Dr. Stone and Mr. Redding outside, and we talked about bulbs, and all the time the poor colonel lying murdered. It's a sad world."

"And that is all you have to tell me?"

"I just thought it might be important."

"It might," I agreed.

"Does it concern Mrs. Lestrange?" I asked.

And refusing to be drawn further, much to Miss Hartnell's disappointment, I took my leave.

Miss Wetherby, whom I visited next, received me in a kind of flutter.

"Dear Vicar, how truly kind. You've had tea? Really, you won't? A cushion for your back? It is so kind of you to come round so promptly. Always willing to put yourself out for others."

There was a good deal of this before we came to the point, and even then it was approached with a good deal of circumlocution.

"You must understand that I heard this on the best authority."

"You can't tell me who told you?"

"I promised, dear Mr. Clement. And I always think a promise should be a sacred thing."

She looked very solemn.

"Shall we say a little bird told me? That is safe, isn't it?"

I longed to say: "It's damned silly." I rather wish I had. I should have liked to observe the effect on Miss Wetherby.

"Well, this little bird told that she saw a certain lady who shall be nameless."

"Another kind of bird?" I inquired.

To my great surprise Miss Wetherby went off into paroxysms of laughter and tapped me playfully on the arm, saying:

"O, Vicar, you must not be so naughty."

When she had recovered she went on:

"A certain lady, and where do you think this certain lady was going? She turned into the vicarage road, but before she did so, she looked up and down the road in a most peculiar way—to see if any one she knew were watching her, I imagine."

"And the little bird?" I inquired.

"Paying a visit to the fishmonger's—in the room over the shop."

I now know where maids go on their days out. I know there is one place they never go if they can help—anywhere in the open air.

"And the time," continued Miss Wetherby, leaning forward mysteriously, "was just before six o'clock."

"On which day?"

"The day of the murder, of course, didn't I say so?"

"I inferred it," I replied. "And the name of the lady?"

"Begins with an L," said Miss Wetherby, nodding her head several times.

Feeling that I had got to the end of the information Miss Wetherby had to impart I rose to my feet.

"You won't let the police cross question me, will you," said Miss Wetherby pathetically as she clasped my hand in both of hers. "I do shrink from publicity. And to stand up in court"

"In special cases," I said, "they let witnesses sit down."

And I escaped.

There was still Mrs. Price Ridley to see. That lady put me in my place at once.

"I will not be mixed up in any police court business," she said firmly, almost shaking my hand coldly. "You understand that. On the other hand, having come across a circumstance which needs explaining, I think it should be brought to the notice of the authorities."

"Does it concern Mrs. Lestrange?" I asked.

"Why should it?" demanded Mrs. Price Ridley coldly.

She had me at a disadvantage there.

"It's a very simple matter," she continued. "My maid, Clara, was standing at the front gate, she went down there for a minute or two—she says to get a breath of fresh air. Most unlikely, I should say. Much more likely that she was looking out for the fishmonger's boy—if he calls himself a super-impudent young jackanapes, thinks because he's seventeen he can flirt with all the girls. Anyway, as I say, she was standing at the gate and she heard a sneeze."

"But," I said, "why shouldn't she have heard a sneeze?"

Mrs. Price Ridley looked at me in obvious pity for my poorness of intellect.

"She heard a sneeze on the day of the murder at a time when there was no one in your house. Doubtless the murderer was concealed in the bushes awaiting his opportunity. What you have to look for is a man with a cold in the head."

"Or a sufferer from hay fever," I suggested. "But, as a matter of fact, Mrs. Price Ridley, I think that mystery has a very easy solution. Our maid, Mary, has been suffering from a severe cold in the head. In fact, her sniffing and sneezing has been very much lately. It must have been her sneeze your maid heard."

"It was a man's sneeze," said Mrs. Price Ridley firmly. "And you couldn't hear your maid sneeze in your kitchen from our gate."

"You couldn't hear any one sneezing in the study from your gate," I retorted.

"Or at least I very much doubt it."

"I said the man might have been concealed in the shrubbery," said Mrs. Price Ridley. "Doubtless, when Clara had gone in, he effected an entrance by the front door."

"Well, of course, that's possible," I said.

I tried not to make my voice consciously soothing, but I must have failed, for Mrs. Price Ridley glared at me suddenly.

"I am accustomed not to be listened to, but I might mention also that when a tennis racquet carelessly flung down on the grass without a press completely ruins it. And tennis racquets are very expensive nowadays."

There did not seem to be rhyme or reason in this flank attack. It bewildered me utterly.

"But perhaps you don't agree," said Mrs. Price Ridley.

"Oh, I do—certainly."

Good Morning!

Yes, sir, a three star western! Chock full of scenery, romance, villainy, heroism, humor, Indians, sheep, horses, and suspense. For the panter after sagebrush thrillers, here is a movie to love!

The plot's substance matter bears an old familiar flavor. Again you dip into the history of the Spanish gentleman—with a beautiful daughter—who is about to lose land acquired by Spanish grant to a deceiver who poses as his friend, albeit said grant has been upheld in Washington, WHEN—enters help in the person of a handsome stranger who falls for daughter at first sight. You know that old nucleus? But there's more to this story:

There's the "Indian curse." Long ago, Indians not receiving the sort of hospitality desired from the ancestor of the present master of "Spanish Acres," have laid a curse on the place. Now, every so often, the curse works, appearing in various guises of fire, theft, etc. The current catastrophe is always accompanied by the muffled beating of tomtoms. . . . Well——

Juan Castinado, owner of "Spanish Acres" when the story opens, has a good friend who is ever willing to lend him money to tide him over the effects of "curse" visitations, taking, reluctantly (?), as security the rights to large shares of the property.

Enter the young sheep herder Stan Hollister and his trusty employé, "Doc" Brady, to beg that their hungry flocks be allowed to graze on the grass of "Spanish Acres," Don Castinado to share in the profits from the sheep. You see, the only grass in the vicinity is on the Castinado property. Stan Hollister has Indian herders!

The acting is uniformly good. Mr. Arlen and Rosita Moreno, who, judging from the sound, speaks fluent Spanish, are a delightful couple. Luis Alberni, as the lady's father, and Hooper Atchley, as his friend, are excellent. Indians fill their allotted bill, and laughs a-plenty are provided by Eugene Pallette as "Doc," little Mitzi Green as a foreman's child who believes no man, and Junior Durkin, aged about 14, and cast as an eager follower in the footsteps of Stan Hollister. These two children hold your tickled attention from start to finish of the film. They're funny! They're brave! And they play a big part in saving the day for the ones it should be saved for.

Creditor's man	Eugene Pallette

Barring a couple of comical episodes, this farce comedy with music is far from being hot. True, it has Jack Oakie, but that fact doesn't spell much this trip, for the favorite has gone stale and his famous smile is spontaneous only as an electric sign is spontaneous. It comes and goes like clockwork. The employers of Mr. Oakie will be doing him, themselves and their patrons a kindness if they give their star a rest, bringing him forth again only when they have a worthwhile vehicle for him.

The present incumbrance casts him and a crowd of other folks on a South Sea island after a period of such experiences as the none too interesting story will outline to you from the screen.

A cast of winners supports the star. Trouble's with the material and, I would say, Mr. Oakie's point of view. Indications are that he's getting too fond of Mr. Oakie.

See you soon.

Chicago Fire Offers Lesson for This Week

Various Groups Tell High Cost of Carelessness.

Chicago yesterday began the observance of national fire prevention week. In factories, schools, and public libraries the slogan "fight fire waste with fire prevention" was being repeated at various group gatherings, meeting in accordance with President Hoover's proclamation setting aside this week for concentrated efforts of safety organizations.

The Chicago Safety council planned to carry its campaign this week to the individual for it is here that the responsibility for most blazes rests, according to a safety council bulletin. Charles L. Rice, vice president of the Western Electric company and president of the council, submitted a report showing that fire kills 10,000 persons annually in the United States and that the nation's annual fire loss amounts to $500,000,000.

In Chicago alone fire loss amounted to $15,963,979 during last year, figures released by the fire department showed. This fire cost represents a $3,000,000 increase over that of the previous year which was $12,999,899. The increase in the number of fires is shown in the 31,308 alarms answered during 1929, 2,689 more than during the previous year.

On Wednesday evening the Chicago safety council will give a banquet at the Hotel Sherman to observe the 59th anniversary of the Chicago fire. Dr. W. A. Evans, THE TRIBUNE's health expert, will be the principal speaker.

Excerpts from a letter in the files of the historical committee of the Chicago Woman's club and written by August Kirchoff of Chicago to his parents in Germany a day after the fire of 1871, describes the first recovery of the city from the great fire.

"We have already started to build a postoffice and a telegraph office," the letter said. "The most important dry goods houses [Field, Palmer, and Leiter] are again operating and other businesses are active. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was published again on Tuesday, two days after the fire! As early as Wednesday morning I saw many small building on the far north side—the tiniest huts—the smoke coming from an old stove pipe projecting from the roofs instead of a chimney. The poor unfortunates were cooking their first cup of coffee."

Children's Tag Day Fund May Reach $150,000 Total

Although returns from the tag day for the benefit of fifty charities comprising the Chicago Children's Benefit league had not been counted early last evening, officers of that league expressed a hope that the receipts will not fall far short of the goal of $150,000.

"I believe more people gave this year, but the amounts were in smaller denominations," Mrs. Charles E. Frankenthal said last night. "Many of our friends could not buy tags this year because of the hard times."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

If you seek the drama of ideas, the Theater Guild, beginning its third subscription season at the Blackstone with its organized audience larger and more eager than ever, says: "Here you are—the old master of the intellectual ball-and-cup game offers his latest brain storm, 'The Apple Cart.'" And if you should answer: "Thank you for this overpowering dose of ideas—but where is the drama?" the Guild would add: "Well, Shaw is Shaw, and you can take him or leave him, and that is that."

In this swiftly chattering, but physically inactive charade, which Shaw correctly labels as "a political extravaganza," the laughing philosopher of the British stage has boldly stood up, amid the twilight of the kings, to say a kind word for the monarchical idea. He completes the circle of his career of paradoxes by taking the witness stand against democracy.

With typical Shavian recalcitrance, with that chronic glee for jumping from one side of the fence to the other which has marked his mental acrobatics through forty plays, Shaw, in "The Apple Cart," takes a merry nip at the hand which has been feeding him ever since he was a soap box Socialist orator. Later on, of course, when the play is published, he will supply it with a preface in which he will deny everything. The charge that he has turned monarchist in his old age, just as Voltaire called for a priest in his last illness, will be refuted in a torrent of words.

Nevertheless, it has amused the eloquent old gentleman to present an argument in favor of "the king business," and as arguments in dialogue go it is a masterpiece. It would cause a puritan to accept with tolerance the amorous recreations of that hard-working young fellow, Carol of Rumania. It might even convince Mayor Thompson that he and King George are really members of the same lodge and ought to stick together.

Shaw slyly begs the question, however, by making his King Magnus of a future England, resisting his cabinet's attempt to shear him of his last prerogative, a Strong Man—a ruler who understands the business of government better than the representatives of the masses. Behind his comic mask Shaw is not arguing in favor of the divine rights of kings so much as he is talking in favor of public officials who know their jobs. This King Magnus is one of that breed. But for the mischance that made him the ornamental monarch of England in 1970, or thereabouts, he would have been an important figure in an industrialized world.

So much for the content of "The Apple Cart." As a play, without reference to the validity of its ideas, it is a thin invention. It is like a libretto for a musical comedy, and as its bright chatter flutters along one begins to yearn for the dancing girls who should come racing out now and then to put rhythm and grace into the fantasy.

But even here Magnus is truly great. He resists the siren's attempt to marry him. . . . As a scene of sex relief this episode is diverting; but it shows that the abstinent Shaw lacks practice in the comedy of passion.

This curious play, which will be dull to every one except Shavian devotees of long standing, has been staged in the Theater Guild's most exemplary manner. Expert acting gives the extravaganza an air of reality. Tom Powers, as Magnus; Claude Rains, as a cunning and cantankerous prime minister, and Violet Kemble Cooper, as the flamboyant Orinthia—a brilliant symbol of the gaudy vanity of the courtesan type—are the leading figures in an admirable cast.

Draws Electric Current from Vagaries of Sea

Frenchman Lights 400 Lamps of 500 Watts.

MATANZAS, Cuba, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Prof. Georges Claude before a gathering of engineers and scientific men in his laboratory today produced sufficient electrical energy through utilizing variations in temperature of gulf stream water to light forty 500 watt bulbs and keep them burning.

The demonstration was viewed by those present as the forerunner of a great revolution in industrial power methods.

The French scientist, after five years of experimentation with a theory pronounced impracticable by some leaders in the field of hydraulics, kept the bulbs burning for more than half an hour.

Prof. Claude stood in front of a huge control board containing many levers, buttons, and gauges. He pressed a switch starting the pumps that bring up cold sea water from the depths of Matanzas bay a mile from shore.

Slowly at first, then with increasing volume, the cold draughts of water began to flow from the tube, more than 4,000 feet long, which the scientist had laid a month ago on the bottom of the bay.

At the same time warm water from the surface of the gulf stream began to flow into the huge vacuum tanks. It was there converted into steam. Within a few moments the steam reached such a pressure that the adjacent turbines began to revolve. The speed picked up until several thousand revolutions per minute were recorded on the turbines.

The cold water flowed about the vacuum tanks, condensing steam in one while the other was filling. The condensation produced a fresh vacuum, so that by the time the full tank was exhausted the other was ready to begin functioning.

Everything was running smoothly, but Prof. Claude did not hurry with the power producing demonstration. Before giving the signal to turn on the generators he permitted the turbines to gather high speed.

Once the generators were on, the 40 big bulbs, arranged in rows, began to burn dimly. Then as the generators attained full speed, they became increasingly bright.

The demonstration lasted long enough to convince the most skeptical of those present that the inventor's scheme was successful. Among the witnesses were representatives of well known Cuban engineering and scientific societies, many well known engineers, a group from the Havana Academy of Science, high officials of the Cuban government, which is deeply interested in the project, and newspapermen.

The French scientist, who has labored tirelessly and expended more than $2,000,000 of his own money to carry on the work, in the face of numerous reverses, calmly received a chorus of congratulations.

He said he intended to continue improving his plant during the next few weeks, to secure the greatest possible efficiency from his machinery.

Pere Marquette Statue to Be Unveiled Sunday

A bronze statue of Pere Marquette will be unveiled next Sunday on the new Damen avenue bridge over the south branch of the river.

Parades of school children, Boy Scouts, French, and fraternal societies will meet at the monument. Charles b. Pike, president of the Chicago Historical society, will unveil the statue following a tableau showing Father Marquette accepting an Indian pipe of peace.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An account of the capture of Walter McIntosh, alleged "pants bandit," in last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE, gave his address as 10324 South Peoria street. P. R. Stephani, who lives at that address, says that McIntosh lived three doors to the south.

The woman who gave her name as Mrs. Betty Johnson, 2716 Hampden court, following the shooting of her brother in a robbery as reported in THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 6, never lived at the Hampden Apartment hotel, according to J. G. Cummings, manager. Her sister lives there.

Tattooed Nails, with Sandals, Fad in London

Tattooed toe nails are the latest fad in self-adornment among the London ladies of the Mayfair drawing rooms. Mrs. Ruth D. Maurer, New York beauty expert, just back from a London trip, spoke yesterday at the convention of beauty culture and barber supply dealers in the Palmer House. She reported that tinting the nails is becoming passe in the Bond street beauty salons and that painting pictures on them is the latest wrinkle.

"The fad was introduced by a daring little viscountess," Mrs. Maurer said. "She appeared at a recent musical with bars of music painted on opal tinted nails. Jeweled sandals revealed the same treatment on her toenails as on her fingers."

Scout Who Saved Life Will Get Gold Medal

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 6.—(AP)—Dr. E. K. Fretwell, acting chairman of the educational committee, will present Norman Sanders, Decatur Boy Scout, a gold life saving medal at a public ceremony in Decatur Thursday afternoon. Sanders saved Amos Dunham from drowning in the Sangamon river near Decatur last June 13, later applying resuscitation methods learned in his scout training.

NOTABLES DEDICATE PARK MEMORIAL TO G. WESTINGHOUSE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6.—(AP)—In a secluded glen in Schenley park a memorial to George Westinghouse, inventor, was dedicated today.

Leaders in science, industry and government participated in the unveiling. George Westinghouse was the son of a Scoharie county, New York, blacksmith.

"Characters such as he well deserved to be honored by their contemporaries and their successors," President Hoover said in a brief message. "You do well to commemorate his memory."

"His faith in himself and in the future of America were outstanding features of his life," James Francis Burke, Pittsburgher, who is counsel for the Republican national committee, said in the principal address of the day. "He transmitted that faith and all the inspiration it imparts to those who came after him."

Style Display for St. Luke's Will Be Novel

BY THALIA

Members of the women's board of St. Luke's hospital reported progress yesterday on the plans for the annual benefit fashion show to be given on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 21 at the Stevens hotel. They met at a delightful luncheon held yesterday at the Casino.

Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the board, told of the clever new stage setting devised to show off the models to better advantage. The mannequins are to descend a black and gold staircase from the balcony to a runway erected above the heads of the audience.

Inasmuch as an invitation to appear as one of the mannequins is a tacit compliment to the good looks of the guest, Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy's list of the young women who are to walk in the fashion parade is interesting. It includes about an equal number of decided blondes and brunettes, with a fair share of "mediums," and two gleaming auburn tresses. The blondes are Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. J. Dallas Davis, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Miss Barbara King, Mrs. Sidney Love, Miss Jean Stevens, and Miss Janet Kirk. The decidedly brunette ones are Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Fress Hodgkins, Mrs. Harold Stuart, Mrs. Lytton Benello, Mrs. John Payne Kellogg, Miss Roberta Harvey, and Mrs. Russell Forgan.

Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr. and Miss Frances Noyes are auburn haired. Those not to be so definitely classified include Miss Dorothy Ranney, Mrs. Robert S. Firis, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Russell Kelley, Miss Betty Wood, Mrs. Howard Peabody, Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, Mrs. Harry L. Cler Jr., Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis, Mrs. Wilbur Smith, Mrs. Kimball Sallee, Mrs. John Finlay, Mrs. Cathcart Bartholomay Osborne, and Miss Barbara Poole.

This year's debutantes have been pressed to help with the show, and some of them are to be models and others to sell cigarets. The models and the cigaret girls are to have their first meeting at a tea at Mrs. Walter Fisk's apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive on Thursday afternoon.

The Drama league's first meeting of the season yesterday afternoon at the Casino attracted a large representation of members and guests to hear Alice G. Worrell—tell of the Personalities of the Irish Literary Movement" and to have tea afterwards. Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., president of the league, introduced the speaker and Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and Mrs. Waller Borden presided at the tea table. Mrs. Miner wore a suit of gray duvetyn trimmed with bands of krimmer fur, and a small hat to match.

Mrs. McCormick was in black velvet with black galyak and wore a close-face hat of black velvet. Others present included Miss Helen Swift, chairman of the program committee, who gave a short "sales talk" on the Junior League Children's theater; Mrs. Hayden Harris, Mrs. Edwin A. Noyes, Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, Mrs. Agnes Foreman, Miss Lucy Marshall, Mrs. Charles W. McNear, Mrs. Charles E. Hackett, Mrs. Edward Ryerson and her daughter, Mrs. Howell Ryerson, and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie (Mary Borden).

Many fashionables are to be found at new addresses this fall. Mrs. Arthur T. Evans has moved from 1244 Astor street to 220 East Walton place and Mr. and Mrs. Alan C Dixons are now at home in their new apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive, having moved from 1540 East Delaware place.

Mrs. Huntington B. Henrys, who have let the John E. Baker house in Lake Forest, have moved into town and are at their apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Miss Leslie Thorne, daughter of the Charles H. Thornes, has delayed her departure for New York in order to do a group of seven murals for Vassar house, the restaurant conducted by alumnae of Vassar for a scholarship fund. The decorations are to depict the "seven ages of Vassar" and are to be in gold on black panels. After she completes her job, Miss Thorne will return to New York. She studies art there during the winter. She has been with her parents at their summer place at Les Cheneaux islands, Michigan, this summer.

Mrs. Milton Wilson is here from Santa Barbara, Cal., for a visit with her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. Crane Wilson of Evanston.

Mrs. Arthur Bissell and Mrs. James Weber Linn returned the day before yesterday from Europe, where they have been traveling since early summer.

'Topaze' Opens Season of Dramatic League at Princess Theater

The Dramatic League of Chicago opened its second subscription season last night at the Princess theater with the showing of "Topaze," the French comedy which went the rounds of the continental theaters before serving as a hit in New York during last winter.

If familiarity with the situations has anything to do with the success of Marcel Pagnol's story of a French schoolmaster who deserted his schoolroom to cut in on a grafter's public boodle, "Topaze" will have a favorable run in Chicago.

Last night's performance was received with more enthusiasm than is required of an audience of subscribing guarantors. The naïve observations of the timid schoolmaster on morality in public life were applauded by such public men as Russell Forgan, Judge John H. Lyle, and Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court.

Frank Morgan acts the part of the schoolmaster. Catherine Willard is his leading woman. The well-balanced cast includes a group of promising youngsters who play in the schoolroom scene.

Among those in the audience were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. Waller Borden, Russell Tyson, Arthur Bissell, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boyden Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dennehy.

PICTURES OF CHICAGO BY RICHARD CHASE SHOW VARIED PHASES

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Richard A. Chase has the first of the two exhibition rooms at the Chicago Galleries association. His group of paintings consists of fifty scenes of Chicago in water color. Possibly water color is not a sufficiently virile medium with which to catch the essentials of the Chicago spirit, but it has come close. Fountains and parks, boulevards and business streets, the river and the lake front, each detail of the Chicago development is touched upon.

Mr. Chase summaries Chicago in clear, frank tones, blues and whites, and if he makes her a little the story book city, at all events he keeps her skirts clear of the mud. No gangsters, riots, stock yards, nor smoke disfigure his conception.

From Chicago, L. O. Griffith carries us in the next room to a wide view of Brown county. These landscapes are in oil and have depth and a placid beauty that has grown with the practice of Mr. Griffith's brush. If pictures could croon, these would. They are warm, human, persuasive, and low keyed. They are rich in sentiment. Poetry trails them. You will go far to find more liveable pictures. Two which stand out are "Windy Day," gray shacks against a stormy sky, and "Anita's Well," a delicate and charming little sketch, delightfully perfect.

Tunis Ponsen completes the group of exhibitors. His paintings are fresh and vigorous, enthusiastic and virginal. They are like the pipes of dawn calling to a world where the dew still lingers in the half awakened flowers and where dryads vanish into oaks as the mists of morning shift and disappear. He paints Maine, with its boats and docks and cloud-flecked skies; Holland, serene, picturesque, and mellow. There may be a few canvases you will not like, but the majority are vastly worth while.

"A Farm Yard Near Delft," "Farm Houses in Gelderland"—these two you will not easily tear yourself from—and most subtly decorative is his interior, "Reflections and Still Life."

The exhibition will continue to Oct. 25.

Field Museum Gets Relics of Americans of 3,000 Years Ago

Evidence of three distinct ancient American civilizations, the oldest about 3,000 years, in the Lowry ruin, southwestern Colorado, were brought to Chicago yesterday by Dr. Paul S. Martin, leader of the Field museum archaeological expedition to the southwest.

Three separate strata were uncovered, each with a communal house, symbolizing three different orders of civilization. Each communal house, or kiva, was constructed on the ruins of the other. Material found in the ruins, never previously explored, will furnish a new hall of archaeology at the museum.

If you don't succeed at first, try, try again, is advice persistently followed when it comes to eating olives. How many of us were spurred on when we heard that old saying, "You have to eat three olives before you can learn to like them!" Or did we get the idea somewhere that a certain sophistication comes with the ability to eat olives which is well worth the struggle. In any event the most of us had to keep tasting olives until we acquired a liking for their flavor.

Olives are worth eating. They are attractive, appetizing and nutritious. Epicures consider the delicate flavor of olives—green or black—one of the finest. Appreciation in this country is steadily increasing the consumption.

Few people think of olives as pickled fruit, but they really undergo a pickling process before they reach the consumer. Green olives are picked from the tree before ripened, washed and placed in a solution of soda or potash lye to reduce the bitterness and soften the skin. They are then rewashed and put into a pickling brine of salt and vinegar. A perfect pickled green olive is yellowish green, firm with a pinkish pit and an agreeable flavor. The olive must have all these characteristics to be of the best quality. Poorer quality olives are dark, with soft and mushy or woody and tasteless meat.

Ripe olives are allowed to ripen on the tree and are then treated in the same manner as the green olives. The perfect ripe or "black" olive is brown to purplish black on the exterior. The pulp is dark due to the development of the oil in the ripening process.

Olives are food and must be considered as such. Six to eight olives, ripe or green, will yield one hundred calories. Green ones are usually served as a relish, either plain or stuffed with peppers or celery. Olives stuffed with pimentos are called pamolas. The ripe olives may be used either as a relish or when finely chopped as a garnish in the place of truffles [black mushrooms]. Olives are most attractive when served in a small quantity of brine and cracked ice after being chilled in the refrigerator. Never rinse olives in water before serving them.

OLIVE SAUCE [FOR BEEF].
2 cups brown stock.
Salt and pepper.
12 stoned olives, sliced.

Heat the fat, add flour and cook until slightly browned, stirring constantly. Add stock gradually, stirring all the time and cook until thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add olives which have been cooked in the stock for ten minutes and the grated onion.

Yield: Six servings. One serving: Total, 121 calories; protein, 3 calories; fat, 95 calories; carbohydrates, 23 calories.

FOR ANY CHILD

CHILDREN are happy and carefree by nature, so when they cry for no apparent reason any careful mother worries. No one can always guess just what is wrong but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as baby has a fretful spell, is feverish and cross and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes it is constipation. Just keep Castoria handy and give freely for any of the above conditions; relief will follow promptly.

All through babyhood, Castoria is a mother's standby, and wise mothers do not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Just increase the dose of Castoria and keep the youngster's stomach sweet and the bowels in good order.

To be sure of getting genuine Fletcher's Castoria you should look for this signature: Chas. H. Fletcher

CLARK
"Strike Up The Band" brought its reputation as a smash hit of New York to the Selwyn last night. It is a gay travesty on habits and methods of industrial magnates. No vein of humor can remain high brow while Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough are jumping through the hoops of their crazy line of comedy.
—CHARLES COLLINS, Tribune.

McCULLOUGH
"Strike Up The Band" is one of the best music shows I've ever seen. The presence of Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough in the cast provides a show not only for the Gilbert and Sullivanites but for the Sophie Tuckerooms as well. "Strike Up The Band" was everybody's fun last evening.
—ASHTON STEVENS, Examiner.

STRIKE
Bobby Clark defeats the Great. Comedian proves lamboomine ability in "Strike Up The Band." He could be the Ruth Draper of burlesque, the Will Rogers of pantomime.

Exercise Before Dinner Brightens Up the Evening

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A certain person known to me was considering the purchase of a house in the suburbs. One house of strong appeal was situated some distances from the station, and that more than anything else determined the woman against the purchase. She said: "But it's twelve minutes' walk from the station."

We are getting like that. A twelve minute walk looks like a day's work instead of a perfectly excellent method daily, morning and night, of getting in some worthwhile leg movement to keep them from atrophying!

There are women—and men, too—living in suburbs who have to be met at the depot to cover a seven, ten, or twelve minute stretch to their homes, foregoing an easy and agreeable form of locomotion that would be better for them than riding in a car. That little walk before dinner time is good. If, after it, one gets under a shower, jumps into fresh clothes, the evening stretches forth a far more pleasant thing and more likely to inspire profitable activity, social and mental, than when one takes no opportunity to stir up one's lethargy with a few good muscular turns.

Right at this moment is the time to make a few walking resolutions and stick to them during the fall. There is no season when walking is quite so pleasant. Brisk days, brisk winds, turning leaves and charming scenes, all for the resolution to get out on foot for thirty minutes a day.

What happens in the average life when the evenings lengthen with the change in daylight saving hours is a retirement behind house doors. O, yes, sometimes courage will be raised for a trip to the opera, the theater, or the movies, but the tendency is to let life drift on as easily and with as little effort as possible. The older business woman, the last person in the world who should contribute to stagnation in any way, gives herself over to a complete letdown, sometimes reading a bit, sometimes washing out a few things, puttering around, and finally getting into bed.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Caused by a Dime.

Just a few days ago I visited one of my friends. Before leaving my home I put a pair of stockings in my purse, which also contained a coin purse, the top of which does not close completely.

After I reached my friend's house I laid the stockings on the table. It happened that a dime was also there. Knowing that my coin purse did not shut properly I thought the dime belonged to me, so I kept it.

A little later my friend asked her father to get something from the store and explained that the money had been on the table. Imagine my embarrassment when I told her I had taken the money by mistake. A. P.

Family in Need.

"I have been out of work for some time and have five small children to care for. The boys, 4 and 6, need clothing, and the little girl, 8, needs warm things for school. We have no blankets and need a small heating stove, rugs, a few chairs, dishes, and utensils. Anything you can do to help me will be greatly appreciated.

This man has walked the streets for months in his search for employment, and is feeling a bit discouraged at his lack of success. With the beginning of cool weather his problem becomes even greater, for the children need warmer clothing and there are no blankets to cover them at night.

Furs Undergo Smart Attack of Paris Blues

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Practically every self-respecting suit in Paris is trimmed with fur these days, and furs are turning all colors of the rainbow in their effort to keep up with the vogue for variety. Furs dyed brown to match the costume are, of course, an old story, but Suzanne Talbot is using green furs, Chanel likes her's rose pink, and Martial et Armand have some bright red.

But the favorite fur color is, unquestionably, blue. Lelong, Augustabernard, Lenief, Madeline, as well as a number of other Paris creators, like to trim dark blue costumes with breitschwanz, shaved lamb or ermine, all suffering from a smart attack of Paris Blues and this shade in fur is most becoming, and dark enough to escape eccentricity.

This dressy afternoon suit from Martial et Armand in sapphire blue velvet has its fox collar dyed blue to match. It is cuffless, having its lower sleeves slightly puffed by a series of small horizontal darts running up the inner forearm.

It boasts no less than two chic cutaway peplums. One on the coat, which is draped in around the waist, where it fastens with a single sapphire button. The second tunic is part of the dress, in which it is incrusted in the back, while its curved fronts flare free.

The skirt is flared low by means of a circular flounce set in at sides and back. It is ten inches from the floor—a good, safe afternoon length—sartorially speaking, of course! The upper part of the waist and the short sleeves are of thick, shining, white satin.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

Better Play Dumb When It Comes to Telling Good Jokes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you're not the kind of girl who can tell a risque story and get away with it, don't try to be her. Don't tell that kind of story, anyway. But don't tell it if you're just trying to show what a good sport you can be. It's fatal in either event.

There are some jobs that still ought to be left to the men, this one most emphatically. If you are in a position where you cannot ease out gracefully when such stories are being told, turn a deaf ear and change the subject. Changing the subject is the best form of reprimand. Nothing more need be said or done.

Ruth has had an experience that proves the ineffectiveness of playing at a game at which you are inapt. She fell in with a set that went in for what she calls "parlor jokes," but from the dénouement of her tale they probably did not belong in the parlor category at all. Her heart became much involved with a young man whom she introduced into the circle of "broad minded" story tellers.

One evening probably the one about the traveling salesman was started, from which Ruth took her cue and she dived in with hers. The gentleman involved did not see the joke. Nor did he see Miss Ruth thereafter, which is now her sad concern. Ruth learned, however, from the woman at whose home said young man resides that he stated in bald terms that he would never marry a girl who could speak in the manner she did.

"I feel cheap and common now," Ruth admits, "and am so sorry that I ever allowed myself to be what they call a 'good sport.' I am sure that I shall never speak in that way again and will regret that I did so for the rest of my life. If he had only told me he did not think it ladylike I would have given him all due credit and acknowledged my mistake. Instead, he talked behind my back."

There is no reason why a young man should take on the reformer rôle with one young woman when there are so many about whom he need not exercise his wits to make over. Better by far to play the Miss Innocent if one has to play act at anything.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Encourage Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend tells my chum that he cares for me, but when I'm around he acts shy and seldom speaks. Does he care?

"SUE."

I think he cares, but is of that bashful type that needs encouragement from you.

Time Spenders.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend and I go with two boys who never take us out. They told us they haven't much money. Please advise. PRETTY."

When boys call repeatedly they at least should save up for an occasional movie or dance.

Consuls' Wives' Meeting.

The Ladies of the Consuls of Chicago, an organization composed of consuls' wives, are to be guests of Mrs. Berthold Singer at the opening luncheon of the year today at the Belden-Stratford hotel.

Bright Sayings of the Children

During the recent hot weather the children were playing store. Jane came to buy and said: "Please, I want a cold (electric) fan. No one at our house can eat or sleep because we are troubled with this terrible hotness."

THEY ARE so important if he is to grow up healthy—and with sound, regular permanent teeth. But how will you decide the best way to care for your child's teeth and gums? You read so many conflicting theories. There are dozens of different dentifrices. Which is right? ★★ E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a leading research institution to tabulate opinions among 50,000 practicing dentists. Here is the summary of the replies received:

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Isn't this strong assurance that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your child's teeth and gums? For it is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia. ★★ Squibb's is so safe too. Laughs from the Want Ads of 1880

For those who think history a dry, musty study, we recommend a half hour with the Chicago Tribune of 1880. Especially do we urge a study of the want ad section, which was in those days much more frank and personal even in the want ads placed by business firms. Perhaps that is the only reason why we think them funny, because they were more human. The following are a few want ads picked from the issues of the Tribune, 1880:

Honesty—$1 Weekly Wages!

WANTED—THREE SMALL GIRLS TO wait on work-rooms. None need apply only where they have parents that can be responsible for honesty. Wages $1 and $2 weekly. 75, State Street.

2,379,510 SEEK WANT AD OPPORTUNITIES

Reply Total Big as U. S. War Army.

In 1918 the United States army totaled 2,219,685 men and officers. In the first eight months of 1930 the Want Ad postoffice of The Chicago Tribune at 7 South Dearborn received and distributed enough replies to Tribune Want Ads to give one letter to each man in that great army and have enough left over to enable 159,825 men to come back for "seconds!"

Open 24 Hours a Day.

The Want Ad postoffice is perhaps one of the busiest operated by private concerns in Chicago. Its doors are open 24 hours a day, so no matter at what time you wish to drop your reply in the numbered chutes, there is always some one there to give your reply immediate service. During the early days of the week the force on duty ranges from six to ten men, all of whom are former government postoffice employes.

Laid Out Like Real Postoffice.

The same plan that is used by the government is also used in The Tribune Want Ad Postoffice. Pigeon holes, each bearing a number instead of a name or an initial, are ranged along behind the counter. These pigeon holes are arranged in series, numbering from 100 to 600, and enough of them is available for each key letter series.

On the counter is placed a metal reply receiver or container. Here replies to want ads may be dropped at any time. Replies received by special delivery or by telegram are placed immediately in the pigeon hole bearing the number to which the reply has been addressed. Replies to want ads may also be deposited at The Tribune Want Ad stores, 1101 East 63d street, 4152 West Madison street, or in the lobby of the Tribune Tower.

1930 Sees Record Broken.

The year of 1930 has been one of many opportunities, if the want ad replies received by The Tribune serve as an indicator. The total number of replies received up to Sept. 1 was 2,378,510. The largest week in that period brought in 51,223 replies, and on one day alone during this period 49,725 replies were received, proving that The Tribune, with a circulation much larger than any other newspaper in Chicago, and unusual reader interest can do your job of advertising alone.

Dash to Reno and One In Renovate Cleans Up $3 Prize

In 1859, Americans pursuing happiness, dashed to Nevada when the Comstock Lode was found. For most of them, this dash ended in a complete separation from all worldly possessions. Some of them did make money, and became the "bonanza kings" history records.

The Modern Version.

To this generation, a dash to Nevada still means complete separation from all worldly possessions. However, dainty "dashees" have supplanted the hardy dashers of 71 years ago—Reno, instead of Comstock is their destination—and two-fisted miners who made good have been succeeded by soft-spoken divorce court judges who also have found "pay dirt" in large quantities.

Miss Mary Howser, 524 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, knew just when and where a dash would be appropriate, and won $3 by applying it to the following want ad and the word, renovate.

ANY ONE GOING TO RENO NEED-ing maid or housemaid, address L E 00, Tribune.

A Theme Song.

WILL TRADE LADY'S FUR COAT FOR repeating shotgun. Sunnyside 0000.

He says plot for theme song to be entitled, "Oh, the honeymoon is over with the good old summertime!" O, yes, the hunting season does open in the fall!

Stable Apartments.

taken back by builder, will sacrifice for $84,000; 2 yrs. old, 4 and 5 rms., refrig.; firmly locate in 0000 blk. on N. Keystone-av. $7,000 to handle; Ph. Irving 0000. 0000 So. Crawford.

Mrs. Thomas Humble, 1140 North La Salle street, liked this apartment building. So do we, if her interpretation is correct.

She says, "Just what I've been looking for. A house so firmly located that even foreclosure cannot shake it loose."

Keep 'em comin', Wise Crack fans! There's room for more. Just go through all the Tribune Want Ads every day, and send your contributions to Interesting Want Ads, Chicago Tribune, 1015 Tribune Tower, Chicago. As the miners of '59 used to say, "There's gold in them thar hills!"

Music Practice Periods Often of Wearying Length

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Yesterday a letter about children practicing in connection with the study of a musical instrument was printed and the subject partly discussed. Personally, I believe that interest should lie behind any such thing as continued effort of a child. If he or she really wants to learn to play a musical instrument, then I think the practicing should be worked out without constant friction between parents and children—and if it cannot be, I think it should be dropped.

If a child has no desire to play and simply has it foisted on him or her because the parents want a musician in the family, I consider it a waste of time and effort. It would be infinitely wiser to find out what talent the child has, whether in the arts or not, and let that energy be expended in developing a legitimate interest.

However, sometimes the difficulty over practicing is an absurdly simple one. It often consists solely of the fact that the period of practicing is too long and is allotted to the wrong time of day. Three-quarters of an hour, and that when the body needs sunshine and when outdoors and companions are calling is an eternity—often, of course, one has the divine spark.

If the boy mentioned in yesterday's letter were mine I should reduce his time at the piano to fifteen minutes of careful practicing and see how that works, and have him choose the time of day for it, himself. Certainly, the study of music [which is harmony] should not be the cause of nagging and nervousness [which is discord].

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Rare specimens of cacti native to the western hemisphere are being gathered from all parts of the world by August Koch, chief florist of Garfield park conservatory, so that he may stock what is to be known as the "succulent house."

One hundred and two cacti already have been planted. They range in height from two inches to more than ten feet. One is known as "the old man" cactus, as it grows with long white attachments. Century plants will occupy a portion of the house. The yucca, native of southwestern United States and Mexico and from which native Mexicans make soap, is one of the tree-like specimens represented. The cholla, which has a cylindrical stem buried in spines, is another unusual plant.

One cactus is called "pleasant dreams" because it was so named by Indians in Arizona who gather it and incorporate it in their diet. A large portion of the present collection was shipped from Arizona, where a collector found many that weighed 40 to 50 pounds and one that weighs 85 pounds.

The succulent house, when completely stocked, will have plants from South Africa, South America, North America, and the West Indies, mostly from arid and desert regions. Two months were spent in building a rockery as suitable background for the cacti and kindred collections. The exhibition is to be a permanent group and is located on the west side, near the west entrance of the conservatory.
